CHINESE MAKE GALA EVENT OF YANKS' ARRIVAL

Shanghai Welcome to British Is Cool

BY JOSEPH HEARST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

SHANGHAI, China, Sept. 21—Chinese, from high officials to coolies, are making a great show of welcoming the American navy back, but it is apparent that the welcome mat for the British will be put out reluctantly, if it is put out at all.

One high placed Chinese at a reception last night for senior officers of Adm. Kinkaid's 7th fleet, summed up the situation when he said:

"The British probably will retain Hong Kong and lose China."

This contrast in the feelings for the two powers that have played an important role in China's affairs for many years was clearly shown when a parade up the Nanking and the Bubbling Well roads was held to "welcome our victorious heroes."

Signs Welcome Americans

The occasion was the autumn moon cake festival, observed as a holiday with many stores closed and thousands of persons lining the streets to watch the passing bands. Chinese soldiers armed with American and allied guns, and youth groups. Scores of big signs stretched across the streets, the majority of which featured the return of the Americans rather than of the British, altho some of the signs welcomed the "allied fleet."

Observers who have had long experience in China say that these feelings undoubtedly stem from the fact that the Chinese are well aware that it was America that supplied them arms and ammunition and helped train their troops, and that it was American sea and air power which decisively whipped the Jap navy. In addition, they say the attitude of the British toward the Chinese in the days when the international settlement was known as the "British concession," is another reason why the Chinese are not overly happy to see the British back in the city.

Chinese Like New Powers

In those days, these observers say, the British ran the international settlement with a firm hand with Chinese barred from the swank clubs, altho Japs and other foreigners were admitted. British police patroled the international city, supervised the big race track with its soccer, tennis, cricket and polo grounds, and generally ran the show, but today the Chinese are in charge and apparently they like their newly acquired powers.

Chinese soldiers, flown into Shanghai by the United States 14th air force a few weeks ago, to disarm and imprison Jap troops, now patrol certain areas, have set up road blocks, and maintain armed sentries with machine gun emplacements. The Chinese troops are being billeted in some of Shanghai's finest homes from which Chinese residents who lived there thruout the Jap occupation are being evicted.

Red Army Men and Women in One Barracks

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

SEOUL, Korea, Sept. 16 [Delayed]—"In the Russian army we women do everything that the men do," Capt. Maria Vorshinovna said. And from what limited contacts Americans have had with the Red army on Korea, she meant what she said.

Take the captain, herself, for example. She is 42, a widow with a 15 year old daughter. Her hair is graying. Yet for three years she has been commanding a rifle company. She looks like a mother who should be sitting at home making borscht, but she proudly exhibits the pistol she carries on her hip—it's loaded—and when asked if she ever used it she said: "It has killed many. I bet you thought it was not a real gun."

Americans here met their first Russian women soldiers when a special train took six of us to Kinko—15 miles within the Russian zone. There, in the railroad yards, women were working alongside the men unloading trucks, tanks, and guns from railroad cars. They were just as grimy, just as sweaty as the men, and they were just as stocky. You could identify them by their long hair, skirts, and a curve or two.

Companies Are Mixed

Later, when four of us correspondents were kept one day under guard at Pyongyang Red army headquarters, where we were taken off another special train that supposedly was taking us into Manchuria, Maria told us more.

She said her company was composed of both men and women. We tried to find out how many of each, but she would reply only, "many." She said the number varies from outfit to outfit, apparently just as in our army the number of red heads differs.

She rolled off half a dozen names and was surprised we hadn't heard about them. "They are Red aces, and every one a woman." She said that, of course, we had heard about women guerrillas. "They have killed many," she said.

Live in One Barracks

She sidetracked questions as to how the men and women soldiers lived. But the crew of a Mitchell bomber which stopped at Pyongyang learned at first hand.

The crew was kept under guard for a day and a half in a barracks near the air field. Women mechanics were working on planes on the field, and the Americans were curious as to where they stayed. One big room was assigned to the women, but the men paraded thru it at will, just as the women walked thru the men's section. Men and women used the same bathrooms.

Every one ate together. One American crew member attempted to learn the data on a woman sitting near him. He asked a Russian interpreter if she was married. The Russian ignored him. He asked again. The Russian said: "I understood you the first time." The Yank gave up.

THE OLD BAZOOKA SHOOTS BOTH WAYS

Sedition Trial Attorney Sues Biddle and 4

BY WILLIAM STRAND
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21—A million dollar damage suit growing out of the government's mass sedition case was filed in the District of Columbia federal court today by James J. Laughlin, counsel for several of the alleged seditionists. The five defendants include former Atty. Gen. Biddle and Samuel I. Rosenman, adviser and ghost writer for the late President Roosevelt.

James J. Laughlin

They are charged with having conspired to bring false charges of alibi fixing in another case against Laughlin as a result of his efforts in behalf of his clients in the sedition case.

In his suit Laughlin asserted that his vigorous defense against the sedition indictments angered Mr. Roosevelt and that it was after "a conversation between the late President and Rosenman" that the administration sought "to concoct a criminal charge against the plaintiff."

Rogge, Bennett Named

Others named defendants are O. John Rogge, special prosecutor in the sedition case; James V. Bennett, director of the federal bureau of prisons; and Joseph W. Santord, warden of the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga. Damages of $200,000 from each of the five are asked.

The sedition case, charging more than a score of defendants with attempting to establish a nazi form of government in the United States, has dragged thru the federal courts for more than two years. Three indictments were returned and the first trial ended in a mistrial after eight months upon the death of the presiding judge, Justice Edward C. Eicher.

Reprisal Scheme Charged

Laughlin, who at one time sought to have Justice Eicher impeached, alleges that the Roosevelt administration's reprisal against him took the form of a charge that he had conspired with unnamed inmates of a Florida prison to arrange a false alibi for a client in a criminal case in 1942.

He said Biddle set the machinery in motion for this prosecution with the knowledge of Rosenman and Rogge, directing agents of the federal bureau of investigation to interview convicts in federal prisons. The convicts were promised reduced sentences if they testified against him, Laughlin charged.

PATIENCE OF BRITAIN STRAINED BY U. S., NEW ZEALAND TOLD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Sept. 21—New Zealand newspapers today published a Press Association [British] dispatch from its special correspondent in London charging that Americans were doing their best to estrange themselves from Britain.

"At various times British patience has been strained by the raucousness of American comment," the correspondent said, "and the present American discussions of lend-lease, involving opposition to granting Britain aid, do not endear the United States to the British."

"American criticism of British empire preference and "convenient forgetfulness of their own high tariff system doesn't count to the Americans' credit, either," the correspondent said.

CHEVALIER WINS EXONERATION; TO SING WITH YANKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Sept. 21—The central purge committee today definitely cleared Maurice Chevalier of all collaboration charges. Immediately upon being informed of the committee's action, the United States army gave the singing comedian permission to appear with GIs in a film being produced at Nice.

Martin Fabiani, multimillionaire art dealer, race horse owner, and man about town, was jailed today following an investigation which is alleged to have shown that he accumulated a fabulous fortune during the occupation by selling old masters to representatives of Hitler, Goering, and other Nazis and by buying up modern masterpieces which the Germans stole from the Jews but discarded because they were "decadent."

The arrest of Fabiani, who is 47, interrupts a meteoric career that started in 1941 when he acquired the collection of moder- masters left by the late Ambroise Vollard. Fabiani opened a luxurious gallery near the Champs Elysees, got himself appointed art expert for the French customs and allegedly began working with the naz' art fuehrer. He staged elaborate parties in his palatial Champs Elysees apartment and acquired a stable of race horses.

Report Science Finds Way to Defeat Atomic Bomb

LONDON, Sept. 22 [Saturday]—(AP)—The London Daily Express said today that United States and British scientists have devised counter-weapons to the atomic bomb which are in advanced stages of development. The paper's science writer reported that the principles of British radar, German rockets, and American fuses are being combined to produce projectiles capable of destroying planes or rockets carrying atom bombs.

Windsors Plan to Live in U.S., Paris Is Told

BY HENRY WALES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Sept. 21—The British embassy announced today that Edward and Wallis Windsor were expected in Paris tomorrow for breakfast.

An embassy secretary said that he believes the former king of England and his American born wife will return to America soon for a permanent domicile.

"At first," he said, "it was believed they would go to Cap Antibes [on the Mediterranean coast] for the winter but now I am informed the duke intends to inspect various properties, perhaps dispose of some, and then go back to America, where he seems to have been very happy, to live."

Will Go to London

Attaches of the embassy said that Windsor will proceed to London soon to see his mother, Queen Mary, and pay respects to his brother, King George. His wife will go over later.

While in London the duke will get corrective fittings from his tailor, bootmaker, shirtmaker, haberdasher, hatter, glover, and other trades people "because he probably has taken on weight during his long absence since his last fittings," an informant vouchsafed.

U. S. Army Will Move Them

Meanwhile, hampers of perishable goods—romaine, water cress, spinach, boxes of iced sole, fat chickens, and other delicacies obtainable only on the black market—have been delivered to the Windsors' home, supplementing large consignments of canned goods which arrived recently from America.

American army officials at Le Havre have informed the British embassy that they would provide a fleet of motor cars and small trucks to carry Edward and Wally and their entourage and mass of baggage to Paris. The luggage includes 16 monogrammed wardrobe trunks and scores of valises, satchels, and hat boxes.

[Aboard the United States steamer Argentina off Plymouth, England, yesterday Windsor was asked if he would take a new official post, possibly another governorship. "Governorship?" he inquired. "I would take any job I could do well." He was asked if he would prefer one in England. "Yes, certainly," he said. "Yes, indeed."]

Halsey to Bring Fleet to Coast for Navy Day

PEARL HARBOR, Sept. 21 (AP)—Adm. Nimitz announced today that Adm. Halsey, who arrived here yesterday, would take the 3d fleet to the Pacific coast and represent the Pacific fleet on Navy day.

HOPE TO TEACH THEM TO PREFER A DEMOCRACY

Report Pupils Are Anti-Hitler

Fort Getty, R. I., Sept. 21 (AP)—The army today made public one of its top secrets—the training of German prisoners of war to help administer and police their own country.

For the first time, reporters were permitted to see in operation a psychological reconversion attempt by which the United States government hopes to develop a future generation of Germans which will know and prefer the democratic form of government.

Organized and governed by the provost marshal general's office, the prisoner of war school is conducted by officers of high educational attainments. "Students" are officers and men of the German army who have been screened many times, after being chosen for the course from all of the POW camps in the country.

Students Volunteered

Students volunteered to take the course. Some are in the administrative class and others in the police class. All, eventually, will be placed at the disposal of the allied military government now in charge of the American zone of operations in Germany. Army officers said the students are anti-nazi. Many of them served long years behind barbed wire in Germany because they had opposed Hitler's regime.

"We have more complete information on them than some of our American business houses have on their employes," said Lt. Col. Alpheus W. Smith of Evanston, Ill., commandant of the school.

In civilian life, Smith was an instructor and later professor of English at the University of Minnesota, the University of Nebraska, and Northwestern university.

One Is Ex-Judge

Listed among the prisoners is a former German judge, a police official, and numerous former German policemen. Most of the others have had administrative or police experience.

The German officers have waived rights to rank and are classified, as are the enlisted men, simply as students. However, they receive their officers' pay allowances, under terms of the Geneva convention. Forty per cent of the students are officers.

In their 2-month course, the students are taught American history, English and other languages, military government, and German history.

The project was inaugurated in the summer of 1944 and last December an "idea factory" was set up in a former CCC camp at Van Etten, N. Y. There, Col. Smith explained, experts on the subject discussed methods best suited to the plan.

2,000 to 5,000 to Take Course

Last March, the "idea factory" was moved to Fort Kearney, R. I., adjacent to this post. Later it was expanded to Fort Wetherell and Fort Getty, former coast artillery installations in Narragansett bay.

Last April, Smith said, general of the army Eisenhower directed that between 2,000 and 5,000 Germans be given the course and that is the task of the army school center.

"Every man we send over means just one more American coming home," Smith asserted.

Ten graduates of the first school course, which started July 16, are instructors themselves in a school set up a few miles northwest of Cherbourg.

Chinese Capital Awaits Archbishop Spellman

CHUNGKING, China, Sept. 21 (AP)—Archbishop Francis J. Spellman of New York did not arrive today from Japan, as scheduled, but is expected to reach here by plane tomorrow. He is on a tour of United States army and navy Pacific stations.

Fighting Hero of Iwo to Get Honor Medal

BY THOMAS MORROW

Chicago is to have another congressional medal man. He is Capt. Joseph McCarthy, Chicago fireman, who as a member of the 4th marine division, fought on Saipan, Tinian, Kwajelein and in the Iwo Jima campaign.

Capt. Joseph McCarthy

McCarthy, who lives at 5715 S. May st., will return today from the west coast where he has been treated for shrapnel wounds received on Iwo. Then he will go to Washington on Oct. 5. He will be accompanied by his mother, Mrs. William J. Hart, and nephew, Patrick Honan, 11, 1703 W. 50th st.

Wounded on Saipan

McCarthy took leave from fire truck company No. 11, 36th and State sts., when he joined the marines. He was wounded on Saipan and awarded the silver star for his action of going into an open field under heavy fire to carry two wounded boys of his company to the American lines. One of them died in McCarthy's arms.

It was on Iwo, however, that McCarthy's deeds of valor won for him the medal of honor. There his dwindling company fought stubbornly ahead until confronted by Hill 362, a cave infested mound bristling with Japanese machine gun nests. Making no progress, Walter Ridlon, commander of the adjacent marine company, got McCarthy on the field telephone. Each company, strengthened by replacements, had about one-fifth its beginning strength.

Blast Way Up Hill

"What will we do, Joe?" Ridlon asked.

"I guess we'd better attack," McCarthy told him.

McCarthy gave the command and his company, supported by Ridlon and others, blasted its way to the hill top, ousting the Japs, a feat viewed by some marine strategists as the turning point in the island campaign.

"Mac doesn't tell you where to go, he takes you there," was the comment of one of his company on Iwo. "A hell of a guy, but you'd better not let the company next door beat you to an objective by two yards."

McCarthy was blasted by a mortar shell on Iwo and evacuated despite protestations that he "had to get back to the kids." So solicitous were boys in his company that five of them had given him emergency shots of morphine to ease the pain before he was moved by corpsmen.

Artist Helps Fight

Another Chicagoan became so intrigued by McCarthy's bravery and leadership that he almost gave up his own job of sketching the war. Staff Sgt. Jan Fabian, artist and sculptor, attached himself to the McCarthy company and manned a machine gun. Reminded of his art duties, Fabian became so downcast that his commanding officer relented with, "O. K. go on back to McCarthy."

A McCarthyism got itself born one day during a lull in the fighting when he remarked wistfully that "it would be nice to take a run with truck 11 for excitement."

Fellow officers hold McCarthy the perfect marine except for a predilection for singing "Back of the Yards."

[Footnote—The writer of this story can testify that McCarthy was kind to animals and war correspondents. McCarthy had Chaplain Joe Keefe include this correspondent in the prayers he said as the landing boat at Iwo headed for shore. McCarthy also took time to issue a number of fine lessons to this writer on how not to be killed.]

Tojo Hands GI Complete Set of Campaign Ribbons

TOKYO, Sept. 21 (AP)—Pvt. 1st Class Donald Kincaid of Dayton, O., has a prize souvenir. It is Gen. Hideki Tojo's complete set of campaign ribbons—given to Kincaid by the general himself. Kincaid, a military policeman, was one of the several assigned to stand guard at Tojo's bedside after his suicide attempt. When the general's dress uniform was brought to him one day, Tojo removed his set of 24 ribbons and personally handed them to Kincaid.

IKE EXPECTED TO RULE WITH TOKEN FORCE

Elections to Choose Nation's Leaders

BERLIN, Sept. 21 (AP)—Gen. Eisenhower's command apparently hopes to end American government in Germany, except for the top overall posts, within the next 15 months.

Officials look for the American occupation army—already scheduled to be reduced to fewer than 400,000 men by spring—to be a mere token force of a few thousand a year hence.

"An occupation army has only one function—to present police power," said a civil affairs expert. "And it must be admitted that, contrary to expectations, we have not had to call upon the army for help. The Germans have obeyed us without resistance."

Will Withdraw AMG

Military officers will be withdrawn steadily from civil administration posts as elections produce German officials competent to assume authority, United States group control council headquarters confirmed.

Because the occupation of Germany is a four power affair, however, it may be necessary to persuade other allied nations to reduce their military establishments here before the American force reaches its final token size.

This tentative election schedule has been set:

January: Gemeiden—Communities ranging from rural hamlets to towns of about 20,000 population.

March: Landkreisen—Equivalent of American counties.

May: Stadtkreisen—Larger towns and cities.

October: Laender—States.

At present the lowest level of the AMG is a detachment in charge of a Landkreis. Under present plans these assignments would be eliminated as soon as possible after the March vote.

Interest Is Weak

By current estimates, German state governments could be expected to take office by November or December, 1946, and thereafter American supervisors would be needed only in zonal affairs.

Germans in the United States zone as yet have produced only rudimentary evidence of political interest.

There is no political inertia among the scattered Communists who outlasted nazi persecution, but among the masses who formerly belonged to other pre-Hitler parties, interest is practically nil.

A People's party of Catholic elements has appeared in Bavaria, while at Frankfurt both Communists and Social Democrats conducted rallies after American authorities belatedly followed Russia's example and permitted Germans to assemble publicly.

BELL-BOTTOMS MAY GO, BUT NOT SOON IN NAVY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21 (AP)—It'll be "some time" before the navy knocks the bell out of the bottom of its trousers.

Right now, the navy said tonight, its tailors are busy dreaming up what the well dressed sailor should wear.

Sen. Langer [R., N. D.] feels so strongly about all this he has introduced a bill to make it illegal for the navy to bell-bottom its boys.

But a navy spokesman told a reporter that before any action can be taken samples must be sent to the fleet commanders.

After hearing their reactions, the navy bigwigs will vote on the sailor suit of the future, and that'll take time, a navy spokesman said.

Town That Housed 2,000 Placed on Auction Block

Walkermine, Cal., Sept. 21 (AP)—A town that once housed 2,000 persons has been put on the auction block. Everything in Walkermine, once the location of a rich copper mine, but now a ghost town, went on sale yesterday.

6 MONTH RULE M'ARTHUR'S AIM, ASSERTS EDITOR

Possible if Done Right, Says General

(Ted Dealey, president of the Dallas Morning News, visited the Tokyo area at the invitation of the war and navy departments. He witnessed the formal surrender of Japan aboard the Missouri. He returned to Dallas Sept. 18.)

BY TED DEALEY

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 21 (AP)—One would have a great deal of temerity, after having spent only a week in Japan, to set himself up as an authority on the best way to handle that conquered country.

But this writer cannot refrain, nevertheless, from siding wholeheartedly with Gen. MacArthur's belief that only 200,000 American troops will be needed in Japan for the army of occupation.

After all, the Jap home islands, taken as a whole, are much smaller in area than Texas.

Thoroly Docile People

Doesn't it seem reasonable that 200,000 Texas rangers could preserve order in this state, tough as we think we are?

The Japs are a regimented and a thoroly docile people. They have become so accustomed to rendering complete obedience to their war lords and their emperor that it is easy for them to switch about and display this same spirit of coöperation and obedience to the Americans, now that our military leaders are in the saddle.

Several American publishers had lunch with MacArthur in Yokohama as recently as Sept. 4. On that occasion we asked the general how long the army of occupation would have to stay in Japan. This was the reply:

"Six months if we handle the Japs right, and by this I mean if we are not too ruthless and cruel—indefinitely if we do not handle them right."

"Thru as Military Power"

This rather floored us because up until that time we had no idea MacArthur even remotely entertained the idea that all American troops could be removed from the Japanese home islands within a half year.

So next we inquired: "Well, if we do move out of Japan within the next six months, what is to prevent the Japanese from starting to build up for another war 25 years from now?"

"I'm going to fix things," replied MacArthur, "so that the Japs will have a hard enough time eating for the next 25 years, much less having the leisure and materials to build up for another war. The rising sun is a setting sun. Japan is thru forever as a military power."

And that stands to reason. Japan is an insular empire. Its agriculture is not sufficient, without imports, to feed its own people. It has no minerals, such as iron, sulphur, magnesium, or aluminum with which to build warships, airplanes, or munitions factories. All these have to be imported. But today Japan has no navy and very little merchant shipping.

Shipping Hard Hit

It now has less than 800,000 tons of commercial ships and of this total only about 375,000 tons are in serviceable condition. How can Japan start another war, even if it wanted to, if we see to it that the Japs build no new navy and if we watch over their imports, which we assuredly will?

MacArthur told us he planned to institute women's suffrage in Japan, and that he also planned to encourage labor unions in the islands. The latter, he said, were just getting started before the war. He also plans to seek out and strengthen and eventually put into power the anti-war party of Japan, which most certainly exists.

Thus, under the MacArthur policy, Japan will be ruled within a fairly short time by the better element of its own people—that element that believes in democratic government, freedom of speech, freedom of religion, and is motivated by a sincere desire to get along peaceably with the rest of the world.

MacArthur and his staff know who these Japanese anti-war people are and have known for a long time. They are at the present time searching them out and preparing to put them in positions of power.

Japs Indifferent

The Japs we saw in Japan were not hostile or unfriendly. They were more apathetic and indifferent than anything else. They didn't seem to mind that they were now being bossed by Americans rather than their own war lords.

As a matter of fact, a great many people in Japan actually are relieved that the Americans came into their homeland and now are in the process of emancipating them from the slavery that has been theirs almost from time immemorial. We received this impression from undoubted authorities.

When MacArthur said we will not have to occupy Japan for more than six months "if we are not too ruthless and cruel," he was not indicating by that remark that he favored a soft peace for the Japs.

He will be plenty tough. But he knows the Jap psychology. He knows that to get coöperation from the Japs he has to treat them firmly, but with strict justice and some consideration.

Under such treatment, it is MacArthur's belief, the Japs will turn to the better element of their people for leadership.

How U. S. Won Race in the Air

BARE MISSION OF CHICAGO MEN BEHIND JAP LINES

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21 — Fifty-three Chicago navy men, it was disclosed today, played a dangerous role as members of a naval group of guerrillas, intelligence agents and weather observers behind the Japanese lines in Asia.

The group, known as SACO-Sino-American Coöperative Organization, began its work shortly after Pearl Harbor as a weather reporting unit. The project grew until it was providing weather reports and intelligence to all services branches and was fighting Japs, blowing up trains, and raiding outposts. Some of the men disguised as Chinese slipped thru Jap lines for months.

The fifty-three men were Comdr. Francis L. Ledéver, 257 E. Delaware pl.; Lt. Comdr. George D. Crowley, 450 Belmont av.; Lt. Comdr. Robert Halperin, 31 E. Elm st.; Lt. Comdr. John P. JAPS WILL HOLD BAZAR SO YANKS CAN BUY GIFTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

TOKYO, Sept. 21—A huge bazar, to enable American soldiers to buy such typically Japanese products as lacquer goods, kimonos, prints, and ceramic work, will be held Oct. 11, 12, and 13, in the Matsuya department store on Ginza, one of Tokyo's ruined streets, formerly one of the principal shopping thorofares.

The bazar, under the auspices of the association of commerce, industry and economy, is intended to "introduce Japanese commerce and industry to the American people."

Clew to Defeat

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

TOKYO, Sept. 21—The Japanese newspaper Mainichi Shimbun today said the United States' superior plane production was a principal reason for Japan's defeat. It furnished comparative production figures:

ARMY REFUSES TO LET GIs WED GERMAN GIRLS

BERLIN, Sept. 21 (AP)—The United States group control council said today "there is no intention" of permitting marriages among occupation forces and Germans, or billeting troops in German homes in the American zone.

The American military government set forth its position in a statement issued on the heels of yesterday's action by the allied control council relaxing nonfraternization restrictions to permit these two privileges at the discretion of zone commanders.

"In conformity with an agreement reached at the Thursday meeting of the allied control council appropriate instructions are being issued in the American zone relaxing nonfraternization regulations," said the statement. "Under this agreement all restrictions against fraternization were lifted except the billeting of troops in German homes and the marriage of soldiers and German nationals.

"While zone commanders are authorized to permit billeting in German homes and marriages of soldiers and German nationals, there is no intention to grant such privileges in the American zone," the statement said.

Eichelberger Opens First Red Cross Club in Japan

ORDER ARREST OF JAP LEADER WHO TOOK MANCHURIA

Lt. Gen. Doihara

Doihara was long a member of the Kwantung army crowd that pushed the subjugation of Manchuria. The order for his arrest came as Japanese sources said the militarists who led their nation into a disastrous war had hit the bottom of their prestige.

MacArthur gave no reason for the arrest of Doihara, but obviously he will be questioned about war crimes. Many Japanese had expressed surprise when Doihara was appointed with American approval as commander of the first general army to succeed Field Marshal Gen Sugiyama, who committed suicide Sept. 12.

Leader of Gendarmes

They said Doihara, leader of the notorious gendarmerie in Manchuria, was hardly one to win the confidence of American occupation forces. As commander of the first army he would have dealt with the largest occupation forces around Tokyo.

Doihara's notoriety was worldwide when he was credited with trying to win over the Chinese warlords in Manchuria with a deft mixture of brutality and bribery. He had sunk into obscurity in recent years.

Tightening Grip on Press

MacArthur tightened his grip over the Japanese with a censorship code which told the press to print only the truth. It was extended to headlines, recently used by the Japanese for propaganda.

MacArthur's censorship code hit hard at the game some Japanese newspapers and Domei agency had been playing. It prohibited coloring stories by omission of details, the insertion of editorial comment in news stories, and headline displays calculated to develop propaganda.

The occupation of Japan moved on without friction. United States marines are scheduled to move Saturday into the western Japan naval base of Sasebo. The northern port of Aomori will be occupied by the United States 8th army Sunday and Japan's second city of Osaka will be taken over Tuesday.

[A Reuters dispatch from Tokyo said today demobilization of the Japanese naval police before Oct. 31 had just been ordered by Gen. MacArthur. The Japanese government had proposed to reduce the naval police force to 11,269 by that date, retaining that number till all arms had been collected and turned over to the allied powers.]

The only trace of violence in the occupation thus far was an accidental ammunition explosion that killed one American soldier and injured 60 others near Tokyo. Army authorities said an American soldier touched off the blast by accident and that no Japanese sabotage was suspected.

MacArthur's headquarters asked the Japanese government for information on the whereabouts and welfare of the Turkish ambassador to Japan and his staff.

MUST HAVE NAVAL POWER TO USE ATOM BOMB, SAYS NIMITZ

PEARL HARBOR, Sept. 21 (AP)—Adm. Nimitz said today he is convinced that the development of the atomic bomb emphasized the role of sea power as a major weapon of war.

In his first press conference since fleet headquarters were reëstablished here from Guam, the admiral said the use of the atomic bomb was made possible by the capture of bases near Japan by sea power. Commenting on reports that in the future, atomic bombs might be guided from Alaska and the west coast by rockets, Nimitz said he was skeptical of the accuracy of such devices.

"For many years," Nimitz said, "I believe the use of the atomic bomb will depend upon planes, and planes will depend upon sea power to take and hold bases from which they can carry the bombs."

MORE TRIBUNES OFF PRESS FOR YANKS IN JAPAN

BY DONALD STARR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

TOKYO, Sept. 21—Occupation troops in the islands of Honshu and Hokkaido will share 5,000 copies of the Overseas Tribune which came off the press in Tokyo today. Special services officers of the United States 8th army, which has taken over the distribution, expressed appreciation of the service.

With the second issue printed here since American troops entered Tokyo, production is being stepped up to meet the needs of the increasing number of troops arriving to take over the occupation.

Chicagolanders Rejoice

Wherever the Overseas Tribune fell into the hands of boys from Chicago and midwestern states there was special rejoicing. This was true when copies were handed out to Chicagolanders in the 289th ordnance medium maintenance company by Lt. Everett Lowe, R. F. D. No 1, Hinsdale, Ill.

The following comment was typical:

Tech. 5th Grade Frank Forsythe, Bremen, Ind., "I didn't expect to see THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in Tokyo, but I hope before long to be back where I can read the Chicago edition daily."

Tech. 5th Grade Elmer Jenson, 6446 Justine st., Chicago, "This is a happy circumstance. I've been receiving the regular edition thru the mails but this is faster service."

Tech. 4th Grade Angelo Marasco, 1328 S. 51th st., Cicero, Ill., "THE TRIBUNE is our daily diet at home, so this is doubly welcome."

A Regular Reader

Donald Williams, Geneva, Ill., "I've always been a regular reader of THE TRIBUNE."

Pvt. 1st Class Norman Zipter, 2858 N. 20th st., Milwaukee, Wis., "We always got THE TRIBUNE at home. I'm going to keep this as a souvenir."

Others who gathered around to read late news from home in the new edition were William Tallant, 806 Detroit av., La Porte, Ind., who has just been made a technical sergeant; Ken C. Matts, 8539 Justine st., Chicago; Frank Graff, 1615 Mobile av., Chicago; Pvt. 1st Class Joseph Mutschinszky, 1645½ N. Wells st., Chicago; Tech. 5th Grade Ulrich Schnarr, Otwell, Ind., and Chester Underwood, Abingdon, Ill.

AMELIA EARHART NOT A PRISONER OF JAPS, NAVY ADJUTANT SAYS

TOKYO, Sept. 22 [Saturday]—(AP)—Recurring rumors that Amelia Earhart, long missing American woman flyer, was alive and a prisoner of the Japanese brought an official denial today from Comdr. Tonosuke Otani, secretary to the Japanese naval adjutant.

He said he had made a thoro check with the home ministry, foreign office, and other authorities and there was no basis for believing that Miss Earhart and her navigator, Radioman Fred Noonan, were alive.

"The last word we had of Miss Earhart already is known to American authorities," Otani said. "That was a radio message as she was approaching Howland Island to the effect she had 30 minutes of gasoline remaining. It is our opinion she exhausted her gas and was forced down at sea."

INTERNAL PEACE NEAR IN CHINA, SAYS DR. WANG

LONDON, Sept. 21 [Reuters]—China's foreign minister, Dr. Wang Shih Chieh, said today that agreement between the Chinese government and the Yenan Communists could be expected in the next few weeks.

The settlement, he said, would probably include a truce for national reconstruction, not only with the Communists, but with other political parties. Agreement on the question of their communist armies would, he added, be included in any general settlement.

Dr. Wang said a settlement had hitherto proved difficult largely because Chiang Kai-shek and Communist Leader Mao Tse Tung had never met before.

HAWAIIANS FILE PEARL HARBOR BLAME PROTEST

HONOLULU, T. H., Sept. 21 (AP)—The Honolulu chamber of commerce is aroused over published testimony which alleged there was a lack of local civilian coöperation just before Pearl Harbor. They feel the implication is that much of the blame for the Japanese attack rests on local civilian shoulders.

The chamber has sent a letter of protest to the joint congressional committee which is probing the Pearl Harbor attack, to the secretary of the interior, the territorial delegate, Hawaiian Gov. Stainback, and other officials asking the congressional committee to visit Hawaii personally and find out "the truth about Pearl Harbor."

U. S. TARS AMAZE CHINESE WITH RICKSHA ANTICS

Yanks Get New Angle on Cigaret Shortage, Too

BY JOSEPH HEARST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

SHANGHAI, China, Sept. 21 — American sailors seeing rickshas and pedicabs [rickshas propelled by a bicycle mechanism] for the first time weren't long improvising ways to use the vehicles for other than mere transportation.

On the Bubbling Well road, where traffic is thickest, four sailors organized an impromptu race, wagering on whose coolie would reach a certain intersection first. With the sailors urging the men on, the rickshas swerved thru traffic while Chinese pedestrians looked on in amazement.

Sailor Drives One

Another sailor satisfied his urge to handle a pedicab himself. He stopped his driver, got out, made the coolie sit in the cab, then proceeded to haul him along for several blocks to the coolie's amazement and the amusement of fellow ricksha riders.

A new reason why Americans had a cigaret shortage last spring came to light in a Bubbling Well hotel bar where British and American sailors exchanged cigarets.

"Have one of mine," said the Britisher. "They are good English tobacco but they were made in America. They were part of your lease-lend."

Explain Process for Yank

"You mean lend-lease," answered the American, "and how come we were making cigarets for you?"

The British tar explained that British cigaret making machines were engaged in making important war articles so tobacco was shipped to the United States and a number of American cigaret rolling machines were set aside to make cigarets for the British at a time when Americans were lining up for the few packs available.

"Well, that's the first time I ever heard that was one of the reasons why we had a cigaret shortage," said the American. "I never saw anything in the papers that Washington officials ever mentioned we were making British cigarets when they were trying to explain to the congressional committees the reason for the shortage."

PLENTY OF BICYCLES

BY ROBERT CROMIE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

TOKYO, Sept. 21—Bicycles, the backbone of Japan's post-war transportation system, lend a Gay '90s air to the metropolitan streets. Bike drawn trailers haul incredibly large loads. Most Jap automobiles and trucks are driven by gases developed in charcoal, carbide, or coal generators built in rear trunks, and leave a wake of foul waterfront stench caused by fish derived lubricating oil.

The American GIs are living fully up to their tradition as friends of the kids. A jeep ride thru the street is punctuated by high treble howls, and in some back country regions the youngsters greet sightseeing troops with two fingers held aloft in the victory sign.

Japs Know United States Planes

A cargo airplane flew low over a Tokyo shopping district. "Transport plane," one of our troopers explained to a gawking Jap. "Yes," the civilian replied, "Douglas DC3, isn't it?"

The half pint elevator boy in the Dai Ichi hotel is coming along fine with his English. Last night at the fifth floor we called out in Japanese, "roku kai," for sixth floor. "You're slow, way behind the times," he taunted.

Find No Silk Stockings

The universally worn geta [wooden clogs] make Japan particularly reminiscent of France in the last war. The rush hour commuter mobs remind one somewhat of a fast cavalry charge over a loose bridge.

For the edification of American womanhood, this correspondent has yet to see the first silk stocking, either on store shelves or on feminine underpinning.

SENATE GROUP OKAYS BILL TO CONTROL ATOM

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21 (AP)—Legislation placing control of the atomic bomb and its by-products in the hands of a 11 member commission headed by the chief justice of the United States was approved today by the senate military affairs committee.

Other members of the commission would include a representative appointed by the President, chairmen and ranking minority members of the senate and house military and naval committees and a member selected by the commission from scientists who developed the atomic bomb.

The bill introduced by Chairman Sumners [D., Tex.] of the house judiciary committee provides a maximum sentence of death for persons convicted of passing on information about the bomb to foreign powers until this government has decided whether the secret shall be shared with powers other than England.

COL. DEVEREUX WANTS JAPAN TAUGHT LESSON

Wake Defender Lands on West Coast

'Hello, Dad'

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21 [Special]—Altho only 11, James Patrick [Paddy] Devereux is a hero's son, and a hero's son, he figures, doesn't get scared even by a coast to coast broadcast with a few million people listening in.

Paddy talked to Lt. Col. James P. Devereux Sr., Wake Island's famed defender, tonight for the first time since they said goodby four years ago in Honolulu. At that time Paddy and his mother were headed for the states and Devereux for Wake.

"Hello, dad," said Paddy stoutly to his father in San Francisco. "How are you feeling?" he wanted to know, and he asked it three times. The two will talk things over at length Wednesday when Col. Devereux arrives in Washington. Paddy's mother will be missing at the reunion. She died shortly after Wake Island fell.

Oakland, Cal., Sept. 21 (AP)—Lt. Col. James P. Devereux, 42, marine commander in the defense of Wake Island, arrived by plane from Japan today and dourly observed that "the Japs will have to be taught a lesson."

After nearly four years in Japanese prison camps, Devereux, thin and pale from his imprisonment, refused to discuss the defense of Wake or comment on Gen. MacArthur's occupation policy until he makes his official report in Washington.

"It would be an impertinence on my part to say anything at all. But there is one thing," he said in an interview. "Certainly we can't do to them [the Japanese] what they did to our people.

Plans to Join Family

"That would be contrary to everything we have been fighting for and have believed in."

The colonel plans to remain in the bay area until Sunday, when he will continue to Washington for a reunion with his family. He said he is so tired that he would prefer to travel by train rather than plane.

Col. Devereux, whose home is Chevy Chase, Md., said he and his men received good treatment at a Japanese "show" camp at Shanghai where "things were pretty nice." There was adequate food and medical care, he said.

This ended in June, 1944, when they were transferred to the Hokkaido center where food was scarce and the men began to waste away.

Declines Further Comment

There was no actual mistreatment of prisoners, he said, but they did have to work.

Disclaiming any feeling of personal animosity against the Japanese, Devereux said he felt "pretty badly about what happened to my men" but declined to comment further on the matter.

Accompanying Devereux were 11 other marine officers, all members of the Wake garrison. Navy Ensign Robert E. Walish, Mill, Wis., also was with the party.

The importance of the nurse in psychiatry and medicine was emphasized yesterday by Dr. Raymond Allen, dean of the college of medicine at the University of Illinois, before 48 graduating nurses of the Illinois Neuropsychiatric institute, 912 S. Wood st. All students at nursing schools thruout the city, the graduates had completed a 12 week course in neurology and psychiatry. They were presented with certificates by Dr. Harry Hoffman, director of the institute.

INDIANS DEMAND FREEDOM FOR FAR EAST LANDS

BOMBAY, India, Sept. 21 (AP)—The All-India Congress party's working committee demanded today that India, Burma, Malaya, Indo-China, and the Indonesian Islands be freed from "imperialist domination."

[Indonesia is defined by the Encyclopoedia Britannica as a term used to indicate the group of islands variously known as the East Indian archipelago, the East Indies, and the Philippine Islands. The working committee of the Congress party is a policy making group of 350 delegates.]

A crowd estimated at 250,000 gathered at the first convention of India's largest and dominantly Hindu party since 1942.

Sees Peril of New War

The working committee adopted a resolution asserting the independence of India, Malaya, Indo-China, and the Indonesian Islands was essential to avoid "sowing the seeds of a future war."

Specifically referring to Great Britain's Asiatic holdings, the resolution stated:

"No concessions should be given to the new vested interests created by British authorities in favor of foreign capital which curtail the rights of those people or which injure existing Indian interests there.

"Trade relations of an enduring character and problems in relation to the movement of populations can only be properly considered and settled by the representatives of a free India, free Burma and free Malaya."

Labor Issue Involved

This reference to population movements bore on the question of large masses of Indian labor which in prewar years regularly went to Malaya and Burma and expect to continue doing so. Indian business men have protested that they were being kept out of Burma until British interests were established there.

The committee deferred comment, perhaps until tomorrow, on the proposal of Viceroy Wavell outlining steps to set up a constituent assembly of Indian-elected representatives to frame a new constitution.

KEEP ATOMIC BOMB SECRET, GROVES URGES

New York, Sept. 21 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, army officer in charge of the atomic bomb project, said today the United States should keep the secret of the atomic bomb "for a few years until other nations are prepared to share it."

Groves made the statement at a reception in his honor given by Mayor Fiorello La Guardia at city hall.

"This is the second war concluded by a surprise weapon," Groves said. "Unlike the Trojan horse, this weapon can be used again and create surprise. If we can control it for a few years until other nations are prepared to share it, we will go a long way toward universal peace."

Nimitz's Guess on End of War Remains Secret

PEARL HARBOR, Sept. 21 (AP)—Adm. Nimitz's guess as to when the war with Japan would end will remain a secret. He divulged it to the press today, but asked that it be withheld from publication.

CHICAGO INDUSTRY'S SHARE IN DEVELOPING PROXIMITY FUSE TOLD

The Chicago molded plastics industry had a part in development of the radio proximity fuse, which explodes a projectile as soon as it comes close enough to damage its target. This was disclosed yesterday as Charles W. Kleiderer, who was in charge of plastics development and production for the project at Johns Hopkins university, visited Chicago.

Proximity fuse section of shell.

Charles C. Henry, sales manager of the Chicago Die Mold corporation, 4001 Wrightwood av., said that in 1942 his company made molds for the first production version of the fuse and supplied parts for assembly of 50 radio projectiles a day for field trials. He said the Chicago molded plastics industry aided in supplying the fuse noses, miniature radio coil forms, and insulators.

Dr. James D. Jordan, Harold W. Schaeffer, Joseph Hurley, and Edward Bean, former Grigsby-Grunow company engineers, took an active part in the fuse development at Johns-Hopkins applied physics laboratory at Silver Springs, Md.

The fuse is described as a rugged five tube radio sending and receiving station which fits into the nose of the projectile. A vacuum tube sends out electro-magnetic waves at the speed of light. These are reflected by any target which gives a radio reflection, such as metal objects, water, or earth.

Hundreds Evacuate Homes in Flooded Carolina City

Fayetteville, N. C., Sept. 21 (AP)—Army, Red Cross, and civilian agencies joined today in caring for hundreds driven from their homes here as the flooded Cape Fear river rolled over an estimated one-fourth of this city of 20,000.

DEWEY KEEPS PEARL HARBOR LETTER SECRET

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 21 [Special]—Gov. Dewey today declined to make public a letter from Gen. Marshall, army chief of staff, which reputedly admitted that President Roosevelt knew 15 hours before the Pearl Harbor debacle that the Japanese were going to attack.

Dewey refused "for patriotic reasons" to use the information during the 1944 Presidential campaign, in which he was the Republican candidate, two of his chief advisers explained.

They said Dewey had declared he would rather be defeated for President than use information that would endanger his country's war program tho his "extraordinary example of patriotism and self-restraint" was tantamount to giving up his chance to become President.

Disclosed in Article

The incident was disclosed by an article in Life magazine by John Chamberlain, an editor of the magazine, which said Dewey was "in position to charge that the President had 'betrayed' the interests of the United States in failing either to forestall or mitigate an attack for which we were, on the certification of Gen. Marshall, not yet ready."

At the war department, it was said that Gen. Marshall was not available for comment tonight.

When Dewey was questioned by reporters about the story today, he declined to answer most questions, explaining: "Since I received the letter in confidence, I refer you to Gen. Marshall for the text of it."

He said he would "rather not comment at this time," but when he was asked whether he would testify before a congressional committee if he were requested to do so, he replied: "Certainly, I would testify if I had any information the committee wanted, altho I have no information not available directly from government sources to any congressional committee."

In Washington, D. C., Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.], a member of the congressional committee investigating the Pearl Harbor disaster, said the letter Dewey received from Gen. Marshall should be turned over to the committee.

Ferguson said he thought Dewey's testimony on the delivery of the message, as well as the message itself, would be pertinent to the investigation.

Confirmed by Advisers

Dewey's two principal advisers, Herbert Brownell Jr., Republican national chairman, and Elliott Bell, New York state banking commissioner, confirmed that the 1944 Republican Presidential candidate knew during the campaign that the United States had "cracked" Japan's secret code and knew enemy plans.

"Our information indicated, among other things," Brownell said in a statement in New York City, "shocking lack of coördination between the President, the state department, and the armed forces leading up to the tragedy of Pearl Harbor."

Brownell said Dewey made his decision not to use the information after Gen. Marshall had told him that to do so would tip off the Japs that their code had been broken, and might impede the war program and imperil "untold American lives."

Editor Chamberlain wrote in his article that "the political impact of such a charge [that the President knew of the attack and failed to forestall it], if supported by the evidence of code cracking, would have been terrific, and might well have landed Dewey in the White House."

Bell confirmed, at a press conference in New York, the sacrifice involved in Dewey's decision not to use the information he had received.

"It was one of the most extraordinary examples of patriotism and self restraint that has ever been exhibited," Bell said.

Tells of First Contact

Bell declined to say how Gov. Dewey obtained information that the secret Japanese code had been cracked, and said he had no information or opinion on whether Mr. Roosevelt was aware of Gen. Marshall's request to Dewey not to use the information.

He disclosed, however, that Gen. Marshall first contacted Gov. Dewey after the Republican candidate had made a campaign speech at Oklahoma City.

He recalled that the Oklahoma City speech followed one by Mr. Roosevelt to the AFL Teamsters' union, and that Gov. Dewey "came back at him very hard, altho all we did was to quote the record that the United States was woefully unprepared at the time of Pearl Harbor, using printed comments of the then Sen. Truman."

Bell said that Gen. Marshall's confidential letter to the governor was delivered by a colonel but that at no time did Dewey commit himself to the army chief of staff's request that the information not be used.

TESTIFIES 4,500 DIED AT WAVE OF NAZI'S HAND

Woman Doctor Picks Out 15 at Belsen Trial

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LUENEBURG, Germany, Sept. 21—A Polish woman, Dr. Ada Bimko, 30, slowly walked down the middle of the courtroom and along the dock containing 45 Nazi camp officials and guards charged with mass murders in the German concentration camps at Oswiecim [Auschwitz] Poland, and Belsen, Germany.

Dr. Bimko had seen her 6 year old son, her husband, father, mother, brother, and sister led away to execution in the gas chambers at Oswiecim. She had seen thousands of others sent to death because of nazi bestiality. With floodlights turned upon the prisoners by order of the court, she stood there today as the accuser.

Slowly she leveled a finger at 15 men and women who participated in the crimes at Oswiecim and, after their transfer, at Belsen. For the first time since the trial began some winced a little. Others, at whom she did not point, trembled in fear.

Doctor Blanches at Accusation

Dr. Fritz Klein, medical officer at the Belsen camp, whom Dr. Bimko singled out first, blanched when he heard her call his name. Joseph Kramer, whom she identified as commander of the camp at Birkenau where the gas chambers of Oswiecim were operated, seemed disdainful He was commandant of the Belsen camp when it was liberated. Dr. Bimko also identified Irma Grese, a woman guard.

After hearing the woman doctor the British military court, with the 45 prisoners in tow, visited the Belsen camp.

Dr. Bimko took the oath on a Jewish old Testament. She testified she was arrested on Aug. 4, 1943, at her home in Poland. With her family and a total of 5,000 Jews, she said, she was taken to Oswiecim.

4,500 Sent to Death

On the party's arrival at the camp, she said, a nazi with a wave of his hand divided it into two groups, one of 500 and the other of 4,500. The smaller group was admitted to the camp and the other was put in cars.

"Later I found out that those placed in the cars were taken to the crematorium and gassed," Dr. Bimko said. Her "Yes" was barely audible when the prosecution asked, "Were your father, mother, brother, sister, husband and son in the group?"

She said she worked in the hospital as a doctor and was present when new arrivals were divided up and the weaker ones sent to the gas chambers.

"This first big selection I witnessed after our arrival," she testified, "was on the Jewish Day of Atonement. The decisions were made only according to the whims of the doctor and the men and women of the SS Elite guards."

Sick Paraded Naked

The camp doctor often entered the hospital, Dr. Bimko said, and ordered all sick Jews to rise and parade before him and his staff naked.

"He looked for the weaker ones and ordered them placed aside," Dr. Bimko said. "Sometimes a pimple was used as a pretext to classify some one as sick and send him to death."

She said an internee who worked in the Oswiecim crematorium with her had found records showing 4,000,000 Jews had been cremated.

Dr. Bimko accused Franz Hoessler, SS officer, of having picked out women internees to be sent to German army brothels.

NEURATH, NAZI 'PROTECTOR' OF BOHEMIA SEIZED

Faces Trial with 23 Other Leaders

NUERNBERG, Germany, Sept. 21 (AP) — The Russians named their judge and prosecutor today for the German war crimes trial this winter, and the French announced the capture in Baden-Baden of Baron Constantin von Neurath, one of the 24 listed for arraignment before the international tribunal.

Baron Von Neurath

Von Neurath was Hitler's foreign minister before Joachim Von Ribbentrop. Then he became "protector" of Bohemia and Moravia. He formerly was president of the secret nazi cabinet council.

Indictments Are Ready

David Maxwell Fyfe, British prosecutor, said the question of the sanity of Rudolf Hess had been explored and that the one time third ranking nazi was suitable for trial. Hess parachuted onto a Scottish moor May 10, 1941, and has since been a prisoner of the British.

The Russians appointed R. Rudenko prosecutor and I. T. Nikitchenko judge for the four-man international court. Their American counterparts are Justice Robert H. Jackson and former Attorney General Francis Biddle. Fyfe said the British judge would be named soon. The French delegation said their judge had been appointed and would be identified later.

Will Start in November

Jackson said indictments for the first 24 accused Nazis were ready and could be filed whenever the court is convened. He said the German gestapo and SS [elite guard] would be tried as organizations simultaneously with such Nazis as Hermann Goering, Hess, Joachim Von Ribbentrop, Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel and Von Neurath.

A conviction of the organization would mean that all its members would be guilty to the extent of their participation, Jackson said.

"The trials cannot begin before Nov. 1, but they definitely will be held this winter," Jackson said. He added that the 24 listed as war criminals did not constitute a "closed list." Others will be added.

Starts Friday

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21 [Special]—Globe circling air service was announced today by the United States army air transport command. It will start Friday when a C-54 Douglas Skymaster, a 40 passenger four motored transport, will leave Washington airport at 4 p. m. Chicago time.

Thereafter, flights will start every Friday afternoon on the "Globester," as the schedule will be called. New York will be the first stop, followed by Bermuda, the Azores, Casablanca, Tripoli, Cairo, Abadan, Iran; Karachi, India; Calcutta, Luliang, China; Manila, Guam, Kwajalein, Johnston Island, Honolulu, San Francisco, Cal., Kansas City, Mo., and Washington.

A civilian certified by the government as traveling in the national interest may board the "Globester" at commercial rates. The globular flight fare is $2,341, plus 15 per cent transportation tax of $351.15. Otherwise, the service will be restricted to military personnel, cargo, and mail. The trip will take 6¼ days and will cover 23,147 miles.

GIs SAY COURTS RIP THEM, EASE UP ON GERMANS

FRANKFURT, Germany, Sept. 21 (AP)—Protests from American GIs that Germans caught hiding machine guns got off with lighter sentences than American soldiers received for wearing of their uniforms incorrectly, brought a promise today from an army spokesman that the situation would be corrected.

In a joint letter to Stars and Stripes, army newspaper, 32 soldiers in the 397th infantry said they had caught German civilians trying to hide a few machine guns and that the culprits were fined about $30 and given suspended jail sentences of a year by military government courts.

"Our own soldiers receive stiffer sentences for uniform violations," the letter asserted.

PLOW CHAMPION DEFENDS TITLE IN JOUST TODAY

Roland Boughton, of Plainview, will defend his world plowing championship today at the 50th annual plowing contest at Big Rock, Kane county, 12 miles west of Aurora. Boughton won the title in 1942, and has held it since because subsequent plowing events were canceled by the war. There will be four classes, for boys under 16, for boys under 19, for general farmers, and for championship competitors. The contests will be held on the V. H. Thomas farm.

CANADIAN M. P. SAYS FREEDOM ENDS AT POLLS

BY FRANK HUGHES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 21—Ernest G. Hansell, Social-Credit party member of the house of commons from MacLeod, Alta, last night criticized the British-Canadian parliamentary system of government in a speech in which he praised the republican system of the United States.

"Democracy ceases at the ballot box" in Canada, he asserted. The government holds dictatorial powers over parliament and the cabinet, which is the Canadian government, "is tied hand and foot by that which finance dictates," he added.

Premier "All Powerful"

"Take the matter of calling an election," he said. "Who decides when we should have an election? Is the leader of the opposition consulted? Is anybody consulted? I do not know whether the Liberal party is consulted but certainly the country is not. Who sets the date for an election? One man. [The prime minister.] Why? Because that one man is all-powerful.

"In practice the government brings down legislation; they say, 'Here it is boys, take it or leave it.' The party machinery gets going; the whips get going; you know beforehand that the legislation they bring down is what they have determined must pass, and it passes in spite of anything else.

"Not Free Democracy"

"I claim that is not free democracy. The cabinet of Canada should be the servants of this house. Again I rather favor the United States plan. There the President and his cabinet have no seats in congress. I am making a suggestion that the cabinet of Canada should not have seats in this house. They should constitute an executive body to administer the legislation that this house passes whether they want it or not."

Hansell said commons "would not be so stupid" as to put legislation on the books impossible of accomplishment and that the cabinet surely would want to do anything "the people's representatives wanted."

"Many of the new members may not realize that it is against parliamentary procedure for a private member to bring down a measure involving an increase in expenditures," he continued. "I think that is one of the most vicious things in our parliamentary system. It simply means that parliament is subject to the money powers. The cabinet which would be the executive body is tied hand and foot by that which finance dictates."

Frances Perkins to Write Column for Labor Press

New York, Sept. 21 (AP)—Frances Perkins, former labor secretary, will write a weekly 500 word column to be distributed to 1,100 labor papers, mostly union papers it was announced today by the Institute for American Democracy, Inc. The institute did not disclose the amount Miss Perkins would receive for the column but she said: "It will be honorable."

"Going to work is such a habit with Pop we have to put that up on Sundays to stop him."

GERMANS WIN O. K. OF U. S. FOR CIVIL RESEARCH

FRANKFURT, Germany, Sept. 20 (AP)—Resumption of some German industrial research considered essential in meeting civilian needs will be permitted in the American zone of occupation, but the operations will be under strict military government supervision. No research of potential military use will be permitted, the industry branch of the United States forces in Europe civil affairs section said today.

Research at the Sellstoff-Fabrik Waldhof plant in Kelheim will be made with paper, yeast, and wood pulp to improve sulfite fiber for the manufacture of paper bags and containers, to increase the fat content of yeast and to develop the use of hard wood for pulp production.

DUCE'S MISTRESS GOVERNED ITALY, EDDA DECLARES

ROME, Sept. 21 (AP)—Countess Edda Ciano says she still "loved and admired" her father, Benito Mussolini, even after he put to death her husband, Galeazzo Ciano, former foreign minister,

The countess was interviewed on Lipari Island where she is interned by the Italian government after being expelled from Switzerland.

She said Claretta Petacci, Mussolini's mistress, who was slain with the dictator and whose body was exposed in Milan with his, had a great influence on her father.

"She became the true head of the government," Countess Ciano said. "I hated her because I saw where she was dragging my father."

ARMY GADGET FOULED ENEMY PLANE RADARS

Bedford, Ind., Sept. 21 (AP)—Enemy airmen attacking American positions during the latter stages of the war were fooled into believing their radar equipment was faulty by means of the army's RCM [radar countermeasure] gadget, James Guyton, radio engineer for the Delco radio division of General Motors corporation, declared tonight.

He said the RCM created a noise similar to static on a stock radio in the radar sets of attacking airmen, disrupting the flow of beams to and from their radar sets and causing them to think the radar was broken. He said the gadget was 50 per cent effective in causing enemy planes to miss bombing and strafing targets.

He said the instrument was developed at Harvard university and produced at the Delco radio division of General Motors.

Teams Combing Battle Areas for Missing Men

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21 (AP)—Army "search teams" are combing Pacific and European battle fields for personnel listed as missing in action and for further information on soldiers killed in combat, the war department said today. The teams are trying to learn the whereabouts of 20,000 ground force and air force men listed as missing.

GASOLINE CRISIS DELAYED AS CIO LIMITS PICKETS

U. S. Calls Strike Parley Here for Tuesday

A complete shutdown of Chicago's gasoline supply—running low as 5,000 members of the Oil Workers' union [CIO] stayed away from their jobs in refineries of seven companies—was delayed yesterday when the union withdrew pickets from Chicago bulk plants.

The bulk plants are subdepots from which major oil firms supply filling stations and other users. Elwood E. Phelps, president of local 210 of the union, said the pickets were withdrawn to avoid embarrassing AFL truck drivers who deliver most of the city's gasoline.

Some gasoline stations in the Chicago area had closed, but were expected to reopen upon getting deliveries. The bulk plants had supplies sufficient for two weeks when the refinery strike started this week.

Parley Called in Chicago

As the wave of oil strikes shortened gasoline supplies in scores of cities and left 22,000 workers idle, Edgar L. Warren, federal conciliation director, selected Chicago as the site of a conciliation conference set for Tuesday.

Warren asked industry and union representatives to sit with a special commission headed by Justice William L. Knous of the Colorado Supreme court, who has adjudicated labor disputes for the war labor board. Two conciliation commissioners, August J. Hummert of St. Louis, Mo., and James O. Hubbard of Houston, Tex., will assist Knous.

O. A. Knight, of Ft. Worth, Tex., international president, will represent the union. Companies invited, including those whose plants are shut in other parts of the nation but who do not have plants here, are Gulf, Socony-Vacuum, Cities Service, Globe, Shell, Standard of Indiana, of Ohio and of New Jersey, Pure, Texas, Sinclair, Union of California, Great Lakes, and the Stanolind Pipe Line company.

Industry Doubtful of Success

Industry sources here were skeptical of success for the conference. They pointed out the parley would attempt arbitration on an industry-wide basis, whereas the major oil companies prefer to deal individually. A previous Washington conference failed for the same reason.

The giant Standard of Indiana refinery at Whiting, which produces about half the gasoline of Calumet district refineries, remained open. CIO pickets handed leaflets to members of the plant's independent union as they went to work. The independent union has defied the CIO's attempts to close the plant which is the world's largest complete refinery.

The independent union—with 4,500 members—met a rebuff, however, when the Standard of Indiana directors announced the company would stand on its offer of a 15 per cent increase in salaries and wages when hours are cut to 40 a week. The union had asked for a 30 per cent boost.

Conciliation to Be Sought

The Standard Oil employes have turned down the offered 15 per cent. Celestin P. Clark, president of the independent union, said his members' plea would go to department of labor conciliators in accordance with the union's contract.

Henry Burger, international representative of the International Teamsters' union [AFL], conferred with oil company representatives. He said he was hopeful that gasoline truck drivers would be able to settle differences over wages and working conditions.

Approximately 1,400 of the 3,400 filling stations in the Detroit, Mich., area were closed as a result of the strike, and dealers said all stations would have to shut down Monday. Four Toledo refineries are closed.

MORE SUPPLIES OF FLYNN STORY NOW AVAILABLE

Supplies of John T. Flynn's pamphlet, "The Final Secret of Pearl Harbor," are now available, John Gillespie, manager of THE TRIBUNE'S public service offices at 1 S. Dearborn st. and at Tribune Tower, said yesterday. Over-the-counter sales are continuing at the rate of about 1,000 a day.

Mail orders will be filled next week and thereafter. While supplies were limited they were used to satisfy the demand of those who called in person for the pamphlets. With mail orders still coming in from all parts of the nation, the total stood at 8,591 yesterday.

There have been many requests for lots of 15 or more copies. The price is 25 cents a copy, $1 for six, or $2 for 15 copies. Result of Flynn's own investigation of the country's greatest military disaster, the pamphlet is considered an important historic document.

COUNTY SHIFTS FOUR SERGEANTS AND 2 DEPUTIES

Four sergeants and two deputies were transferred in an order issued yesterday by Chief John McGinnis of the county highway police. The shifts are effective Monday. Sgt. John Cappelletti goes from Willow Springs to Morton Grove, and Sgt. William Russel from Morton Grove to Willow Springs. Sgt. Christopher Dunee of Homewood and Sgt. John Counter of Willow Springs trade posts. Deputy Jerry Thomas of Willow Springs and Deputy Leo Cadieux of Homewood likewise exchange places. The reason for the transfers was not given.

2 WOMEN AGAIN WAYLAID AS CIO BESIEGES FIRM

Union Official Seized as Assault Charge

Two women employes of the Cutter-Crosette company, 529 S. Franklin st., neckwear manufacturers, were pelted with eggs again yesterday in a renewed outbreak of violence. The Amalgamated Clothing Workers' union [CIO] has maintained a picket line at the plant since Sept. 7, in an effort to sign up 50 employes.

The women were among a score who were pelted with eggs and tomatoes Wednesday. A large police detail was on hand at Wells and Harrison sts. yesterday but the two women were walking from Van Buren and Wells st. when they were accosted.

Redhead Identified as Leader

One woman was struck in the eye by an egg that spilled down her face. One egg struck the other woman in the back of her coat and another broke in her hair.

The eggs were thrown by four women. One of them, described as tall, red-haired, and freckled, was identified as the leader of the group that led Wednesday's attack.

Capt. George Barnes of the police labor detail arrested Mrs. Bertha Engel, 40, of 6647½ Greenview av., a CIO member who works in another plant, on two warrants, charging assault and aiding and abetting assault, issued after Wednesday's violence.

Also arrested by Capt. Barnes, on a warrant charging participation in Wednesday's assaults, was Sol Kramen, 50, business agent of the union. Kramen was charged with disorderly conduct and released on bond.

2,500 Strike at Plant

A strike was started by 2,500 employes of the General Electric X-Ray corporation, 2012 Jackson blvd., for the announced purpose of enforcing demands for a 30 per cent wage increase and pay for six holidays a year. The strike was called by the International Association of Machinists' union [AFL].

F. E. Scheven, factory manager, disputed the union on the issues involved in the walkout. He said the union had agreed to table the wage proposal temporarily. The chief issue, Scheven said, was the union's demands for the so-called union shop, which requires each employe to pay dues or be fired, and pay for six legal holidays.

9 MINERS HURT BY PREMATURE BLAST IN PIT

Nine men were hurt, four seriously, when a charge of airmite, an explosive, was discharged prematurely yesterday in a pit of the Northern Illinois Coal company at Wilmington, Will county. Four hundred other employes escaped injury.

John Owens, 49, of Coal City, was taken to Silver Cross hospital in Joliet, where physicians said his condition is critical. Louis Gerina, 57, of Braidwood, was taken to St. Mary's hospital, Morris, Grandy county. Attendants said loss of both his eyes is threatened. Also taken to St. Mary's hospital were Joseph Swartz, 51, of Coal City, whose right hand was amputated, and Charles Jones, 54, of Wilmington, who sustained lacerations.

The charge had been placed preparatory to blasting out coal. Fred Uthoff, superintendent, said the premature explosion was the mine's first mishap since 1927.

British Viking Air Liner Makes Its Maiden Flight

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Sept. 21—The Vickers "Viking" air liner made its maiden flight today only 7½ months after it was first designed. Powered by two 1210 horse power engines, the Viking is claimed to have a cruising speed of 252 miles per hour and a range of 1,000 miles when carrying 24 passengers and crew of three.

35 Year Veteran

Capt. Thomas J. Callaghan, one of the most colorful figures in government work here during the last 19 years, yesterday announced his retirement as head of the local office of the United States secret service. He will leave Oct. 1 and thereafter his plans call for "catching up on a little fishing" in Colorado.

A good natured, young looking man despite his 60 years, Capt. Callaghan has been with the government office for 35 years. Prior to assuming charge of the Chicago office on June 1, 1926, he was detailed to the White House staff in Washington guarding such personages as Presidents Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson.

During his tenure of office here, he has led investigations in many forgery and counterfeit cases.

Charles E. Mazey, head of the St. Paul, Minn., office of the service, arrived here yesterday to assume temporary charge after Capt. Callaghan's departure.

Capt. Callaghan lives at 2907 Pine Grove av. with his wife.

SENATOR TOSSES CIO THREAT BACK IN UNION'S TEETH

Sen. Tydings

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21 (AP)—Sen. Tydings [D., Md.] today walked out of a Maryland congressional delegation conference with a CIO group, angrily asserting he refused to be threatened.

Boos and hisses came from the group of approximately 300 Maryland CIO members who came to Washington to urge enactment of President Truman's legislative program.

Tydings, conference chairman, stalked from the room after Robert Lamb, CIO national legislative representative, said that "any members of congress who don't get on the bandwagon and vote for a 65 cent minimum wage are going to be sorry in 1946."

"I will be glad to listen to arguments in favor of the legislation you want," Tydings said, "but I don't intend to sit her and be threatened by any damn person."

Lamb protested he had not threatened any one. Tydings, however, asked Sen. Radcliffe [D., Md.] to assume chairmanship of the meeting and walked out.

Leopold and Charles May Talk in Portugal

LISBON, Portugal, Sept. 21 (AP)—Informed sources said tonight that King Leopold III. of Belgium and Prince Regent Charles, his brother, may confer here soon, altho the Belgian legation said the regent, who arrived here yesterday, is on an "unofficial, unpolitical" visit. It was reported that the king, whose future as Belgium's monarch is in doubt, is expected to arrive incognito from Austria in the next few days.

STRIKES CLOSE 2 MORE PLANTS IN DETROIT AREA

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 21 (AP)—The labor troubles of the nation's automotive capital approached a more serious stage today as strikes closed two more plants—Chrysler corporation's Dodge truck plant and the factory of the Zenith carburetor division of Bendix Aviation corporation.

Chrysler, which sent 2,200 Dodge truck plant employes home yesterday because of strikes in supplier plants, charged that 40 or 50 pickets representing local 140, CIO United Automobile Workers, today prevented 800 employes from entering the plant and forced its closing.

40 Foremen Strike

At the Zenith carburetor plant the management reported a strike of 40 foremen and sent 1,600 production workers home. A spokesmen for the Zenith foreman said the strike was due to "dissatisfaction with working arrangements."

The additional strikes and layoffs brought to an estimated 86,000 the number of workers idle in the Detroit area.

At Chrysler corporation, union officials went ahead with plans for a strike petition to be filed Sept. 23. At General Motors, company officials and UAW leaders announced they have carried on correspondence over the 30 per cent wage demands.

At Ford, delegates from Ford locals thruout the country were summoned to a Sept. 29 meeting here to take action on a strike vote at Ford plants.

Air Line Strike Threatened

New York, Sept. 21 (AP)—A strike of 5,000 ground personnel of Pan American World Airways, which could tie up the air line's bases in the United States and possessions, was threatened tonight by the CIO Transport Workers' union unless 500 persons were kept on their jobs at the Miami, Fla., base. Michael J. Quill, president of the union, and Douglas L. MacMahon, secretary-treasurer, said the air line had notified 500 of its Miami employes that they would be laid off Oct. 1.

Movie Strike Agreement

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21 (AP)—Heads of seven AFL unions involved in the six month strike at Hollywood movie studios today reached an agreement which AFL President William Green predicted would end the jurisdictional dispute. The union leaders agreed to let representatives of the locals involved at the studios try their hand at a settlement.

U. S. DIPLOMATS WILL LEAVE FOR POSTS IN ASIA

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21 (AP)—The state department announced today that diplomats will leave Monday to reopen American consulates thruout liberated Asia.

The first group will go to Shanghai, which will become headquarters for the program, and American consulates general will be reopened at Tientsin, Hangkow, Canton, and Hongkong and a consulate at Tsingtao.

"Offices will be opened in Manchuria, French Indo China, the Federated Malay States, and the Dutch East Indies as soon as necessary arrangements can be made," Acting State Secretary Acheson announced.

LIFE SENTENCE SET FOR KILLING SISTER-IN-LAW

Chief Justice Harold G. Ward in Criminal court yesterday overruled a motion for a new trial in behalf of George Dubravec, 55, and sentenced him to life imprisonment for the murder of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Mildred Rychlik, 1532 S. Kenneth av. Dubravec was convicted by a jury a week ago. Dubravec shot and killed Mrs. Rychlik and wounded her husband on a street car at 16th st., and Kenneth av. July 7. He accused Mrs. Rychlik of breaking up his home. Dubravec appeared for sentence with his head bandaged. Jail guards reported he beat his head on the floor in a suicide attempt last Saturday.

FRENCH TO VOTE TOMORROW FOR CANTON BODIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Sept. 21—The voters of 3,028 cantons, composing France's 85 departments, will go to the polls Sunday to pick members of general councils in an election that may serve as a weathervane for the 4th republic's first general elections next month.

The cantonal representatives fill a relatively important place in the complicated French political setup. They deal with such departmental matters as finances, public works and health. Besides voting on the departmental budget they coöperate with the perfects in an advisory capacity. If the plan for a single constituent assembly is defeated in the October referendum the general councils will elect the senate as in the past.

Each canton is represented by one councilor who is elected nominally for three years. However, as half of the council's membership is renewed every three years, it will be necessary, by a drawing, to cut the term in half for half of the councilors elected Sunday. Political dopesters hope the returns will give them a clearer picture of the nation's political complexion than they were able to get from the confused spring elections.

GIVE US TRIESTE AS CITY-STATE, YUGOSLAVS ASK

Italian Question Referred to Big 5 Deputies

BY WILLIAM FULTON
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Sept. 21—Yugoslavia has asked the Big Five for Trieste, important port and railroad terminus at the head of the Adriatic, promising it will be made a separate state in the Yugoslav federation.

Edward Kardelj, vice president of the government of Yugoslavia, said tonight that the request had been made formally to the council of the Big Five foreign ministers now at work in London on a draft of the peace treaties with Italy and other European belligerents. He also confirmed that Yugoslavia was claiming the entire territory of Venezia Giulia, the so-called Julian marsh surrounding Trieste. These are the demands of Marshal Tito, Yugoslavia's military boss, backed by Moscow.

Italians Would Elect

The offer to make Trieste a state was put forward to meet the argument that the population of the city is preëminently Italian, a fact which the Yugoslavs admit. Kardelj said that under this scheme for the port city, Italians could elect their own assembly and appoint their own government which would govern the state independently. Also, Trieste would have equal representation in the assembly of nationalities of the Yugoslav federation.

The questions of Trieste, the new Yugoslav-Italian frontier, and the fate of the Italian colonies have been referred to the foreign ministers' deputies for further study. They will stay on in London and work up a report for the next session of the foreign ministers here.

With respect to Trieste the deputies have been instructed to explore the possibilities of internationalizing the port. This differs from the Yugoslav plan for a separate state under the Yugoslav flag altho Kardelj did propose that Trieste be made a free port outside the Yugoslav customs and open to all countries.

Follow Nationality Line

The general principle laid down for the guidance of the deputies was that the Italy-Yugoslav boundary should follow the ethnic line or the cleavage between the two nationalities. The ethnic line is far to the west of the old Wilson line of the last peace table and takes in several hundred thousand Yugoslavs. The province of Venezia Giullia was granted to Italy after World War I.

The foreign ministers met twice today, discussing the pattern of the peace treaties with Romania and Bulgaria. A soviet memorandum was taken as a basis and proposals by American Secretary of State Byrnes and the British delegation were studied.

DIPLOMATS SEE ABDICATION BY HIROHITO SOON

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21 (AP)—A Tokyo radio report that Gen. MacArthur has greatly strengthened his legal control over the Japanese government excited keen interest among diplomatic officials here today.

Some suggested that the steps by which the general's power over the Japanese was increased might be among the last major actions of Emperor Hirohito.

Among these officials the belief is strong that as soon as Hirohito has completed fulfilling the allied surrender terms he will quit the throne in favor of a regency for his school boy son, Akihito.

FLAMELESS JET PLANE PUT THRU PACES IN CANADA

Flies 125 Miles in 12 Minutes

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 21—The "Gloster Meteor," a flameless jet-propelled British fighter plane similar to the American P-80, was demonstrated here today. The plane earlier this week flew the 125 miles from Montreal to Ottawa in about 12 minutes, at a speed said to be somewhat under its rated maximum.

It is powered by two Rolls Royce turbo jet engines, and is claimed to be the only jet type plane of the allies actually to be used against the Nazis. It is a conventional low winged monoplane except for absence of propellers, and has a high tail assembly lifted above the flameless jet exhaust stream.

Engines Burn Kerosene

The jet engines burn kerosene, and have no ignition system other than the initial starting spark. The pilot has only two engine gauges to watch. These tell turbine speed and jet stream temperature. Speed is controled thru regulating the fuel supply.

Squadron Leader E. L. Baudoux of Stellarton, N. S., the pilot, flew the ship over the airport at an altitude of 300 feet at speeds varying from 300 to 550 miles an hour which he said was the top speed permissible altho far below capacity. On one sweep he rose to an altitude of 17,000 feet in 25 seconds altho apparently at a relatively easy angle of climb.

Propellers Can Be Used

Demonstration officials said that propellers could be attached to the turbine shaft within the jet engine thru a 10-1 reduction gear, so that combined jet-air screw effect could be obtained. This, they said, would give power at the ratio of four horsepower for each pound of engine weight. The most efficient piston type engine develops about one horsepower for every pound.

Using jet power only, at high speeds, the engines burn a greater weight of fuel than the propeller type plane. Each engine weighs 950 pounds, has a maximum thrust of 2,000 pounds, roughly equivalent to 2,000 horsepower, and burns fuel at the rate of 200 gallons an hour on take-off. The turbines, which act as powerful air compressors, have a peak speed of 16,000 r. p. m.

Canadians have been working with the British on the jet engines since July, 1942, and have a government owned company ready to carry on development. Research plants have been established at Winnipeg and Leaside, Ont.

Two Men Killed as Navy Planes Collide at Miami

Miami, Fla., Sept. 21 (AP)—A navy night fighter apparently in trouble and being shepherded towards safety by four other navy aircraft, tangled wings with one of its guides over downtown Miami tonight, killing two pilots and causing a two-alarm fire in the midtown district. Both planes were from the Melbourne, Fla., night fighter training station. No one on the ground was killed or injured, altho a warehouse was destroyed and a hotel garage badly damaged by fire.

BOY, 16, JAILED FOR WHITE LIE, FINDS KINDNESS

Because his motives were honest, Leonard Lanphear, 16, of Racine, Wis., found the law and an employer on his side yesterday when he faced Judge Philip L. Sullivan in federal District court on a charge of attempting to register for the draft under an assumed name and representing that he was 19.

After running away from his home, Lanphear said he tried to enlist to take the place of a brother killed in France, but he was rejected as under age. Not wishing to return home, he applied for a job in the Office Furniture Clearing house, 236 W. Lake st. The job was his, he was assured, if he produced a draft card to prove he was 18, so Lanphear went off to get one and was arrested.

Judge Sullivan, after hearing Lanphear's story from Assistant United States Atty. Walter Wikowski, dismissed the charge and asked a probation officer to help the boy find a job. The clearing house hired him, James Roberts, 5910 Eggleston av., who will be his foreman, advanced some wages, and offered to provide him with a temporary home.

BRITAIN BUILDS 107 WARSHIPS; 16 ARE FLATTOPS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Sept. 22 [Saturday]—Altho the peace time strength of the British navy is not yet fully determined, it is going ahead with the building of at least 107 warships, including a battleship, 16 aircraft carriers, 10 cruisers, and about 80 destroyers, the Daily Express said today.

The battleship is to be the Vanguard, Britain's greatest, of approximately 45,000 tons. The carriers, of a new design and named for Malta, the "unsinkable aircraft carrier," probably will be comparable to America's Midway class of 42,000 ton carriers, the Express said.

Other carriers under construction are reported to be of the Royal Ark class of probably more than 30,000 tons, five light carriers of 14,000 tons and 25 knot speed, and several others which may be a little larger and faster. All these ships, the Express said, are being built in private yards.

TELL HOW NAZIS TRADED YANKS TO JAPS FOR GAS

Hamilton Field, Cal., Sept. 21 (AP)—Two navy gunners, returned today from a Japanese prison camp, declared that they and about 700 other men, captured by German raiders in the South Atlantic, were taken by the Germans to Yokohama and traded for gasoline.

The two were Seamen 2d Class Joseph Robertson, 26, of Jenkin-Jones, W. Va., and James Muldrow, 24, of Florence, S. C.

Robertson said that they were members of the gun crew of the tanker Calcutta which was sunk off Brazil in June, 1942, by a German raider which carried no flag. The raider was a captured English merchantman. Fourteen of the Calcutta crew were killed, the others captured.

DEATH STALKS WARSAW ROADS AS NIGHT FALLS

WARSAW, Sept. 21 (AP)—The war is over, but the shooting continues in this phantom-like shell of Poland's once proud capital.

Indiscriminate gunfire nightly takes a toll of dead and wounded in the debris strewn streets.

It is not safe to go out alone, or without a gun, after nightfall. Even diplomats of the American, British, Swedish, Luxembourg, Danish, and Belgian embassies and legations quartered in the Polonia hotel on the city's main thorofare, Aleje Jerozolimskie st., have imposed a virtual curfew on themselves, venturing forth only in groups.

Thousands of Polish and Russian soldiers and many Russians in Polish uniforms, as well as hefty blonde girls of the Polish police, with rifles and submachine guns swinging from their shoulders, jostle throngs of men, women, and children in the darkened streets and the ruins of dynamited and fire gutted buildings.

All night long, Russians and Poles lustily sing their national anthems and war songs, while vodka flows freely in cubbyhole night spots.

Not long after nightfall the shooting usually starts. One hears the explosions of rifles or pistols, followed by groans and screams. Several times there has been shooting outside the windows of the rooms of United States Ambassador and Mrs. Arthur Bliss Lane. No one seems to know who does the shooting or who gets shot.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Sept. 22—Execution of Nathan Hale

ON the morning of Sept. 22, 1776, a 21 year old American who had fallen into the hands of the British the night before was taken by his captors to an artillery park on Manhattan Island near the present intersection of 66th st. and 3d av., New York.

He had no illusions as to his fate. He was a spy and he had admitted it. The penalty was death.

Confronted with the gallows on which he was to die, the youth retained his composure. The British asked him whether he had anything to say. Then the words that have heartened generations of patriots were spoken:

"I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country."

The British executed him, but at least one among them realized that his spirit would never die. A Capt. Montressor carried news of his death and of his dying words to the American lines that very evening.

The youth who lost his life so gloriously was Capt. Nathan Hale, a company commander in Gen. Washington's army. Contrary to his inclinations, and motivated by the purest patriotism, he had undertaken the perilous task of entering Long Island territory, held by the enemy, and obtaining information about troop dispositions and plans. He had accomplished his mission and was about to reënter the American lines when he was captured.

DEMOCRATS BAR QUESTIONING OF ELLIOTT ON LOAN

Committee Rejects G.O.P. Motion, 11 to 10

BY WILLARD EDWARDS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21—The house ways and means committee was deadlocked tonight over disposition of the Elliott Roosevelt "bad loans" case after new evidence involving the late President Roosevelt in his son's financial transactions had provoked an uproar at a closed session.

Eleven Democratic members beat down a motion offered by the 10 Republicans on the committee which would have brought Elliott himself and other prominent witnesses before the group for cross-examination at open hearings.

These witness include Charles F. Roeser and Sid W. Richardson, Texas oil operators, who would be questioned about happenings during a Gulf of Mexico fishing expedition by the late President in 1937. Roeser and Richardson invested $500,000 in Elliott's Texas radio network in 1938 and took over the business when the President's son went into the army in 1940.

Report Visit to Island

Newspaper reports of that period showed that Mr. Roosevelt made a night visit to an island off Corpus Christi, Tex., on which two Texans operate a cattle ranch. Later financial transactions by Elliott were said to have involved some of the guests present.

Elliott has testified to treasury agents the President had no connection with his loans. John Hartford, president of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, who lent Elliott $200,000 and received $4,000 in settlement, has testified the President not only approved his loan but urged it. Hartford was included among the proposed witnesses.

Also Would Call Jones

Another witness mentioned in the Republican motion was Jesse Jones, former secretary of commerce, who was called in by the late President to settle Elliott's tangled finances. Jones prevailed upon Hartford to settle the $200,000 loan for $4,000, which Jones paid out of his own pocket.

As the debate grew hot at the secret session, a southern Democrat declared that the whole case "smelled to heaven," but he voted against the motion to develop further evidence at open hearings.

Rep. Eberharter [D., Pa.] moved to direct the internal revenue bureau to disallow the Hartford deduction. This was pending as the committee broke up amid general confusion. It will meet again tomorrow.

DINE ON LOBSTER BROUGHT BY AIR WHILE SEA FRESH

Baby lobster and haddock caught at Boston, Mass., Thursday and delivered to Chicago at midnight that night by United Air Lines were served at a luncheon in the Continental hotel yesterday in connection with a conference on transportation of sea and shellfish by air.

The conference, attended by representatives of the hotel, restaurant, and sea food industries, was sponsored by United.

Dr. Spencer A. Larsen, director of air cargo research at Wayne university, Detroit, Mich., said tests have shown that fish protected with pliofilm or similar material can be shipped without ice, and the temperature rises only ½ degree an hour, he said. A container for 40 pounds of fish weighs only 6 pounds.

Leo Young of the federal fish and wild life service, said air shipment prices run 10 to 15 per cent more than rail, but predicted the cost would be reduced. He said the public would pay the additional tariff for freshly caught fish.

KILLS WOMAN WITH 5 SHOTS AS SCORES WATCH

Richmond, Va., Sept. 21 (AP)—Mrs. Edna M. Griffin, 33, a department store employe, was shot to death on a street in downtown Richmond shortly before 6 p. m. today while many office workers were waiting for trolleys and buses. She was struck with five bullets from a pistol.

Police Lt. J. W. Butler said Willie A. Brittle, her former employer, was arrested on a charge of murder. Butler said no motive had been established.

The shooting was witnessed by scores in the rush hour. Butler said witnesses told him Brittle was standing at the entrance of a theater and began firing as Mrs. Griffin emerged.

A street car supervisor on duty at the corner wrested the pistol from Brittle's hands and guarded him, police said, until they arrived.

2 SHIPS RAM WAY THRU ICE TO SAVE 11 U. S. SOLDIERS

Two Illinois Men in Rescued Band

NARSARSSAUK, Greenland, Sept. 21 (AP)—Thru thick pack ice off Greenland's east coast, two vessels have rammed their way to a lonely radio-weather station at Skjoldungen to rescue 11 United States soldiers whose supplies were buried by a disastrous snowslide last Jan. 8.

Sgt. Chester Mileski

Col. Eugene M. Rice, commanding officer of the Greenland base command, eastern defense command, announced the rescue today. He said all 11 men were well and in good spirits despite a year-long stay in the grim country where snows of another winter already have fallen.

Among those rescued were Staff Sgt. Chester A. Mileski, 2217 N. Kildare av., Chicago, and Sgt. Edwin A. English of Bushnell, Ill.

Sleeps Long Enough

The January snowslide roared down a mountainside directly behind the little cluster of wooden buildings that comprise the outpost. Sgt. Mileski, of the 137th army airways communications system squadron, slept a little longer than usual before going on duty that morning. Had he left the barracks for the station at the usual time, he would have been caught by the slide.

[News of Mileski's rescue was received joyfully by his wife, Mrs. Beatrice Mileski, 33. The Mileskis have one daughter, Judith, 7 months old. She was born after Sgt. Mileski went overseas. Another daughter, Julia, died last June when she was 17 months old.]

Later in January, Sgt. English became hungry enough one day to brave 108 mile an hour winds to walk down the steep slope from the radio building to the kitchen 500 feet away at the base of the mountain.

Get Food from Air

He had proceeded less than 100 feet from the radio station, where the men had been forced to move because of the continuing threat to their barracks of overhanging snow, when a snowslide caught him and rolled him to the edge of a steep cliff before stopping.

"I thought I was a goner," the sergeant said.

Since January the rescued troops have been supplied with food dropped from airplanes.

Col. Rice said a small group of Danish operators would take over the Skjoldungen outpost this month. The station was installed in 1942 to provide weather information to the air transport command's North Atlantic route.

Unionist Held

Frank Carroll yesterday after he surrendered in indictment charging him with beating worker.

Sought by police since Sept. 8 on a charge of labor slugging, Frank Carroll, business agent of local 701, Auto Mechanics union [AFL], walked into Criminal court yesterday and surrendered.

The union official timed his surrender a few minutes after an indictment charging him with conspiracy to commit mayhem was returned before Chief Justice Harold G. Ward. Carroll's attorney, George Bieber, posted $2,500 cash bond for the labor leader.

Carroll and three unidentified aids are accused of slugging Carter Olsen, 30, of 2500 N. Washtenaw av., a member of local 701. Olsen has identified Carroll as one of the men who chased him out of the Greyhound Motor and Suppy company garage, 916 N. Kilbourn av., where he is employed, into a nearby alley and beat him.

FINNS' LEFTIST REGIME DECIDES ON WAGE FREEZE

BY HAL FOUST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

HELSINKI, Finland, Sept. 21—The leftist government, functioning by the forbearance of the soviet conquerors, tonight clamped down on increasing incomes promoted by the labor unions which, with the favor of the Kremlin, had boosted wage rates from 50 to 100 per cent in the last year.

A proclamation announced that wages would be frozen and that price ceilings would be raised on necessities now under control.

The news was heard by this correspondent as he interviewed Bruno Suviranta, professor and economic adviser to the government. Before his telephone rang he had been explaining causes of the inflation here, which has priced a package of American cigarets at the equivalent of $15 at the standard rate of exchange.

Supply of Goods Limited

"Labor asked and obtained more money to buy more goods which did not exist," he said. "It merely hiked the price of the limited available goods. Our only hope of whipping inflation, saving our fiscal structure, is for us to increase the volume of goods available for purchase."

Foreign observers had reported that the Finnish counterparts of America's Philip Murray and John L. Lewis had been able to push the Moscow approved government into the wage spirals because the unions were in good standing with the Communists.

Help Needed Desperately

For the private enterprise system of economy to survive in Finland, Suviranta said, industry must receive credits from foreign sources.

The country of 3,800,000 population, which lost 10 to 15 per cent of its productive capacity thru territorial concessions to the soviets under the armistice terms, is in deperate need of help to meet the Red exaction of $50,000,000 worth of goods at the 1938 prices as an annual indemnity for six years.

A Finnish trade delegation now en route to America, according to Prime Minister J. K. Paasikivi, faces competition from the united nations in an appeal for a United States loan. However, in addition to its record as a debt payer, Finland's appeal is bolstered by the possibility of the nation becoming part of the soviet union, with its ports closed to American trade should the United States refuse a loan so Finland can deliver goods to Russia.

The Finns, laboring figuratively, with bayonets at their backs, cannot shift their economic burdens to colonials. For five years more they must try to obtain the imports necessary to survive while the bulk of their exports are taken by Russia as indemnity.

FOOD AND HOUSING PRIORITY GIVEN JEWS IN GERMANY BY U. S.

FRANKFURT, Germany, Sept. 21 (AP)—Local German officials must give all victims of nazi racial or political persecution, chiefly Jews, first priority in the issuance of ration permits and in housing, United States army headquarters said tonight.

The announcement also said that the needs of persons made destitute by Hitlerite discrimination will be met from property owned or occupied by members of the Nazi party.

German officials were ordered to eliminate all features of rent rationing and distribution systems which discriminate against or favor groups or individuals on the grounds of nationality, race, creed, color, or political opinion.

SENATE GROUP SHELVES DRAFT LAW REVISION

Votes to Report House 'Red Apple' Bill

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21 (AP)—Revision of the draft law went on the shelf in the senate military committee today to wait while measures aimed to induce army-navy enlistments get a trial.

The committee put aside a bill by its chairman, Elbert Thomas [D., Utah] embracing changes in the selective service law, and voted to report instead the house approved "red apple" bill.

The house measure was so dubbed because members said it held out a red apple, in the form of allowances and benefits, to enlistees.

Mustering Out Pay

Its major provisions:

1. Mustering out pay for men now in the army who enlist.
2. A travel allowance of 5 cents a mile for those granted furloughs on reënlistment.
3. An optional monetary allowance in lieu of quarters for dependents.
4. All benefits under the GI bill of rights for those who enlist before next May 15 when the selective service law expires.
5. Optional retirement on part pay after 20 years' service instead of the present 30 years.

The senate commitee made only one change. It increased to 18 months an optional one year enlistment period approved by the house for men who have served six months or more in the army.

To Press for Revision

Thomas said the war department had suggested this alteration. Sen. Revercomb [R., W. Va.] served notice he will try on the senate floor to cut it back to one year.

Enlistment for two years or three years also is authorized by the measure.

Thomas' bill included virtually all provisions of the house measure. In addition it would set a two year limit on service by future draftees and forbid drafting men over 26.

Before the committee meeting, he told reporters he would try to limit the draft to the 21-26 age groups.

"I think these 'teen age boys ought to have a chance to get an education," he said.

Accepts Majority View

But after the committee session, Thomas indicated that he had accepted a majority view there that "we ought to meet one problem at a time."

"The army and navy are anxious to begin their campaigns for volunteers," he told reporters. "If changes in selective service are tied up with these inducements it will lead to debate and delay."

But he added: "If the volunteer system doesn't work we'll have to do something."

EXPERT FAVORS DOUGLAS FIELD FOR BIG PLANES

The wisdom of having separate airports for high speed planes and slower ships is another reason for going ahead at once with acquisition of the Douglas army air field even if its expansion beyond 3,000 acres is difficult, A. H. Luke said yesterday. Luke is superintendent of the Lewis School of Aeronautics at Lockport and a member of the advisory board of the new state department of aviation.

Luke predicted there will be a change in the objective of a single enormous airport for a large city like Chicago. Hazards under this plan would be vastly increased by the varying speeds of planes in the air, he said. Fastest planes would overtake slower ships and complicate the traffic safety problem, he said.

"Chicago should get the 1,423 acres of army air property near Park Ridge without further delay," Luke said.

"This could then be the airport for the coast-to-coast and foreign service ships flying faster than 300 miles an hour. The old Chicago airport could be used for the shorter domestic flights by planes flying around 200 miles per hour, including frate planes."

Dental Graduate

Yam-hin Louie as he was congratulated by his wife yesterday following graduation from Northwestern dental school.

Dentists, lawyers, and other professional persons owe society a greater debt than craftsmen because of philanthropic contributions and state aid which make their education possible, Dr. Shirley A. Hamrin, professor of education at Northwestern university, told graduates of the law and dental schools at commencement exercises yesterday in Lincoln hall on the downtown campus.

"Philanthropic contributions or the state pay more than one-half of the cost of professional education, while the craftsman must pay almost his entire cost of apprenticeship," he said. "To repay the aid from society, the professional man must become a civic leader, taking interest and positive action in the community welfare and education."

President Franklyn B. Snyder of the university presided at the graduation exercises. Diplomas were awarded to 56 candidates for degrees of doctor of dental surgery; six for juris doctor, and four for bachelor of laws. Graduates were from 22 states, Hawaii, and Hong Kong, China.

C-54 Lops 17 Hours Off Record Japan-U. S. Flight

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 21 (AP)—A C-54 bringing home four released prisoners knocked 17 hours off the air transport command's Japan-United States record, it was announced today. The plane flew the northern route via Midway and Hickham field, Hawaii, instead of the established southern leg via Guam, Kwajalein, and Hickham. It landed yesterday. The flying time was 25 hours and 30 minutes for the 6,330 miles, against the previous record of 42 hours 22 minutes by the longer southern route.

BROOKS ASKS U.S. TO LET CHICAGO BID FOR DOUGLAS

Calls City Eventual World Air Hub

BY PHILIP DODD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21—Sen. Brooks [R., Ill.] today asked W. Stuart Symington, President Truman's nominee as surplus property administrator, to give the city of Chicago opportunity to acquire the Douglas airport, northwest of Chicago, as a municipal field.

Brooks' request was made in a letter to Symington. The letter followed conferences this week between the senator and surplus property officials, the civil aeronautics board, and the army, which owns the Douglas field and airplane plant.

Symington was told in Brooks' letter that Chicago is the eventual hub for the world's air transport system and that the added facilities of the Douglas field are needed if the city is to handle increased air traffic.

Cites B-29 Landings

"The landing in Chicago Wednesday of three B-29 Super Fortress bombers for refueling and servicing, on their flight from Japan to Washington, has again emphasized Chicago's need for adequate airports," Brooks wrote.

"We must also consider broad international policies to safeguard the preëminent position of the United States in oveseas aviation and to insure the unique position of Chicago as a logical port of entry and departure for much of the postwar traffic originating in the middle west and destined for points overseas."

Brooks reminded Symington that the Chicago airport selection board is studying sites for the city's master airport and that many agencies, including commercial air lines, are in favor of the Douglas field.

"I have been informed," wrote Brooks, "that the modification work in the Douglas airport will be discontinued soon and the army will release this plant and field as surplus property. I sincerely trust that as administrator of the surplus property administration you will give the city of Chicago and its representatives an opportunity to be heard in the disposition of the plant."

Improvement Cost Less

The surplus property act requires the administrator to offer surplus property to other government agencies when it is first declared surplus. State and municipalities then are given the opportunity to buy, altho charges have been made that this provision of the law has been overlooked in the disposition of property in the past.

Brooks told Symington the Douglas field could be improved at a cost of 22 million dollars to handle a peak capacity of 3,000 passengers an hour on 240 flights, compared with the 61 million dollar cost of similar improvements to the present municipal field. He said the estimates were those of the Chicago economic advisory council.

The present Chicago airport is in an area of high land values, tall buildings, and other obstacles to clearing runway approaches, Brooks said. On the other hand, he continued, low land values and the absence of obstructions surrounding the Douglas field make it possible to improve that airport without destroying industrial or residential developments.

Truman Presents Medal to Stimson on Birthday

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21 (AP)—President Truman today presented the distinguished service medal to Henry L. Stimson, retiring secretary of war, on his 78th birthday. The decoration was awarded for war time service "exceptional in the history of the nation" at a ceremony in the White House rose garden.

GETS 47 LASHES, CLUBBED; DEATH BLAMED ON HEAT

Eldora, Ia., Sept. 21 [Special]—After hearing testimony that Ronald Miller, 17, an inmate of the state training school here, had been struck 47 lashes with a harness tug, beaten with a club, and struck with a blackjack, a coroner's jury decided today his death was "the result of heat prostration and possibly other complications."

It added that "there was not sufficient evidence to show that any felonious act had been committed."

Miller of Des Moines, Ia., died Aug. 29 after having been punished the night before for allegedly planning a mass escape from the institution. After Miller's death the 538 inmates rioted and 225 fled in three mass escapes.

Three inmates, Bernard Ryan, George Clayton, and Bruce Brown, told the coroner's jury of the beating Miller received.

Guards Suspended

Two guards, Carl Klatt and Harold Nelson, have been suspended in connection with Miller's death.

Jack Howell and Robert Zueglau, two other inmates, told of Miller's collapse on the school's coal pile Aug. 29. Altho Miller had been working previously in the tailor shop and was not used to hard work, he was ordered to shovel coal as a further punishment. It was a blistering day and Miller collapsed and was taken to the school hospital, where he died.

Dr. R. E. Gray, former school physician who resigned last week, testified Miller was unconscious when brought to the hospital and his heart showed extreme exhaustion.

Head Hemorrhage

Dr. D. M. Nyquist, an Eldora physician who participated in the postmortem, said the boy's head showed a hemorrhage between the scalp and the skull but no fracture or brain injury. He and Dr. Gray said heat prostration and an exhausted heart were actual or possible causes of Miller's death.

Effect of the verdict on the murder charges filed earlier against four defendants was not immediately clear.

Preliminary hearings are scheduled for Monday on the murder charges filed Sept. 13 against Darrell T. Brown, assistant superintendent; H. J. Martin, school "dean of boys," and Carl Klatt and Harold Nelson, cottage managers whose duties are similar to those of guards.

LT. EPES ACTED LIKE 'MANIAC,' SAYS DEFENSE

Columbia, S. C., Sept. 21 (AP)—Opposing counsel today alternately depicted Lt. Samuel C. Epes, 27, as a man who lost his head and as a cunning wife slayer who committed an almost perfect crime.

A lawyer for the medical administrative officer told the jury Epes may have acted "like a crazy maniac" but did not kill his school teacher wife. Prosecution counsel portrayed him as having planned the alleged crime to the last detail, even to burying the body in an abandoned foxhole.

Defense Atty. Richard E. Broome said Epes' only offense was "losing his head" in a moment of panic and secretly burying his wife after she died of an overdose of sedative. Indications were the arguments will be completed tomorrow, with the case reaching the jury before the week-end.

31 WOMEN GIVEN GOLD STARS FOR DRIVING IN WAR

Thirty-one members of the American Women's Volunteer service received gold stars yesterday from Col. Edgar L. Love, deputy commander of central district, air technical service command, in recognition of 850,000 miles the Chicago AWVS has driven for the ATSC in the last three years.

"But for the help of the AWVS, many important projects would have been unduly delayed with subsequent loss of life," said Col. Love.

Women given stars included those who had driven between 1,000 and 3,000 hours. Their service covered 150,000 man hours of driving for the ATSC, the 6th service command, and the Community and War Fund.

Nine Divisions Slated to Return

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21 (AP)—The war department today announced tentative plans to return nine divisions from overseas in October.

Those returning from Europe include the 10th armored, and the 70th, 66th, 75th, and 34th infantry divisions.

Seven Ships Return 11,000

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 21 (AP)—The army and navy said after debarking 11,000 Pacific veterans today they would have "a comparative respite" tomorrow when only three ships carrying nearly 3,000 are scheduled to arrive. They will be the S. S. Warhawk, bringing the first group of navy dischargees from the Philippines and 1,200 Seabees. The army transport Cape Canso, from Honolulu with 1,206 army and 310 navy personnel, and the freighter Cape May with five army and 21 navy men.

4,952 Arrive from Manila.

Wilmington, Cal., Sept. 21 (AP)—The transport Gen. Randall arrived here today from Manila with 4,952 military personnel, most of them for discharge.

Marines, Navy Men Land

San Diego, Cal., Sept. 21 (AP)—The Prince Williams, an escort carrier, today slid into this harbor with 850 returning marines, navy air corps, and naval personnel.

AUTO BREAKS MOTORMAN'S LEG

Sven A. Johnson, 42, of 5234 Patterson av., a street car motorman, suffered a leg fracture yesterday when he was struck by the automobile of a hit and run driver at Western and Belmont avs.

GARY YANK GETS PLENTY WAR, BUT LIKES ARMY LIFE

Edward C. Keith Jr., 23, of Gary, Ind., enlisted in the regular army five years ago. He was captured on Bataan and survived the death march there. Soon afterward he killed a Jap prison guard and fled to the Philippine hills. For nearly three years he fought as a guerrilla. Then came rescue, return to the United States, and discharge. Yesterday he applied at the Indianapolis, Ind., induction center to reenlist. He wants to become a professional soldier.

Disabled Veterans Set Convention for October

Vivian D. Corbly, national adjutant of the Disabled American Veterans said yesterday that the organization would hold its national convention in the Congress hotel Oct. 19 to 23, inclusive. Approximately 1,500 delegates from all sections of the country are expected to attend. President Truman has indicated his intention to come to the convention if it is possible, Corbly said, and other high ranking government officials are slated to address the veterans.

NEW CLEW LINKS EX-CONVICT WITH POLICE KILLINGS

Information that Francis Willard [Fritz] Barnstable, ex-convict who is held by Detroit police as a suspect in the murder of Detectives Charles Brady and George Hellstern at Clark st. and Lunt av. the night of Sept. 2, returned to Detroit from Chicago the night of Sept. 3 was given yesterday to investigators.

Held with Barnstable is Douglas M. Anderson, 32, also an ex-convict, who has confessed a series of robberies in Detroit and Dearborn, Mich., in which he said Barnstable was his driver.

After questioning the men for four hours yesterday, police arranged to have them take lie detector tests today at Lansing, Mich.

Woman Tells of His Arrival

The new development in the investigation yesterday came when Miss Venus Watson, hostess in the Swingland cafe, outside Detroit, told Detective Lt. Herbert Hale and Sgt. Ernest Johnson of the Detroit police that Barnstable appeared in the roadhouse the night of Sept. 3.

"He appeared very nervous and tired," Miss Watson said. "He told me that he had just brought his mother back from Chicago by automobile."

Asserts He Was Kidding

When confronted with her statement, Barnstable admitted he had that conversation with her, but insisted he was "only kidding."

Detectives Richard Martin and George Shannon of Chicago, who took part questioning the prisoners, said they were not convinced by the alibis given by the men. The detectives conferred by telephone with Chief of Detectives Walter Storms and the lie tests were arranged.

Barnstable has a mottled face and his description otherwise answers that of the gunman who killed Detectives Brady and Hellstern.

Barnstable fled Detroit after Anderson's arrest, but was seized Wednesday in Cincinnati, O., and was returned to Michigan by Lt. Howard Forman of Dearborn.

ASK NAVY PIER'S QUICK RETURN AS CONVENTION AID

Mayor Kelly yesterday was requested by representatives of the Chicago convention bureau to urge speedy return to the city of Navy pier, now under control of the navy. The representatives, headed by Sherman Sexton, president of the bureau, told the mayor that a large number of conventions will be held in Chicago and that without the facilities of Navy pier heavy industries are hard pressed to find suitable exhibition space. The navy has had the pier since July 1, 1941.

2 SHOT, 35 FLEE AS WOMAN FIRES PISTOL IN PLANT

Two men were shot and 35 other employes in the E. F. Leganger company plant, 925 Chicago av., furniture maker, were endangered late yesterday when a Negro woman worker drew a pistol from her purse and opened fire.

Stanley Jerz, 52, of 5814 S. Albany av., was hit in the left leg, and Judge Craig, 46, Negro, of 4316 Champlain av., suffered a flesh wound in the side. They were shot by Miss Leona Brown, 52, of 4702 S. State st. All work in the plant as weavers.

Other employes fled and Miss Brown still was holding the pistol when policemen arrived. She was taken to the Racine av. police station. She said she believed other employes were talking about her and planning to have her discharged.

DURKIN'S PLEA IS OPPOSED BY U. S. PETITION

Kenneth S. Nathan, assistant United States attorney, filed a petition yesterday before Federal Judge William J. Campbell opposing the probation plea of Martin Durkin. Durkin is under a 15 year federal prison sentence for transporting stolen cars across state lines in violation of the Dyer act. He recently completed an 18 year state prison term for the murder of a federal agent. Durkin contends his good behavior in prison and the fact he has reformed should entitle him to probation on the federal sentence, imposed at the time he was convicted of murder. Hearing on the probation plea has been set for Oct. 11.

THE MARSHALL-DEWEY LETTER

Life magazine says that President Roosevelt "knew in advance that the Japanese were going to attack us" and that this information of the President's prior knowledge was in the hands of Gov. Dewey during his campaign for the Presidency last year. Dewey did not use the information, it is asserted, because Gen. Marshall, the chief of staff, appealed to him to refrain from doing so on the grounds that Japanese knowledge that we had cracked their secret code would destroy a military advantage which, Marshall is said to have asserted, we still enjoyed as late as last summer.

Herbert Brownell, Dewey's campaign manager, verifies the statement made in Life, at least by implication, by his assertion that Gov. Dewey sacrificed the Presidency to his own sense of patriotism. It obviously is the duty of the congressional Pearl Harbor committee to get from Gen. Marshall and make public that letter which the governor, with proper scruples, says should come from the general and not from himself.

The most serious charge made by John T. Flynn in his exposure of the Pearl Harbor scandal now is substantiated fully. By the cracking of the Japanese code Mr. Roosevelt and members of his cabinet knew 16 hours before the attack on Pearl Harbor that the Japanese were going to war. Why they failed to pass on that information to the commanders at Hawaii still remains to be determined. Mr. Roosevelt, when he played with his stamp collection on the afternoon of Dec. 7, 1941, was, indeed, waiting to be surprised.

If there is any doubt in the mind of any American that the late President deliberately put this nation into a war which cost us a million casualties, the Marshall-Dewey letter will sweep that doubt away. By itself it is a tremendously significant piece of evidence. It is, however, merely the final link in a long chain which establishes Mr. Roosevelt's constant maneuvering to put this nation into the war on the side of the British empire.

Those efforts began before the war started in Europe. In 1939 the late Ambassador Lothian and Norman H. Davis, Mr. Roosevelt's so-called ambassador at large, were among those who attended a dinner party in New York at which the problem of getting this country to fight if Britain had to fight was discussed. Even at that early date the administration and the British were coöperating to this common end.

The New York Times has just added another piece of evidence. In an editorial on the Pearl Harbor secretary of war, Mr. Stimson, it recalls the circumstances of his appointment, saying:

"On June 18, 1940, over the radio, Mr. Stimson warned his countrymen of what lay ahead and submitted a program of what must be done to avoid catastrophe. The next day President Roosevelt offered him the secretaryship of war. He accepted."

Mr. Stimson's so-called program to avoid catastrophe was a plea that this nation enter the war. The minute the President heard of it he knew that here was his man. He lost no time in signing him up for the purpose of disrupting the Republican national convention which was then gathering.

The Atlantic Charter, it now is pretty thoroly established, was merely a façade to conceal what actually was agreed upon at Mr. Roosevelt's meeting with Prime Minister Churchill off Newfoundland. The Pearl Harbor inquiries have brought out that then, or shortly before, arrangements were consummated to operate our fleet jointly with the British and Dutch out of Singapore. Mr. Roosevelt there gave guaranties, which he had no right or proper power to give, that if Britain were attacked by Japan the United States would join it in defending its colonial empire, even if we were not attacked. Mr. Churchill evidently felt he could speak freely once we were in the fighting. On Feb. 15, 1942, three months after Pearl Harbor, he told the British people:

"When I survey and compute the power of the United States and its vast resources, and feel that they are now in it with us, with the British commonwealth of nations altogether now, however long it lasts, till death or victory, I cannot believe there is any other fact in the whole world which can compare with that. That is what I have dreamed of, aimed at, and worked for, and now it has come to pass."

Pearl Harbor was the climax, but it was not, as Mr. Flynn has well established, the beginning. The story is long and involved, but day by day more and more of it comes to light. Those who say that the United States can never keep out of any general European war have one fatal flaw in their argument. We have never tried it. Mr. Wilson in 1916 and 1917, and Mr. Roosevelt from 1939 until Pearl Harbor, were avid and active to engage this nation in conflict. Both succeeded. We will never know whether we can stay out of such a war until we have a President who tries with a whole heart to keep us out.

FERMENT IN MALAYA

Until now it had been generally thought that of the Asiatic colonial peoples subjugated by the Japanese only the Filipinos, with their long preparation for self-government at the hands of the United States, waged any substantial guerrilla warfare against the invaders. With the Japanese surrender comes the story of a small army of guerrillas in Malaya who, it is alleged, killed thousands of Japs.

The fact that the British didn't publicize this organization in the colony from which they were driven is explainable by the fact that they had little or nothing to do with organizing it. It was organized and largely dominated by Communists, and non-Communist members now assert that it was fully as active in advancing the cause of communism as it was in killing Japs. Some units, they assert, were far more political in character than they were military.

Among the many problems that face the British empire today is the renewal of its old rivalry with Russia, which has been largely quiescent since 1907. In that year the two empires compromised their differences in Asia to face rising Germany. After the revolution Russian policy recognized Great Britain as its principal opponent, but internal difficulties prevented a communist imperial policy seriously embarrassing to the British. Stalin now has the power to take up where the czars left off more than a generation ago. Only the slogan is different. He poses as a liberator, something the native peoples of Asia could not swallow coming from Nicholas II. or his predecessors.

Thus the mistakes of two centuries of British colonial administration arise further to harass the empire. It gave its Asiatic subjects no prospect of freedom or self-government. When the Japs moved in the Malays and Burmese, like the Javanese and the people of French Indo-China, had no incentive to side with their white rulers. Until Japanese atrocities and abuses undeceived them many of them actually considered the Japanese to be deliverers. The Communists have a similar bill of goods to sell, and are unimpeded by the fact that there is no liberty in Russia itself, for the Asiatics know virtually nothing about the real Russia.

The British, including those who may recognize past mistakes and be disposed to remedy them, thus find themselves on the horns of a dilemma. If they do begin to grant self-government in Malaya and Burma they face the hazard that Communists, already organized and politically trained beyond the rest of the native population, may take over. If they continue oppressing the natives there is a communist organization ready to lead a revolt whenever that serves Stalin's foreign policy.

The king's first minister, whoever that unhappy gentleman may be, need not worry so much about being obliged to liquidate the British empire as about its possible liquidation in spite of the best efforts to prevent it.

WHOSE CHESTNUTS?

Gen. MacArthur's statement that six months from now we can cut our army of occupation in Japan to 200,000 regulars seems to have infuriated the state department. Dean Acheson, the acting secretary of state, made no secret of his irritation when he discussed the general's views at a press conference the other day. The result was that consideration in the senate of Mr. Acheson's nomination to the post of undersecretary of state was postponed because a number of senators, led by Wherry and Chandler, felt that Mr. Acheson had insulted Gen. MacArthur and wanted to know what this row was all about.

We hope the senators insist on an explanation. Certainly there is nothing in the public record as it stands to show what made Mr. Acheson so angry. If he can't produce any better reasons for his outburst than he has already given he isn't fit to hold the office of undersecretary.

Mr. Acheson accuses the general of presuming to formulate the policy of this country toward Japan, but surely MacArthur's statement of the force he will require to carry out our government's orders cannot be regarded as an invasion of the state department's or anybody else's preserves. The state department has no ground for objection until MacArthur has failed, for lack of sufficient man power, to carry out any orders he has received. It is his responsibility, not Mr. Acheson's, to measure the force required, and there is no slightest reason to question his competence to do so.

Gen. MacArthur has read the Cairo and Potsdam declarations, in which the terms to be imposed upon Japan are stated. He says he can accomplish all that with no more than 200,000 regulars, a division of marines, and a naval establishment to assist him after six months. Mr. Acheson's protest makes sense, of course, if the state department means to impose new terms so harsh that even a defeated, disarmed, and disorganized Japanese people will rise in spontaneous revolt.

If that is what Mr. Acheson has in mind he ought to be made to say so, and let congress and the country debate the wisdom of his plan. If, on the other hand, he intends to stick to the formula of Cairo and Potsdam, he, like everybody else in the nation, ought to rejoice that, in the expert opinion of Gen. MacArthur, the purposes of the occupation can be achieved without the use of a single conscript for more than a few months and at far less expense to the taxpayers than was expected.

It is Acheson, not MacArthur, who is invading the other fellow's preserve. It is Acheson from whom explanations are due. What does he intend to do to Japan that MacArthur has not yet been officially instructed to do and is not doing? What is the unrevealed policy that the state department wishes to pursue? What are the secret agreements which the department may have made in this connection?

What, in short, is the state department's game? What schemes and whose schemes are the striped pants boys seeking to promote? And what has the United States of America to gain if Acheson wins and MacArthur loses?

These are questions to which the senate should seek answers. Fortunately for the country, the nomination of Mr. Acheson in his new office gives the senators an opportunity to set to work at once. We hope they don't muff it.

MR. PEPYS' EXCITING LIFE

22d Sept.—The harvest moon rides high, straddling the autumnal equinox; the football season is off to an early start; and the baseball games have become so crucial my teeth are chattering.

In these piping times of peace there is never a dull moment in my life, especially when dozens of policemen suddenly invade the corn patches and weedy vacant lots of my neighborhood, searching for the latest ripple of a crime wave. Observed such a scene from the windows of my home last Monday, and admired the zeal of the officers but lamented the complete absence of the fugitive.

People have begun to write me from faraway places, such as Ithaca, N. Y., and Ingolstadt, Bavaria, to ask when the new Linebook will be published, because last year the edition was sold out before they put in their bids. Have just received a bulletin from THE TRIBUNE'S Jerry Byrnes, who is in charge of such matters, fixing Friday, Oct. 5, as the day when the books will reach the newsstands and shops.

Am advising mail order customers to send their orders and money [25 cents a copy] to Mr. Gillespie of THE TRIBUNE'S Public Service office, whose main office is at Madison and Dearborn sts. The edition is as up-to-date as the atomic bomb and the Jap surrender.

This afternoon will find me at Dyche stadium, dusting off my old pew and warming up for a six-game schedule with the other 50 yard line quarter backs.

TO SAY GOOD-BY

Good-by may sometimes bring regret
When flowery moments of youth are fleeting,
But in dislike of strife and fret
Good-by disturbs us less than greeting.
Such grievances about us lie
Marring content with trouble's traces
We forget that we should sigh
When telling people, times and places,
Good-by.

In a world made fair to see,
The ways of the world are a cunning maze
Where paths of guile or chance may be Nearest for reaching points of praise.
Yet, thankful for a world where I
Could fight for right in dangerous days,
I may lay me down to die
Content with telling the world and its ways,
Good-by. William T. Gay

Linemaster: Comes a knock on tha kitchen door, an who do you suppose it is? Yep, its tha laundry jerk who gave us tha air last year.

When I got thru with him, all I had left on my chest was hair. First thing I brung up was how come that every time tha New-deal took another inch off of shirt tails he ooched his washin' price up 2c. Then I asks him if his button factory made plenty of dough with tha buttons they stole, an what else I tole him aint fit to print.

Later I breezes into Schultzmeyer's butcher shop. I think he remembered tha day that I told him what he cood do with his pigs tails and snoots. When he asks if we was gonna trade by him again I said we wood think it over; also I told him before I left that it was nice to see his sawdust on tha floor again instead of in his hamburger.

My next pleasant visit is tha liquor store; this is tha cluck who made me buy a bottle of gin an a bottle of rum every time I bought a little bourbon. I'll never forget tha day when I asked him what I cood do with tha gin an rum, an he pulls a louzy pun to tha affect that I cood play gin-rum with it if I didn't wanna drink it. Tha guy is now offering me cigarettes 2 fer 33c with free matches; I tole him I first wanna get some more quotations.

I just can't wait with my visit to tha drug store, where they made me buy those cigarettes that taste like moth-balls smell. Aint life grand?

Welcome, little pat of butter,
Hymns of praise we now can utter;
Beat the drum and blow the horn,
For you've come in time for corn!

Jam and jelly would not do,
And we often sighed for you;
Baked potatoes mourned your lack
And will joy to have you back.

Many things that we could name
Without you are not the same,
But the thing that's most forlorn
Without you is the ear of corn!

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0200, gives personal interviews.]

P. J. asks: "If a navy man has more than enough points for discharge, but currently is in the brig for overstaying his leave can he ask for discharge?"

No. Men with enough points for discharge but who are in a disciplinary status may not be discharged until they have completed the disciplinary and probationary periods.

M. D. asks: "How can relatives tell whether to mail Christmas packages to men in the army in Europe? Won't all except the army of occupation be home by Christmas?"

Soldiers stationed in Europe received V-mail forms with which to inform relatives and friends about their possible future return to the United States. If the men were certain or fairly certain they would be home before Christmas they were asked to inform persons at home not to mail Christmas packages. How many troops will be removed from Europe before Christmas is problematical and depends upon available shipping. Presently only four divisions are scheduled for October, November, and December sailing, and the status of 14 others is undetermined. These are the 65th, 66th, 70th, 71st, 75th, 78th, 89th, 90th, 100th, and 102d infantry divisions and the 3d, 8th, 12th, and 101st armored. Any of these may be placed on the sailing schedule at any time. October sailings include the 70th infantry and 10th armored; November, 92d infantry, and December, 34th infantry.

A FISTULA OFTEN FOLLOWS RECTAL ABSCESS

ABSCESSES are localized areas of inflammation which, in lay terminology, "come to a head" and "break." These lesions may be located almost anywhere, but when they are encountered about the buttocks we have a complicated situation which demands further investigation. It may mean that a rectal fistula is in the making, which is trying to reach the outside.

The infection usually starts in the tiny crypts which are located at the end of the rectum, where it joins the anal canal. These pockets, by their anatomical arrangement, are destined to be troublemakers. They are susceptible to inflammation and are injured easily. Constipation and impactions may be responsible, as well as irritation associated with enemas. The membrane may be damaged by the irrigation tip itself or the injected fluid is too strong. Occasionally, overtreatment of hemorrhoids or other rectal disorders plays a part. To a lesser extent, falls, kicks, blows, or riding may be to blame. If the general condition has been lowered by malnutrition, anemia, or a disabling disease, the area may lose its ability to ward off disease.

Should infection gain the upper hand, it begins to spread in various directions, depending upon tissue resistance. Its ultimate goal is usually the skin near the anal opening. In order to get thru the surface, abscess formation is the rule.

The patient soon becomes aware that something is amiss. The skin over the affected region is red, tender, and swollen. As pus increases, pain becomes more severe so that even the slightest pressure becomes unbearable. A slight rise in temperature may be observed.

Treatment depends upon the type. As a rule, surgical drainage is required, when the physician is satisfied that localization has occurred. He knows also that he cannot wait too long because spontaneous rupture may take place into a vital organ. At the right time, an incision is performed and the infected material runs out.

Once the opening has been made, the job is only half-done. After healing has ensued, the fistula leading back to the crypt must be found and removed, otherwise drainage will continue and recurring abscesses may be expected.

For those who are plagued with this affliction, treatment by a well trained rectal specialist [proctologist] is in order. Skill is required in elliminating every vestige of the channel. In addition, the patient's health should be built to the highest possible level. Good hygiene is important. The parts should be kept scrupulously clean and irritation from hard stools and other factors avoided.

Sulfa therapy and penicillin have been tried with indifferent results as these prepartions have little or no effect on the usual causative organisms.

TWO DISEASES

F. D. writes: What is the difference between meningitis and poliomyelitis?

REPLY

The main difference is in the location of the disease process. In the former, the membranes covering the brain and spinal cord are involved, while in infantile paralysis the gray matter in the front [anterior] portion of the cord is affected. Several germs may cause meningitis, but the virus is the chief offender in polio.

ENLARGED VEINS

L. K. writes: What is the cause and remedy of protruding veins on the backs of the hands?

REPLY

In the majority, this is normal, being slightly more common in manual workers. The structures are always more prominent in thin persons, especially those who have lost considerable weight. In rare instances the blood flow is obstructed anywhere along the channel from the arm to the heart.

ADULT BEDWETTER

Mrs. F. writes: My daughter, age 19, has been a chronic bedwetter since birth. What can I do with her?

REPLY

Apparently nothing. A psychiatrist should now take over.

GAS AT THE DENTIST'S

K. L. writes: Is laughing gas used by dentists?

REPLY

Nitrous oxide is the chemical name. The preparation is still employed by the majority.

EAR SYMPTOM

T. R. writes: What causes congestion of the Eustachian tubes?

REPLY

Inflammation near their origin is a common cause.

From an Officer's Notebook

Iwo Jima, called the "hell-hole of the Pacific," is still a pretty rugged spot. Commanding officers have tried just about everything to keep morale up on the island. One of their morale building stunts is to quiet the bugler in the morning. Instead, over a loudspeaker system, they play the late Glenn Miller's "Sunrise Serenade" to get the troops up. . . . Not long ago Iwo COs were snowed under with complaints from their men: The food was terrible, quarters poor, no beer, no showers, and so on. Finally, it seems, word of the unhappiness reached Washington. Washington sent to Iwo a high ranking officer from the inspector general's office. The men were to bring their complaints to him. The day he arrived, work stopped. As far as the eye could see, officers and enlisted men were lined up, either standing or sitting in government vehicles, waiting their turn to see the IG. I'm told life is now a bit pleasanter on Iwo.

The Okinawa radio goes on the air thusly: "This is ———, just a stone's throw from Tokyo." . . . An AAF colonel, fresh from the United States, arrived on Oki the night the Japs first said they were going to quit the war. He was settling down for a good night's rest when the great news came. As he was getting up, a .30 caliber bullet, fired by an excited GI, came zinging thru the colonel's tent and imbedded itself in his mattress, inches from his head. . . .

Tarawa GIs put names on their tents. Here are typical ones: "HQ—WCTU," "Moron's Mansion," "Passion Pit," and "Idiot's Delight."

B-29 crews are constantly teasing their "little brothers," the B-24 crews. After the first atomic bomb was dropped from a B-29, there was no living with the Super Fort men. Feeling cocky, a B-29 crew called on some spiritless B-24 men. "You fellows are going to work with us on the atomic runs," the B-29 men said. "Yeah? How?" asked the B-24ers. "Well, it's this way," the B-29 men began. "As you know, this is a dehydrated war. The atomic bombs require water to explode, too. So here's how you'll help us: One B-29 will fly over the target and drop the atomic bomb. Then, 200 B-24s will follow, dropping water on the bomb we dropped so it'll explode. In short, you'll carry water for the B-29s!"

The B-24 lads believed that for about one hour. Then one Liberator crew member shouted, "Like hell, we'll carry water for the '29s! Let them carry their own water!"

Now the B-24ers are trying to think up a joke on the 29ers.

International Language

B. G. Davis, publishing tycoon, was talking with publishers in Buenos Aires recently. Present were a Frenchman, a Brazilian, and an Argentine. The discussion turned to a book about which all were extremely enthusiastic. The Frenchman cupped his fingers to his lips in an expressive kissing motion. The Brazilian tugged on his ear lobe. The Argentine twirled his polished mustache. Davis joined his thumb and forefinger into the familiar circle used by Americans in expressing approbation. Not a word was spoken, yet all had shown agreement.

AIN'T MORALE WONDERFUL

PHILIPPINES, Sept. 10—On behalf of the crew of this floating dry dock I am forwarding herewith a copy of a recent publication that has come into our hands. Since it has caused so much furore among the men we have decided that perhaps "The World's Greatest Newspaper" would be kind enough to print it along with the Sunday comics so that the people of the great middle west could have an opportunity to read and enjoy its asininity.

However, we desire it to be known that men of sufficient intelligence to be in the service of the United States do not require such artificial priming as this, and further that we are willing to accomplish any and all tasks set before us if only we can be treated as mature adults while doing so. We ask for constructive reasoning by our leaders. If it is impossible to send us home for another year or another two years we ask to be told just that in blunt and ordinary language, not in childish nonsense. When such prattle becomes the order of the day it is high time newspapers such as yours give a pep talk of another nature to the congress of the United States, directing them to speed an orderly demobilization. F. D.

Heave 'Round

So you want to go home, eh?
Well, here's the way to do it.
Wipe off that martyred look.
Hang up your halo.
Roll up your sleeves.
Heave 'round!

WHAT VETERANS WANT

NAPLES, Italy, Aug. 24—I am a veteran now in the Mediterranean theater. With me are veterans of Africa, Sicily, and Anzio.

During the war we were selected by our friends and neighbors, with whom we left our wives, children, and mothers. We did our best to do our duty and defeat Germany, Italy, and Japan. Now that the danger is over, do our friends and neighbors forget that we would like to go back to living again with our loved ones?

Any 4-F who was able to do defense work and boys of 18 to 26 years of age could easily police the world.

Another thing. Most people are told by so-called professors and educated higher ups, "Most veterans' have changed and should be treated as mental cases." We have changed, but for th better, as we are better educated, more intelligent as to the ways of life and why we fight, which is not for money or land or riches. Our riches are our families, decent jobs, and complete freedom of religion and speech. This is all we ask, not that the nation owes us a living, but give us the chance to make a living.

Please understand, we aren't crying or asking for a handout, but we expect our friends and neighbors to give us the same support in getting us out of the army as the excellent job they did in getting us in. VETERAN OF ITALY

POINT OF NOMENCLATURE

Le Mars, Ia., Sept. 14—The withholding tax which the politicians take out of my pay check every Saturday night would just about pay the rent on my modest apartment. If I added the rent I do pay on to the tax taken out of my wages, I could rent the kind of home my wife has longed for.

At this point I picked up THE TRIBUNE and found that the British want us American taxpayers to fork over another six billion so they can make their socialistic paradise work. Is this new burden on working Americans to be called "lend-leach," or would it be more proper to say that "foreigners who wish to suck American blood forever are 'lend-lice'"? E. E. TWIGGENS

MORE DEMOBILIZATION CENTERS NEEDED

Fort Sheridan, Ill., Sept. 9—I have been quite disappointed in your great newspaper in the last few weeks. Your paper has always championed many causes, but one of greatest importance to all GIs in the 6th service command is that Fort Sheridan alone cannot begin to handle the mustering out of the great number of men in service from Illinois, Wisconsin, and Michigan.

I firmly believe that unless Camp Grant and Fort Custer are used immediately for the purpose, men with less than 85 points and under 38 years of age who come from other parts of the country will be back in civilian life before men with over 85 points and more than 38 years of age coming from the Greater Chicago area.

I am sure that your great newspaper, with all of its influence and prestige, can help ease the situation. Many GIs are anxiously waiting to get back to their families. CPL. HAROLD ZIMLER.

MORE ROADBUILDING IN EUROPE

Chicago, Sept. 17—Have just received a letter from my brother who has seen two years of service in Italy. He states that they are building roads, etc., merely to keep them busy. In the name of common sense will some one tell me why our men have to build roads for the Italians? L. C. G.

MR. DULLES' CLIENTS

NO SALES TAX

Chicago, Sept. 17—I purchased an 80 acre tract in June, 1940. Now I have an opportunity to sell this farm and purchase a better one on the profits of my first purchase. Would there be a sales tax levied against the profits derived from the sale? W. J.

The Illinois sales tax applies only to persons who are making retail sales of personal property. It would not apply to your facts, but your profit on the tract that you purchased and sold would be subject to income tax.

Look Forward to Gala Season of Opera Here

BY JUDITH CASS

WITH every box sold for opening night—and that means for every Monday night thru the six weeks' season—the Chicago Opera company is expecting an even more successful season than last year's, when the organization wound up in the black for the first time since Chicago has had grand opera. Other cheerful news from the box office is that subscription tickets have been selling 20 per cent ahead of last season and that the performance of "Manon," to be given opening night, Oct. 8, will be more brilliant than in former years, as two gay scenes which usually have been cut in the interests of shortening the performance have been replaced.

One is in the first act, during the inn scene, when waiters parade beautiful French dishes before the assembled guests, and the other is a street scene at the opening of the third act, described as colorful and gay. As Bidu Sayao, who will have the role of "Manon," is noted for her costumes, the whole performance promises to be glittering and one which should bring forth a brilliantly clad first night audience.

Robert Hall McCormick has taken his usual box, No. 1, for the season. John D. Allen, chairman of the board of the opera company, will occupy Box 2 on Mondays, and Abner J. Stilwell, president, and his wife will be back in their usual box, No. 16. Other Monday boxholders include the Fred A. Poors, Mrs. Millard B. Kennedy, president of the Illinois Opera Guild; the guild itself, the James G. McMillans, the James C. Hirschfields, the Nathaniel Leverones, the Herbert Lorbers, the George I. Haights, the Owen and the Byron Coons, who will share a box; Vincent P. Reilly, the Sigurd Olsens, Fausto Cleva, general artistic director of the company; Dr. and Mrs. Melford Zinser, the Harry L. Drakes, the Henry A. Steins, the Conrad H. Poppenhusens, Dr. and Mrs. S. S. Hollender, the L. Lewis Cohens, the George A. Wrisleys, the George J. Goldsteins, the Samuel J. Campbells, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Fields, and the Jacob Cohns.

Two new members of the board of governors of the opera company are Frederick G. Gurley of Winnetka and Alfred D. Plamondon Jr.

Other Opera News

Another opera organization, the Citizens' Opera company, will open tonight in the heart of what was Chicago's early gold coast area, in the Ashland Boulevard auditorium. Jarmila Novotna and Michael Bartlett of the New York Metropolitan Opera company are here to sing the leading roles in "The Bartered Bride," and later Mme. Novotna will be the special guest at a supper party in the Banks st. home of Mrs. Ernest R. Graham. Miss Elsie McCormick, Mrs. Jacob Baur, the Walter Dill Scotts, Stuart Logan, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Buss, the William Allisons, the William Raglands [Edith Mason], and the Perry H. Kenlys are some of those who will be in tonight's first night audience in the auditorium.

Birth News

A new addition to the Paul W. Olivers' nursery in Winnetka is the son born to Mr. and Mrs. Oliver [Elisabeth G. Dewes] Sept. 12 in St. Luke's hospital. The baby, who has been named for his paternal grandfather, James Henry Oliver of Scarsdale, N. Y., has an older brother and sister, Paul Jr. and Betsy. Mrs. Oliver's sister, Mrs. George S. Oram, is saying good-by to her Chicago friends and planning to return soon to Morristown, N. J. Her husband, Maj. Oram, has been released from the army after serving for three years, during which Mrs. Oram and her sons lived here with her mother, Mrs. Edwin P. Dewes. Mr. Oram and their two boys left for Morristown last week.

On the Calendar

Mrs. Tharp S. Roberts Jr. of Jacksonville, Fla., will see many of her old friends at a dinner-dance tonight in the Saddle and Cycle club. She will return south Wednesday after a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Fitzmorris, and brothers, Charles Jr. and James, who both have been released from service, the former as a captain in the army and the latter as a naval lieutenant. The James Fitzmorrises are on their way to Mexico for a long holiday.

Some of those who have made reservations for tonight's dance are the Cyrus G. Hills, the Wilbur Smiths, Mrs. Carson Elwood, the John V. Farwells, and the junior Herbert Hoovers. The club's only costume party of the year will be its next dance, which will be a harvest home party next month.

Members of the Lake Geneva Country club and their guests have been asked to "get out their favorite Farmer Jones or other cos-

On Making a Speech

They telephoned while you were on vacation to ask if you'd make a speech at a fairly large dinner. It was a glorious summer day when they called. September seemed a mere scratch on the calendar—and a long way off. Sure, sure, you'd make a speech . . . of course . . . gladly! [The things you'd say!]

September—and the date for the speech—approaches much too soon. In no time they begin asking in the office, "What are you going to talk about?" Immediately it assumes the proportions of a major operation to which you wish you had not consented—or a ski jump from which there is no turning back—or a coal chute on which you are sliding down, down and there's nothing to do but hold your breath.

Somewhere among your books you recall a masterly dissertation: "How to Make a Speech." You' read it months ago, when you were relaxed and propped on pillows, the radio tuned to your favorite music. It seemed easy then! But now when you locate the book you distinctly are let down. It doesn't help at all. You are just plain scared.

What to Wear

The trouble is the book was written by a man. How could he probe the feminine mind and know the gruelling question that besets you? A man's supposed to stand on a platform and look competent and tidy! But a lady speaker—poor, deluded, agreeing creature that you are—you're supposed to look pretty!

So, what shall you wear? The hat that is cute? Or the hat that is appropriate? You try on both and seek advice—O, foolish one! Your adviser sees not a particle of difference. You know there's a difference and try to explain . . . "This one in a sort of Mama hat—See? . . . "And this one isn't—See?" He doesn't see.

You press your dress and do a mighty fine job of it—iron the zipper flat—and it sticks. That brings to mind all manner of amusing anecdotes about zippers—and before you know it, you're back where you started—your speech—and what are you going to do about it?

Best Seller

O, for a joke, a really good joke! That's the way everybody begins. All that is necessary is something Bob Hope or Gracie Allen hasn't used. Books, now, are thumbed thru like mad for a joke. Here's one: It's about a condemned man [suitable enough] who, the last minute before execution, was asked if he had anything to say. "Not right now," he answered. Funny? You try it on three friends. Not funny!

In the office the boss asks if you intend to read your oration. No [loftily] you never do—it ruins any speech!

"Roosevelt read all of his," the boss answers, "and was elected four times." Something in that!

So, you write it all out, and put it with your hat and gloves—and leave it home.

On the way to the dinner you share a cab with a jittery gentleman who finally apologizes for barking at the driver . . . nervous, he says . . . has to make a speech!

Snuggled back in the corner of the taxi you contemplate the future enthusiastically: You'll write a book—a best seller. The title? "How to Keep from Making Speeches!"

Some Fathers Overcritical of Home Disorder

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"If Dan were my husband I'd be a nervous wreck," exploded one friend to another after a short visit with their friend, Sue. "He's the worst fussbudget about the house I ever saw—and they say some women are tiresome on the subject of having everything just so all the time."

Usually it's the women who make life miserable by being such perfect housekeepers that home is a cold, uninhabitable place. Usually it's the mothers, if it's done by them at all, who scold and nag about muddy tracks on the rug, finger marks on the woodwork, a chair out of place, and torn or soiled clothes. But sometimes it's the father who is the one that's the martinet on neatness and cleanliness. He may be the run-his-finger-over-the-woodwork, see-all-this-dust kind of man.

The husband who wants a house which is in order and also immaculate all the time, and who wants to see his children always spotless is not as rare as you might think. If he could get into a different frame of mind about this whole business of running a house and taking care of the children, things would be happier all around. If he could be forced to be home every day for a month, right in the thick of things, he'd change his attitude, I'm sure.

I may have told you of the father of a friend of mine [this happened in our school days and I've never forgotten]. He used to wonder what his wife did all day. Then he was injured and confined to the house for two months. He went back to the office a changed husband and father. Never another criticism! He'd seen enough.

A woman whose husband is of this particular type writes: "I want some time to play with my children. Do you think I'm wrong in letting them play anywhere in the house as long as they're happy? My mother-in-law and my husband don't. They say, 'If any one comes in, the house always looks upset!' I say in return, 'This house is for the children, not for any one who might drop in.' I don't mean to be rude. I just mean it that way. I'm called lazy and stubborn, altho I honestly am a good housekeeper. I'm just trying to do the right thing by the children and enjoy myself doing it."

Any mother who can run a house and her children properly and have time to enjoy the latter is pretty smart. This is surely the time to enjoy the children. Let the babies play around even if the house is not in perfect order. If the father would become more interested in his children as human beings perhaps his demands on his wife would be less exacting.

The house should be for the children, not the children for the house.

Emily G., Chicago—I have had fewer scratches to remove from my table tops since I took some old rubber jar rings which were ready for the discard and glued them to the bottom of my lamps and vases and ash trays.

Mrs. Ted A., Des Moines, Ia.—We took a tip from a neighbor this summer and sprayed our tomato and cabbage plants with garlic juice and water. We used about 6 cloves of garlic and crushed these in a quart of water. No more rabbits are nibbling at our precious plants. They don't like garlic.

New Aluminum Ware Will Put Gleam in Eye!

BY EDITH WEIGLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Manitowoc, Wis., Sept. 21—The first thing we saw when we visited one of the factories of the largest producer of aluminum cooking utensils in the world was a room full of more than 400 items that had been turned out by the thousands during the war years. Some of them were deadly—brass and steel 20 mm. and 37 mm. cartridge cases. Others were constructive—a 270 gallon droppable airplane fuel tank, 10 feet long and so light one man could lift it; radio and radar equipment, engine air deflectors, aircraft oil and water tanks, and aluminum oars for life rafts with a substance in the blades that would catch a bit of sunlight and deflect it hundreds of feet into the sky as a signal.

All these products were being pushed out. These Wisconsin factories are converted now, once more making items that certainly will bring a gleam to any woman's eye—aluminum cooking utensils!

Enthroned on a large piece of plush on a big mahogany table was as enticing an array of kitchen ware as we've seen in ages. There were shining roasters and broiling pans, a double skillet, the top of which is a frying pan in its own right; griddles, strainers, and steamers, a Dutch oven with a number of roles in its repertory, coffee makers of all kinds, tea kettles, bun warmers, cookie cutters and presses, jelly molds, trays, and a huge mixing bowl with an electro-hardened finish like pewter and so light you can lift it with one finger.

These were all popular before the war, but now many of them have been restyled and look better than ever. And the brand new 1945 baby of the company is its automatic pressure cooker. We saw it being used in the plant's experimental kitchen, where it has been put thru every conceivable test. It is precision made in every detail. Of a thick gauge, new, very hard aluminum alloy, it has a capacity of four quarts.

A small, neat looking automatic control in the domed cover regulates the pressure of the steam which does the miraculously speedy cooking of meats or vegetables. It may be set for 5, 10, or 15 pounds pressure, depending on the type of food being prepared. Straight sides of this handsome pan make for extra cooking space, and a rubber gasket locks the cover automatically under pressure. [It slips out for cleaning.]

The whole thing works so simply any one can operate it, and it is practically foolproof. The center control prevents the pressure from going above the amount designated, and there also is a second, or safety, valve that comes into play should anything happen to the main gauge.

No fancy gadget is needed to open or close this pressure pan. Simply slide the handles apart and lift off the top. Slide them together, one above the other, and the gasket seals and locks the cover, ready for the cooking process.

To reduce pressure quickly after the food is done hold the cooker under the cold water faucet for about half a minute. Or let it go down gradually, whichever the recipe advises. A complete cook book comes with the instructions for each pressure pan.

What a time saver this invention is! A dozen beets can be cooked in 12 minutes and in only ¾ cup of water, a whole cauliflower in 4 minutes, a meat loaf in 25 minutes, a 3 or 4 pound ham in an hour, and a fried chicken in 15 minutes.

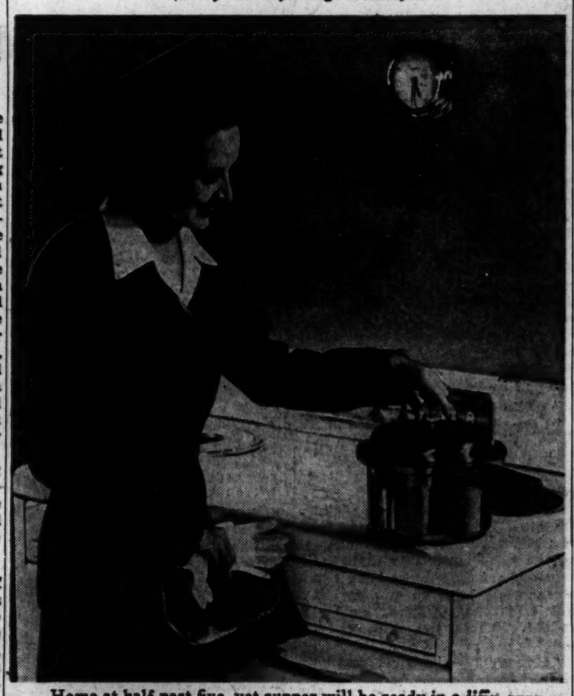
Canning by the pressure method also can be done. Three pint jars fit into the cooker and the automatic control of pressure eliminates guess work and speeds the work.

Probably within the next month the first shipment of these reasonably priced new pressure pans will be sent to stores all over the country. Lines will form at the right, ladies, and please don't push!

This is the fourth in a series of stories by Edith Weigle, home furnishings editor of The Tribune, who is visiting factories thruout the middle west to give Tribune readers a first hand report of the newest items in household equipment as they are coming off the assembly lines.

Pressure Pan Speeds Cooking

(Story in adjoining column)



Home at half past five, yet supper will be ready in a jiffy, thanks to a new 1945 automatic pressure pan of gleaming, heavy aluminum alloy. This cooker soon will be seen in the stores.

Hospital Association Educational Award Given to St. Luke's

St. Luke's hospital in Chicago was named winner of first place in the list of awards announced yesterday by the Illinois Hospital association for the best year-around public education program conducted by a hospital in cities of more than 100,000 population. Honorable mention certificates went to Michael Reese, Children's Memorial, and Chicago Lying-In hospitals here. Silver Cross hospital, Joliet, won the award in the 15,000 to 100,000 population class. In that division, honorable mention certificates were awarded to Blessing hospital, Quincy; Galesburg Cottage hospital, Galesburg; Passavant Memorial hospital, Jacksonville, and Deaconess hospital, Freeport.

Fuzzy Lingerie for Comfort in Winter Is Here

BY REA SEEGER

Winter lingerie, very much on the fuzzy side and sure comfort for chilly nights, has the same appeal as the lighter weight rayons or summer time cottons. But the straight line silhouette with square outline yokes still is a bit reminiscent of the nightshirt streamline, even tho the long sleeves and demure high necklines and yokes are detail—or trimmed with cotton fringe braid. The material is cuddly soft cotton fleece or flannelette in nice pastel shades of pink and blue.

Flowered or patterned flannelettes will be in any time now so that you may choose between the plain colors or these effective prints. Sleeping pajamas, in both crepe rayon and flannelettes, are streamlined for comfort as well as tailored swank. Very little if any elaborate trim is used, other than occasional white cotton frog fasteners, and white cotton braid for contrast. The winter pajamas are full length and cut and fitted for sleeping comfort.

Also listed with the fleecy wear are the models in almost wrinkle proof rayon jersey. Nightgowns, with or without long sleeves and in plain or printed effects, are available in wide assortment. The best trick of this jersey is that it needs precious little fuss and care. Wash with only average attention, and that's all. Ironing is not necessary.

College and career girls and the travelers all vote for the jersey models because they're made with extreme simplicity without sacrificing any smart or high fashion details, such as bias cut of skirt or the decorative outline of the neck lines or short or long sleeves. Prices are also easy to manage with a limited clothes allowance.

Newest simile of the High School Crowd—

"YOU'RE AS SMOOTH AS A JUNIOR FIRST DRESS!"

Just your dish, High Schoolers! Two new dresses designed by Junior First to flatter those lithesome figures that are the lucky trade mark of you High Schoolers. They're just new enough to be exciting (see that tiny cinched midriff on the right?) and still they're the kind of beloved dresses you choose to take you on movie dates or to the football games. Come see our entire collection in the High School Shop—Fourth Floor, North, Wabash

Also Evanston, Oak Park and Lake Forest

COME TO OUR FASHION SHOW!

We're having a smooth fashion show and party planned especially for today at 3:30 in the Narcissus Room—Seventh Floor, North, Wabash. Have a coke, hear terrific music and see the latest clothes for classes and dating. Do come!

UNUSUAL REQUEST

As Mr. Izenga turned away, despairingly, Ridge Dawson stopped him. He spoke just above a whisper.

"Izenga. A moment, please. I shall be called into the library and that French will want my alibi for last night. It's not enough to lose my sister . . ." his voice broke for a minute.

Mr. Izenga softened. He'd thought Ridge was being rather hard boiled about it all. "I know Ridge," he said. "It's hard."

Mr. Dawson's straight, taut lips shook a little.

"Yes. But that's not the worst." He spoke huskily. "See here, Cornelius, could I say I spent last night at your house?"

"Good heavens. How can you ask such a thing? Where were you, Ridge?"

"Not out murdering my sister. I suppose I need not assure you. Use your head, old boy. I was innocently visiting . . . well, anyway it wasn't murder. Can't you see it wasn't murder?"

"But Ridge, you, of all people, an attorney, should know you can't lie to the police!"

Mr. Dawson put on the weary smile which worked such wonders with his juries. "Really, Cornelius! At your age! Come, come. Will you or won't you? I'll promise not to drag you into any trouble. You can always manage Harrison . . . and if fifty would help . . ."

"Preposterous!"

Ridge's face darkened angrily. "Can't you put yourself out a little to save a lady's reputation, you old maid? It isn't for myself I'm asking. I don't want to get some one else in trouble."

Mr. Izenga said coldly, "The lieutenant isn't the ordinary flat-foot, Ridge. You can trust him to be discreet. My advice to you is to be frank."

"O, it is, is it?" Ridge paused and added quietly, "And my advice to you, Cornelius, is to get yourself a bodyguard P. D. Q. You know too blasted much."

Mr. Izenga was not impressed. He'd known too much for many years and he had Harrison.

Returning to the library, Mr. Izenga found the lieutenant questioning Pliny.

"There's just one thing I want to know, Pliny. What time did Mr. Bennet Pomeroy get up yesterday morning?"

"Yassuh, Mr. Bennet, let me see . . . Mr. Bennet, he didn't get up till noon, suh, and he feel mighty queer. All floaty-like, he say. I have to bring big pot coffee, fo' he could git down de stairs. But he wasn't drunk last night or de night befo', Mr. Izenga, please suh. Deed he wasn't. He sho' nuff promise you and he kepp 'at promise."

"Why are you so sure, Pliny?"

"Cause I look at de bottles in his room. Wasn't on'y same little half inch gone outen 'em boff times."

"Did he try to explain it to you?"

"Mr. Bennet say, huccome 'at little bitsy drink was so po'ful all of a sudden, when he been taken it out de same bottle ev'y night? He say him an' Miss Lucy have drink at some old joint on de way heah, an' it didn't taste good. He lay it to dat. But he wasn't drunk. No suh."

"He may have been drugged both times," French said. "We're having the bottles analyzed. That will tell. Did you notice anything about the house that was out of place?"

"Well, somebody musta climb up dat po'ch roof under Miss Letty's sittin' room window las' night. Dat trellis is broken and dey's muddy han'prints on her window sill. When I climb up dis mawnin' I used a step laddeh, an' ain't no mud on my hands."

"Yes, we saw that."

"Wasn't any broke lattice yest'day. Must be some old tramp climb up 'at way last night," Pliny reiterated.

"Are you sure it wasn't that way yesterday?"

"Yassah! Miss Letty mighty p'ticklah. She walk all ovah de place most eve'y mawnin' and ain't nothin' she miss what's wrong."

"Well, let us hear of anything else you notice, Pliny. That's all for now."

Lt. French sent for the Dukes, one at a time. Mr. Izenga took the opportunity to make a suggestion.

"I suppose, lieutenant, that you've considered that Toby Newcomb could have bought that bloodstone ring in Muskegon yesterday? He might have committed the crime, left the false ring there and hidden his own. Maybe he trusted Erica to identify the false ring as not his own and thus suggest that some one was trying to frame him. Did you see his face when she failed him? Flabbergasted!"

The lieutenant shook his head. "I shouldn't waste time trying to pin this crime on Newcomb, Mr. Izenga. I am convinced he had nothing to do with it."

What could Newcomb have said or done that proved his innocence so quickly and conclusively?

Mrs. Duke had smartened up considerably. She looked more like her many portraits in the society section of the papers. But, wearing two of her mother's diamond bracelets seemed rotten taste, to Mr. Izenga.

"Now lieutenant," she began, "there is no need for all this heavy police business at all."

"Do you mean you don't care to have your mother's murderer found, Mrs. Duke?" French asked.

"Of course not that. Will you kindly let me finish? I mean, nobody in our family connection could possibly be suspected of this repulsive crime. But there is one stranger here. A stranger whom my poor mother accused of trying to kill her. The second time he succeeded. It's sickeningly obvious. Take him away and let the rest of us grieve in peace."

She caught Mr. Izenga's good eye fixed on the jewels and turned a little pink, "Mother wanted me to have these."

"Did she?" Mr. Izenga was cold. "There is a list of her jewelry attached to her will and I have a signed carbon copy. I shall be glad to check those items for you. No. No. No trouble at all."

French said, "Mrs. Duke, are you formally accusing Toby Newcomb of the murder of your mother?"

"Certainly."

"You will be willing, then, to sign a statement to that effect? A statement that could be used to obtain a warrant for his arrest?"

Mrs. Duke took the cigaret from her lips. "But I thought he was under arrest now. Just take him away and leave us alone. That's all I'm asking."

"Will you please answer my question? Will you appear on the witness stand as the principal witness accusing him? Have you evidence to prove what you claim?"

"I don't see why any more proof is needed than that attack on my mother," she said.

My recent venture into the realm of soap cookery brought in a flood of mail, among which was a long, interesting letter from a Chicago woman who recalls days "nearly 70 years ago" when homemade soap was the rule, not the rarity.

"In those days meat was served three times a day, every day. We did our own hog butchering which provided us with plenty of skins for soft soap by the barrel, and waste fats for hard soap. We burned wood in the stoves upstairs and nary an ash was wasted. Ashes were turned into the ash hopper back of the wash house where laundry, butchering, soap making, and 'lamming were all done, using the same huge kettle hung on a crane over a roaring fire in a big fireplace.

"If my mother ever had a recipe for her soap, it was never written. In those days women weren't so addicted to recipes, but their 'little of this and some of that' guessing turned out mighty tasty meals, even tho the main idea was 'Fill 'em up!' They had no time to count calories or consider vitamins.

"The wonder to me is how we survived the greasy meat. And the lard we used! We put three 5-gallon cans of lard in the cellar in the fall. That left a sight of delicious cracklings in the lard press, and they weren't wasted. We had cracklin' corn bread for weeks, and we children carried cracklings in our pockets to nibble on in preference to candy.

"We put three barrels of apples from our orchards in the cellar, too, and 32 bushels of potatoes. Add to that hundreds of quarts of canned fruits and vegetables, all of our own raising, to say nothing of the 2-gallon stone jars of apple, peach, and plum butter made in that same big kettle on the crane. Those jars were sealed with sealing wax, covered with cloth which in turn was thickly coated with wax.

"Hung in the 'summer kitchen' were sacks and sacks [50 lb.] of dried apples, peaches, and corn. And the pickles! Gallons of cucumber pickles and piccalilli; cherries pickled on the stem. Peach pickles and spiced pears were put in glass jars, but we always canned peaches and tomatoes in tin, using sealing wax."

And to think some of us 1945 homemakers consider ourselves pretty smart when we've cooked up a batch of 24 bars of soap and canned a bushel of peaches; a few tomatoes and pickles, using modern equipment and carefully worked out recipes!

FLATTEN TIN CANS FOR SALVAGE!

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Deviled Stuffed Crab
[Serves 6]

1 tablespoon margarine
1 tablespoon flour
1 cup cream
1 egg yolk, slightly beaten
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
½ pound crabmeat, codfish, halibut, or tuna
½ cup chopped cooked mushrooms
¼ cup fine bread crumbs
2 tablespoons butter

Melt margarine, add flour, and blend. Gradually add cream. Stir constantly until boiling point is reached and cook five minutes. Add egg yolk, mixed with salt, pepper, mustard, and Worcestershire sauce. Remove from heat and add fish and mushrooms. Mix well and fill fish shells or individual baking cups. Sprinkle with bread crumbs, and dot with butter. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 20 minutes.

Kitchen Pointers

By Mary Meade

"What caused my cooking oil to explode when I was frying chicken?"

Perhaps too high a temperature or too much salt was used. The oil should be hot enough to brown a bread cube in 60 seconds.

"I used new tins for baking bread last week and had trouble browning the crust. Can you tell me why?"

Shiny new tins reflect heat and prevent browning, even tho the texture of the bread may not be affected. After they have been used a few times the finish will become dull.

"What is a New Guinea Bean?"

It's an edible type of gourd with a green outer shell and white flesh. Preparation and cooking methods are the same as for squash.

"When processing two layers of jars in a pressure cooker at one time is the amount of water increased?"

No, it's not necessary to increase the amount of water. One inch of water in the bottom of cooker will create sufficient steam for the pressure required.

"What caused molasses to foam and develop a sharp taste?"

Probably it was stored at too high a temperature and fermented. Molasses should be kept in a cool place. If it has just begun to ferment, skim off the top layer and use the remaining portion.

Colleges Gain Public Respect for Job in War

(This is the third of a series of articles on post-war higher education summarizing studies made by Dr. Evans for his 1945 revision of the Tribune's booklet, "Higher Education." The booklet will be available at Tribune public service offices in November.)

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS

A spectacular but unsung war time service was performed by America's institutions of peace—the colleges and universities. In large measure, this service accounts for their present peace time preparedness. Certainly, many smaller and younger colleges of the country were saved from financial disaster by federal war contracts, while all contract institutions were left in sounder positions to meet the post-war flood of students and war veterans.

Before the war, trends were toward a certain public contemptuousness of all higher education. There were the brain trusters and collegian experts — impractical dreamers to the mind of the public generally. And Joe College! These typified higher education. But Joe College became the unconquerable GI Joe, and the dreaming, impractical pure scientist in his cell conceived the power of nuclear energy and created the atomic bomb. Respect for the campus has reached a new peak as the campus makes ready for 4 million students by 1950 as against 2 million in 1940.

Pure science needed dramatization. The A-bomb did it and opened to the imagination of the American boy the whole field of nuclear energy. Engineers as such, always being dramatized by machines, gadgets, battleships, and bridges, are out of their depth in atom splitting. Educators everywhere salute the application of nuclear energy and its meek, peace loving discoverer, the basic scientist, as higher education's most spectacular war time gift. The University of Chicago's centrality in the development of the A-bomb is well known.

Dr. J. Robert Van Pelt, former technical director of the Museum of Science and Industry, has explained that "engineers by themselves never could have accomplished the miracle of the A-bomb; this was, by definition, a scientist's job, for it was blazing new trails in physical theory. Many engineers, however, were involved in the project, and in years to come more thousands of them will be used in harnessing atomic forces to produce power for peace time industries."

But none minimizes the importance of the army and navy special war training courses offered on the American campus. Practical facility in the use of the Japanese language in six months! That feat could be multiplied hundreds of times in other areas of war needs down to the very practical, federally subsidized, war industries courses for workers.

Aside only from Yale university, Chicago's Illinois Institute of Technology, with a peak enrollment of 5,790 uniformed students and war industry trainees on its campus, leads the nation in this area of service. Following were Northwestern university with 5,300, University of Chicago with 2,920, De Paul university, 1,931, and Loyola university, 750.

Based on an average duration of these courses of four months, this means that Chicago's four universities trained more than 200,000 persons for war duties after the attack on Pearl Harbor. It is believed unlikely that any other city can match this record. But the war training offered by the liberal arts colleges in aviation, meteorology, army, and navy programs should not be overlooked. The normal population on these campuses equals that of the universities.

DePauw university, Greencastle, Ind., leads the central west liberal arts colleges with a peak enrollment in navy V-5 and V-12 programs of 1,000. Carleton college, Northfield, Minn., had 750 enrolled; Monmouth college, Monmouth, 650; St. Olaf college, Northfield, Minn., Cornell college, Mount Vernon, Ia., and Knox college, Galesburg, 600 each; Ripon college, Ripon, Wis., 500; Lake Forest college, Lake Forest, 400; Lawrence college, Appleton, Wis., Macalester college, St. Paul, Minn., and Beloit college, Beloit, Wis., 300 each. Wabash college, Crawfordsville, Ind., and Illinois college, Jacksonville, 250 each; Carroll college, Waukesha, Wis., 200, and Illinois Wesleyan university, Bloomington, 120. Milwaukee-Downer college, a women's school, had government courses in occupational therapy.

Hug-Me-Tight

BY ELLEN BRUCE

The unusual crocheted "hug-me-tight" is made in one triangular piece and then joined. That is all there is to making one of these warm, comfortable jackets. A few balls of Shetland wool, the easy double crochet stitch, and a shell trimming are the requirements for completing this jacket. The instructions include directions for large, medium, and small sizes.

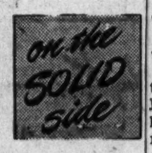
Girl Can Take Off the Private Property Sign

BY SHEILA DALY

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

Often fellows have a peculiar sense of loyalty to their friends. One of the young characters in a crowd may be dating a girl one of the other fellows has thought of making his particular date bait. But because his friend has made with the date offer first, our little man is reluctant about dating her for fear he'll lose the other fellow's friendship in the process.



And it's not only the date-dreaming fellow who gets the raw edge of this deal. Perhaps the girl, too, has been looking at this lad with stars in her eyes for these past weeks, but this strange brotherhood of men doesn't allow her to date any of the friends of the Joe with whom she has been stepping out recently.

Here's a letter from a gal in this predicament who sings the blues on this pitch:

"I'm 15 and a junior in high school. I've always been quite popular with fellows, and last spring I started dating one particular boy. He's almost all a gal could want, a sort of junior Van Johnson, cut down to high school size, but I realize that I'm too young to settle down to dating only one particular boy. But ever since I began dating him, none of his friends has asked me out. I know that there are at least three who could bear to take me out, but they seem to think they'd betray a trust if they even suggested going out. They also figure that I like him better anyway, so why should they waste their time. But I'd like to date several fellows, instead of confining my evenings just to one."

So that's your story, morning glory. Many fellows automatically cross a girl off their lists just because she has started to date one of their friends. A boy often hangs a "No Trespassing" sign on a girl as soon as he has taken her out once or twice to let his Joe friends know that he has already staked his claim.

So you're the one who has to strike out for herself. When the next girl-asks-boy affair comes up, ask another fellow just to let the boy know you have no exclusive date interest. Mention to one of the fellows who is a wizard on the links that you'd like to learn to play golf and ask him to teach you. Ask another fellow over to listen to records some evening. Let them know you're available and are ready to take down that Private Property sign round your neck. Just keep snowing them—they're bound to get the drift.

tume" and come to the 46th annual harvest home dinner-dance tonight. Old records of the club indicate that its first harvest home dinner, the original one given by a country club in the middle west, was held in September, 1900. The first 150 who made reservations for tonight's celebration will have a gay evening of dancing, plus a hot turkey dinner with all the trimmings.

Wedding News

At 11 a. m. today in SS. Faith, Hope, and Charity church, Miss Eleanor Jane Collette, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. William Harold Collette of Manlius, N. Y., and Green Bay, Wis., will become the bride of Lt. [j. g.] John Nelson Potter III., son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Sheridan Potter of Poughkeepsie, N. Y. The Collette family has many friends in this area as Col. Collette has been stationed at Fort Sheridan at various times. The bride is a niece of Mrs. Elmer Glaeser of Winnetka, who gave the bridal dinner in her home last night.

Miss Collette is a graduate of the Convent of the Sacred Heart in Lake Forest. One of her classmates, Miss Florence Donnersberger, will sing during the nuptial mass. Both Lt. Potter, who has been serving in the Pacific, and his bride were graduated from Syracuse university. Following the ceremony there will be a breakfast in the Edgewater Beach hotel. After a wedding trip north Lt. Potter and his bride will go to New York, where he will report for orders.

In a ceremony at 5 p. m. today in the Grace Lutheran church in River Forest, Miss Elizabeth Jahnnette Ludwig of the WAVES, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Frederick Ludwig of River Forest, will become the bride of Lt. James Robert Dodson Jr. of the naval reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dodson of Norfolk, Va. Mrs. William F. Ludwig Jr. will be matron of honor and the bridesmaids will include Lt. Dodson's sisters, Miss Nancy and Miss Frances Dodson. Following a short wedding trip, Lt. Dodson and his bride will report to the University of Notre Dame, where they both are stationed. He recently returned from 21 months of duty in the Mediterranean theater.

Eight Children Raise $30 for Ice Fund by Putting On a Carnival

Eight youngsters who realize there are other children in the city less fortunate than they recently held the "Leavitt st. carnival" and raised $30 for the Ice Fund. The children, between the ages of 8 and 14, conducted the carnival completely by themselves. All live in the vicinity of 89th and Leavitt sts. They are Mary Jane Cronin, Diana Fisher, Ann Luning, Diana Marsh, Ellen Nielsen, Janet Nightingale, James Sims, and Peter Marsh. The Ice Fund supplies ice to the city's needy in the hot months of the year.

Thru the Looking Glass

One thing which, thru the years, makes a woman more attractive to all with whom she comes in contact or makes her one of those persons universally unpopular is the speaking voice. The quality of it doesn't matter so much in her youth, when she has freshness and vivacity to capture attention, but as she grows older the quality counts for more and more. As physical beauty fades, gentleness, good manners, kindliness, and humor are what matter; a woman is loved for them until the day she dies.

The feminine voice can be charming or, as many of us know, it can be the most aggravating quality in the world during close and prolonged association. It's not quite possible to get accustomed to the grating voice, or the too loud one—and it's not possible to learn to love it.

We'd suggest to every mother of a daughter that somewhere along the line of daughter's education there be some voice training, either in grade school, high school, or college. Voice analysis is a merciless thing; almost all of us would be appalled if we ever heard our voice played back to us on a record that captures all our faults of poor timbre and irritating inflection. A few courses of expert instruction can do wonders with the young girl—and her parents can't make many better educational investments.

The grown woman who knows her voice is poor should do something about it. Professional help is by far the best. We can't correct our own voice faults because we actually have no conception of how our voice sounds. But please take our word for it that anything you do to improve your speaking voice is worth while. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 21—Fred Astaire has asked Metro for a release from his contract, which has a year to go. He's retiring from dancing. In fact, he's retiring from all work for at least a year—maybe two. Fred's just finishing his third big dancing picture in little more than a year. He did "Ziegfeld Follies," "Yolanda and the Thief," and is now doing "Blue Skies" with Bing Crosby. Since his sister, Adele, is in this country, they'd like to take time out for a visit. As soon as "Blue Skies" is in the can, Fred and Phyllis will take off for Aiken, S. C., where Adele will join them. If and when Fred returns to the screen he'd like to become a producer. And why not? He's been in show business since he was 6 years old. . . . Chet Lauck and Norris Goff [Lum 'n' Abner] return from Chicago Monday to begin their sixth picture, "Partners in Time." Ben Hersh is again producing for Col. Jack Votion, who's still in service overseas. . . . Mary Pickford's new title is "On-Again-Off-Again Finnegan." The latest from the Pickford gold front is that "There Goes Lona Henry" is indefinitely postponed. The director, Leslie Fenton, is off the pay roll. A working crew hired for Monday has been canceled, and it looks as if I'll be collecting my bet with Mary Come Oct. 2.

It's No Go; Hal Stays

There's no truth to the report that Hal Wallis will leave Paramount to head Universal studio. Hal tells me he's had wonderful coöperation and the returns from his picture "Love Letters" sure are making him happy. . . . Bob Young is about to sign for Wallis' "The Searching Wind." Hal also wants Joan Crawford for it. . . . Lizabeth Scott may not be in "Love Lies Bleeding" with Barbara Stanwyck after all. She's being considered for "They Dream of Home." . . . Universal is boasting that Merle Oberon's picture, "This Love of Ours," is the best they've ever turned out; also that Charles Korvin is something to shout about.

Scuttlebutt; or, Heard in London

London gossip has it that Noel Coward's new play is risque and not too hot. He'll be over here this winter to do "Present Laughter" and "This Happy Breed," which won't make Brooklyn happy. . . . The Egyptian government wouldn't permit Arthur Rank's company to replaster the Pyramids and give them glamor, so they made their own and took them to Egypt. Also, they built part of the Egyptian coast on the white cliffs of Dover for "Anthony and Cleopatra." . . . Van Johnson isn't any help at tennis matches. The young fry watch Van while he watches the players. Frank Shields is something to look at, and it was nice seeing little poker face, Helen Wills, back on the court. She was in great form and with the same Mona Lisa look. . . . I got a giggle, and you will, too, watching Cary Grant work in a five and ten cent store for "Night and Day."

Our Baby No Longer

Shirley Temple was one of the prettiest brides candlelight ever shone upon. The wedding was held up 15 minutes for Gov. Warren's arrival. They needed Metro's Whitey Hendry to handle the crowd. Only the quick thinking of Sgt. John Agar, who rushed Shirley back into the church, saved her. The fans are wonderful, and I love them, but when a crowd gets out of control it's terrifying. I asked Ann Gallery [Zasu Pitts' daughter], who introduced Shirley to Agar, why she wasn't a bridesmaid, and she replied, "O, I'm too old—I'm 23." . . . Why, blow me down! Bud Abbott and Lou Costello are actually going to do a picture without song or dance. They'll play characters—I mean different characters from what they are—'cause Bill Selter's not only writing the story, he's directing it as well; and Bill sure knows his characters.

Inquiring Camera Girl

By Maryon Zylstra

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by David Deutsch of New York.]

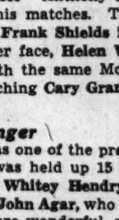
THE QUESTION

If you could be introduced to yourself as a perfect stranger, what sort of an impression would you make?

WHERE ASKED

Utilities building, 327 S. La Salle st.

THE ANSWERS



Peggy Powell, file supervisor, 8438 Euclid av.—Strangers on first acquaintance think I'm an old poker face. That's because I'm so serious. Probably if I could see myself I'd think, "She's an old crab, a straight laced old girl." But my, my, how looks are deceiving! My friends can tell you how true that is.

John L. Kendall, railroad clerk, 262 S. Marion st., Oak Park — My appearance changes from day to day. If I'm in a jovial mood, I reflect it, and I'm negative when I don't feel like meeting any one. If I were given a feminine point of view and introduced to myself, I probably would look at my Boyer eyes and flutter.

John Chitwood, railroad clerk, 6305 N. Kenmar av.—Assuming it's an average day and conditions are normal, I'd take one look and think, "He's a standard white collar guy, nothing exceptional; neatly dressed, not too flashy, not too quiet and not too talkative." That about sums up my own idea of John Chitwood.

Patricia M. Wenban, housewife, Paw Paw Lake, Coloma, Mich. — Just a freckled faced Irishman — that's me. I don't think strangers are too enthusiastic about me. That is, I don't strike them as being glamorous or an exceptional beauty, like some women. But when my hair is combed and my makeup is right, I'm presentable.

Ralph Callahan, illustrator, 640 N. Wabash av. — I think that comes under the general heading of seeing ourselves as others see us. Possibly the things we think are impressing the other person favorably might be doing just the opposite. I try to look the best I can under any circumstances and strive to be natural.

Film 'Over 21' Has Both Good and Bad Points

"OVER 21"

By Mae Tinée

"Over 21," which concerns the personal and army life of an overage soldier, suffers from two handicaps—release at a time when many such soldiers already have brought their aching backs home to civilian life and too much footage. A number of incidents have been added to the stage play, mostly fluff, resulting in a film almost two hours long.

Irene Dunne is as beautiful as ever in her role as the over-dressed novelist wife of Alexander Knox. He's the editor of a paper who takes his job so seriously that he feels he must know at first hand just what happens to the millions of Americans inducted into service, and he becomes one of them, altho he's almost 40. His age is a serious drawback, and he really sweats out officer candidate school, eaten by a fear of washing out, and contributes additional perspiration over what's happening to the newspaper in his absence.

The newspaper's owner, Charles Coburn, has money and a bombastic personality, and if he can't have Mr. Knox to contribute popular editorials, he won't have the paper and puts it up for sale. [I never did understand what was wrong with substitute, or why the publisher didn't just fire him or try someone else.] You can imagine what a wife who is handy with a typewriter would do in such a situation, and she does.

The cast is made up of pleasing and capable people, and there are the usual comedy scenes about the mysterious construction of the quarters army wives were forced to occupy during the war as they followed their husbands from one camp to another, the usual general's moronic wife—much of which you may enjoy if it's new to you.

Mr. Knox's worry about the peace and his delivery of his wife's editorial on the subject are interesting, but Miss Dunne seemed to me to be over-acting nervously most of the time. Her voice is hoarse and her manner jittery, altho she manages the comedy, which borders on the slap-stick, in a likable fashion.

The title is based on a theory, heaven knows whose, that it's impossible for the human brain to absorb anything new after the age of 21.

Illinois Clubwomen's Federation Launches School Art Contest

The art department of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs has launched its annual school children's art contest, which is open to all 7th and 8th graders thruout the state. "Historic Spots in Illinois" is the theme.

All contest drawings first will be judged in district competition, Mrs. Everett R. Mitchell, department chairman, explained, with each of the 25 districts of the federation selecting no more than eight entries. These will be placed in final statewide competition and the winners will be announced at the spring convention of the federation.

Each club contributes a penny for each member to an art fund, and with the money, amounting to some $700, original paintings by contemporary Illinois artists are purchased. The paintings are presented to the contest winners' schools.

Pupils' entries are submitted in one of two divisions—the work of pupils to whom regular art instruction is available, and that of those having no instruction.

PLEA TO MURRAY EXPECTED IN CIO ELECTION FIGHT

Reds Assert Their Slate Wins Council Posts

BY GEORGE HARTMANN

Philip Murray, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, will be asked to settle a dispute over the election of officers of the Chicago Industrial Union council, the CIO's central body for the Chicago area, leaders of the anti-communist faction of the council indicated last night. CIO unions have 150,000 Chicago members.

Neno Cellini

After an uncompleted election at a meeting in the Engineering building, 205 W. Wacker dr., the communist faction held a rump meeting and declared its entire slate elected. Each side pronounced the other's action in the election illegal.

Reds' Figures on Vote

The Communist faction announced the following vote for secretary of the council: 73,529.96 for Neno Cellini of the Studebaker local of the United Automobile, Aircraft and Agricultural Implement Workers' union, and 39,758.64 for Michael Mann, an avowed anti-Communist who has been secretary for more than two years. Each affiliated union was entitled to cast one vote for each of its members.

Altho Albert Towers, president of the council, had declared the session adjourned at 1:30 a. m., the communist forces continued to vote until 4 a. m. when the foregoing totals were announced. Towers had been reëlected without opposition. The left wingers announced that their entire slate of candidates for offices had won by totals approximating those they claimed in the Cellini-Mann contest.

UAW Repudiates Director

The regular session, which was started at 9 p. m. Thursday, was tumultuous thruout.

Joseph Mattson, regional director of the UAW, who had been designated by his union to make a nomination for secretary on its behalf, presented the name of Cellini. The 31 UAW locals, which have a total of 45,000 members, however, repudiated Mattson by giving 1,400 more votes to the Mann slate than the regional director could muster for the communist ticket.

Walter Harris, Chicago regional director for the CIO, voted for the anti-communist ticket.

After the election had progressed thru three hours of booing and name calling, Towers announced that the building management had notified him that the hall must be cleared.

De Maio Leads Red Faction

Ernest DeMaio, vice president of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers' union and one of the leaders of the Communist faction, said the hall did not have to be vacated until 6 a. m.

Anti-Communist delegates of the powerful United Steelworkers union urged that the meeting be adjourned "until next Thursday" so that their delegates could be at work at 6 a. m.

After continued turmoil there was a motion to adjourn and Towers declared it had carried. Most of the right wing delegates went home.

Thereafter Louis Torre, vice president of the council and chief aid to De Maio in the communist dominated UEW, shouted: "As senior officer now of the council I declare the meeting still in session."

During the subsequent roll call the right wing delegations which had retired were skipped and only the votes of coalition UAW-communist delegates were recorded.

CLIENTS IN GEMS; PAWNBROKERS LOSING SHIRTS

Altho it may be a period of high prosperity to every one else, the gentlemen in the pawnbroking business are moaning that all their old customers are now wearing the family jewelry instead of hocking it.

Pawnshop operators yesterday disclosed that the loan business is the lowest it has been in the last quarter of a century with immediate prospects of scraping bottom soon.

"Things are so bad that I have to appraise my own watch now and then just to keep in practice," said one gray haired broker as he gazed around his empty shop. "Funny thing, too. I keep giving myself more money every time I appraise the thing."

Each pawnshop owner interviewed had his private reason for the slump in business, but generally all agreed that the biggest factor was the high wages and full employment of the war time.

SCHOOL GUARD IS FIRED AFTER 4 BOYS ESCAPE

Discharge of a guard and 15 day suspension of his assistant were announced yesterday by Richard Eddy, managing officer of the Illinois State Training School for Boys near St. Charles as the result of the escape last Wednesday of four school inmates.

Three of the boys were captured Thursday while attempting to steal an automobile in Batavia, Kane county. The fourth boy, Richard Walters, 17, of Dixon, was seized yesterday in Plainfield, Will county.

The four boys fled thru a window of a cottage while the guard, Charles J. Pierce, 46, and his assistant, Charles Tanner, 29, were in the place. Eddy charged the escape was due to their "gross negligence."

Eddy also reported that the number of escapes from the school had increased to 198 for the period from July 1, 1944, to last June 30: a record high for the fiscal period. Since July 1 there have been 37 escapes, he added.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BEN MARKLAND

Sept. 21, 1945

MIDWESTERN farmers haven't had many chances to applaud the weather of the last six weeks, but the men on the Fox river farm were ready to acclaim yesterday as perfect from the standpoint of work accomplished and corn being cured in the field.

The thermometer was in the high 60s and the sun was shining, the conditions desperately needed for curing the corn before frost time. It had rained the previous night, with heavy downpours in surrounding areas, but there was only a light shower in the Yorkville district, and it caused no interruption of the current job of filling the big silo.

Seven Men on Job

Seven men are busy with the silage chore: One man drives the tractor that pulls the field chopper; two men drive trucks between the field and silo; one man distributes ensilage in the truck beds; two help the truck drivers unload at the blower; the seventh worker operates and fires the steam engine that powers the blower.

The farm manager is satisfied with the performance of the new field chopper, which is being used in the corn fields this year for the first time.

Double Duty Machine

The same implement was used for field chopping of hay this spring, and now is fitted with a one row attachment for guiding corn into the chopping blades. Each of the two trucks has a capacity of 3½ tons of silage, and the field chopper fills them in 8 to 10 minutes.

Use of a third truck would speed the work of silo filling, because the unloaders at the silo are idle for several minutes between each load when only two trucks are in use.

While the men were working at the silo, the farm women were stocking their basement shelves with freshly canned fruits and vegetables. We visited two of the farm women the other morning and found them making plum butter with fruit harvested from their own trees; on the back porch was a supply of apples from the orchard that was to be made into apple sauce for canning. The same women also had prepared pickled beets and spiced peaches during the last week for winter consumption.

★ The GARDEN ★

ALL members of the vine family are sensitive to frosts, therefore gardeners who have cucumbers, squash, pumpkins, and melons in their plots should make plans to harvest these crops when severe weather approaches. Muskmelons are the most tender, and are damaged by light frosts. Cucumbers, pumpkins, and winter squash can withstand slightly lower temperatures, but the safest procedure is to beat the frosts.

Vine crops should not be stored in the same room with root vegetables, because the former require warmer temperatures than do root crops. A storage place that can be kept dry and at about 55 degrees during the winter is ideal.

At least two inches of stem should be left on the squash and pumpkins. Only mature specimens should be stored. Melons, squash, and cucumbers should have no breaks in the rind, because breaks will result in decay during storage.

OFFICIAL WEATHER FORECAST

The United States weather bureau forecast for today and tomorrow and yesterday's table of records follow:

INDIANA—Cloudy and cool with occasional showers and scattered thunderstorms today; tomorrow partly cloudy and warmer; local thundershowers near Lake Michigan late tomorrow afternoon or night.

LOWER MICHIGAN—Increasing cloudiness and continued cool today followed by occasional showers tonight or tomorrow beginning in extreme southeast late this afternoon; somewhat warmer tomorrow except little change in temperature near Lake Huron.

UPPER MICHIGAN—Partly cloudy and continued quite cool today; tomorrow cloudy with occasional showers; warmer except little change near Lake Michigan.

WISCONSIN—Increasing cloudiness and continued rather cool with occasional showers and scattered thunderstorms gradually overspreading south and west today and northeast tonight; tomorrow considerable cloudiness and warmer with occasional showers.

IOWA—Mostly cloudy today with occasional showers and thunderstorms, rather scattered in extreme west; warmer in west; tomorrow partly cloudy with occasional showers; a little warmer in east and cooler in extreme west; rather windy today.

RETURN MONDAY, PUPILS ORDERED IN GARY STRIKE

Charles D. Lutz, superintendent of Gary public schools, yesterday issued an ultimatum to striking high school pupils to return to their classes Monday morning.

Some 300 pupils of the Tolleston High school agreed to return at that time and to present their grievances to the Gary school board Tuesday night. Some 800 pupils of the Froebel High school, who started the strike last Tuesday morning in protest against enrollment of Negroes in that school, refused to return.

"We will lose unity if we return to school now," a spokesman for the Froebel pupils said after delegates had conferred with Lutz. "We won't go back to classes until the school board meets with us."

Developments yesterday brought the disclosure that Mrs. Beatrice Lawrence, president of the Froebel Parent-Teachers' association, is the wife of Howard Lawrence, executive secretary of the Communist party of Lake County, Ind.

DEARBORN TUBE COMPLETION SET TO BEGIN OCT. 16

Resumption of work on the Milwaukee-Dearborn subway, held up during the war, is to begin Oct. 16, V. E. Gunlock, city commissioner of subways and superhighways, announced yesterday. The war production board notified him that restrictions on the construction would be lifted Oct. 15.

It is estimated the work still to be done will cost 10 million dollars, to be paid for with traction fund money and part of a federal grant. Contracts for steel to complete the Milwaukee av. incline have been awarded and contracts for other sections are to be signed soon.

To be built are subway tubes in Congress st. from Dearborn st. to the west bank of the river, a station at Congress and La Salle sts., track installation, and other fininshing touches. Gunlock said that plans and specifications for the project are virtually complete.

Criminal Court Marks Chief Bailiff's Birthday

Joseph Lelivelt, chief bailiff of the Criminal court, was summoned before Chief Justice Harold G. Ward yesterday in mock trial proceedings and congratulated on his 52d birthday. Lelivelt reported he planned a double celebration with his twin sister, Mrs. Josephine Bruner of 917 Forest av., Oak Park.

EVANSTON HEAD TO FILE REPORT ON SEX CRIMES

Spurred by public agitation over the recent series of sex crimes and other attacks on women in Evanston, Mayor Ingraham disclosed yesterday that he is preparing a complete report on current crime conditions, and will submit the report to the next council meeting Monday night.

Mayor Ingraham also said that he is waiting to hear from the citizens' committee organized at an overflow mass meeting of 8th ward residents Thursday night. The committee, representing the south section of Evanston, where the crime wave has centered, has announced that it will meet with the mayor and the aldermen Monday and submit a number of recommendations.

Committee Will Go to Council

Thomas F. Dolan, a lawyer, and chairman of the committee, said no preliminary meeting with Mayor Ingraham had been planned; the committee will go directly to the council.

Evanston police are searching for a parolee from the Menard state prison for the criminal insane, who has a long sex record.

County Police on Patrol

Meanwhile, Cook county highway police were still patroling Evanston streets, by order of Sheriff Mulcahy.

During the day, K. P. Morris, Negro, 20, of 3209 South Park av., Chicago, was arrested by Woodlawn police as he was alighting from an Evanston "L" train. Fresh scratches on his neck roused police suspicion. Evanston authorities were notified.

A police squad last night seized another Negro at Granville av. and Clark st. Detectives said the right side of his face was scratched and he could not explain how he had been marked. He wears a mustache, is 6 feet tall, and weighs 195 pounds.

Eight Hunted on Rape Charges

Chicago police are searching for eight young hoodlums who, with a ninth man now in custody, are accused of raping a 20 year old girl living in the Douglas park district.

Alfred Sitkiewicz, 22, of 1823 N. Fairfield av., was sentenced to eight years in prison by Chief Justice Harold G. Ward in Criminal court. Sitkiewicz pleaded guilty to rape of a woman 56 years old.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 21—A young, inexperienced University of Michigan eleven and an Indiana squad loaded for bear will usher in the Western conference's 50th season tomcrrow in Michigan's stadium before a crowd estimated at 25,000.

The Wolverines have had the advantage of one contest, a 27 to 2 victory over Great Lakes last Saturday, but there the edge ends and Coach Herbert O. [Fritz] Crisler admits it. He looks for an Indiana triumph tomorrow and makes a good case, pointing to the fact that the Hoosiers, altho making their first start of the year, have a big squad of veterans, all but two on the roster having played a part in the unexpected 20 to 0 trimming Bo McMillin's team handed Michigan in its Big Nine opener last year.

Seventeen Are Only 17

On the other hand, among the first 46 Wolverines listed, 17 are 17 years old. Returning letter men number nine and few were stars in 1944 when Michigan won eight of ten games. The defeats were by Indiana and Ohio State.

Indiana will start George Tallaferro, Gary Negro, at full back in place of John Cannady, whose injured leg prevented him from making the trip.

Teninga Is Chief Hope

Crisler is looking for great things from the Chicago High school sensation, Walter Teninga, star of last year's Morgan Park team who made a brilliant debut last Saturday against the Bluejackets. Teninga, leading Chicago prep scorer with 94 points in 1944, gained 84 yards in 11 attempts against Great Lakes and completed four of six passes, one for a touchdown.

Added zest will be furnished to tomorrow's encounter by the return of Bob Nussbaumer, a marine dischargee and veteran right half back. Nussbaumer, a 165 pound breakaway runner during the first half of last season, will play art of the game, Crisler declared, altho he reported for practice only this week.

MANGRUM, FIFTH, TOPS AMERICANS IN BRITISH P. G. A.

St. Andrews, Scotland, Sept. 21 (AP)—Corp. Charley Ward of the British royal air force won the British P. G. A. golf tournament with a 72 hole score of 298 here today.

Corp. Lloyd Mangrum, Los Angeles veteran and European theater champion of the United States army, blew his chance to take first money when he wound up with 79 strokes on the third round this morning. He matched par with a 73 in the last round this afternoon but his 72 hole 302 landed him in a fifth place tie with Bill Sankland, Australian football star.

Ward finished with 73-74-77-74—298, six over par for the heavily-trapped 6,852-yard layout.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 21—Marquette and Purdue, which open their football seasons here tomorrow in Ross-Ade stadium, shared the practice field this afternoon in final drills. Marquette's squad, arriving shortly after noon today, reported at the fieldhouse three hours later. The Boilermakers followed them to the practice area.

Fifteen thousand are expected to attend the 1945 kick-off, which also begins the second half century of big time football at Purdue. A big time schedule, as defined by Bob Woodworth, Purdue's publicitor, is interstate in character. The Boilermakers' 1895 squad qualified under this definition and two members of that team, both living in this city, are expected to be in the stands tomorrow. They are Dr. C. H. Robertson, captain and tackle on the 1895 team, and A. P. Jamison, quarter back.

Teams Similar in Character

Neither Cecil Isbell, Purdue's head coach, nor Tom Stidham of Marquette, had any addition to comment offered during the fall training period. In several respects, the rival teams shape up in the same fashion. Each is short of experienced talent in the line. Purdue will have two lettermen in the back field while Marquette probably will start four veterans. If Bob Lodde does not start at quarter back, it will be because of the choice of kicking off or receiving. Bill Hickey, freshman from St. Ignatius High school, Chicago will alternate with Lodde.

Ed Cody, who played a season at Boston college before entering Purdue after discharge from service last year, is a fine full back and his power is feared by Marquette, which remembers his share in the Boilermakers' 40 to 7 victory a year ago. Cody later was injured, but there is no doubt but that he is the peer of any Western conference full back and probably superior to all.

Bill Canfield, shifted from quarter back to left half, is Purdue's other veteran back.

Marquette is deeply concerned over its tackle positions, and with cause when Cody's power in considered, but Purdue has only one outstanding tackle, Pat O'Brien.

TALBERT LOSES IN LOS ANGELES TENNIS TOURNEY

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 21 (AP)—Frankie Parker, national champion; Herbie Flam, national junior title holder, and Carl Earn won the men's singles quarter finals matches today in the Pacific southwest tennis tournament. Earn, navy baker from Los Angeles, scored an upset, defeating Billy Talbert, Wilmington, Del., 7-5, 2-6, 6-1.

In women's singles Margaret Osborne, San Francisco, swept thru Mary Arnold, Los Angeles, 6-0, 6-2, and Dorothy Bundy, Santa Monica, beat Doris Hart, Miami, Fla., 8-6, 4-6, 6-4.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Sept. 21—Pittsburgh's game with Illinois tomorrow is the first of four contests Clark Shaughnessy's eleven will have with Western conference teams this fall. . . . In addition to the Illini, the Panthers will play Purdue, Indiana, and Ohio State. . . . Notre Dame is another midwestern unit on Pitt's schedule. . . . Claude Passeau says that whenever drummers come to his home town of Lucedale, Miss., for the first time they seek to warm up the natives by saying something like, "I see Passeau pitched another shutout the other day. . . . And more than likely, Claude says, the native will blandly respond, "I reckon you mean Claude Passeau. He's got a nice piece o' land just outside of town." . . . And with that the conversation turns to other topics. . . . Otto Graham, former Northwestern half back who will play with the Cleveland All-America eleven next fall, will marry his college sweetheart, Beverly Jean Collinge, in the First Methodist church, Wabash, Ind. Oct. 7. . . . Ted Larson, son of the former Navy head coach, Swede Larson, is a candidate for the plebe football team at Annapolis. . . . His dad is a colonel in the marine corps. . . . Eight Chicago boys on Marquette university's football squad voted for the Cubs as their favorite baseball team, and six for the White Sox. . . . Don Hutson's favorite food is butter. . . . When he can get it, the famous Green Bay Packer end plasters it on almost every type of food. . . . Ernie Nevers, who will help Lt. Col. Dick Hanley coach Jack Keeshin's Chicago All-America football squad, is on a talent hunt thru the Rocky mountain and Pacific coast areas. . . . Keeshin already has signed 24 players for his 1946 team.

Otto Graham

Clark Shaughnessy

Ben Chapman, who never won any prizes for affability when he was a player, has become the most pleasant of gents since becoming manager of the Phillies—and more so since he was re-signed for next year. . . . You'll be reading one of these days that his predecessor with the Phillies, Fred Fitzsimmons, will be affiliated with the business end of a professional football club next fall. . . . Give Tuss McLaughry two more years in which to build, and Dartmouth will be back at the top of eastern football. . . . Ray Eliot of Illinois says the experience of working with this year's All-Star squad was one of the most profitable of his football career. . . . Southeastern conference football fans had better keep an eye on Louisiana State. . . . The squad includes 22 letter men and a good crop of freshmen. . . . Comdr. George Halas plans to coach his Chicago Bears for at least one year after his discharge from the navy.

Along the Years

When you were just a little lad
And spent your days in play,
We came to know and love you
As "the kid across the way."

We watched your striding boyhood years
To grow resourceful, true;
To strive for high achievements,
And we were proud of you.

We saw you nearing man's estate
'Twas then, erect and tall,
You donned your country's uniform
To heed its urgent call.

And, tho you've won promotions
And wear medals in array,
Still we think of you and love you
As the "kid across the way."

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 21—The University of Illinois, which steadily will become one of the nation's post-war football powers, will open its 56th gridiron season tomorrow in Memorial stadium against the University of Pittsburgh.

Ray Eliot, known in these parts as a "player's coach," has a squad which, on paper at least, is rated stronger than his 1944 eleven, a unit that rolled up 273 points in ten games. This one has more experience and a sturdier defense and possibly may match the 1944 group in back field speed, altho it will take tomorrow's game to establish the last attribute.

They'll Miss McGovern

The Illini offense may be braked down somewhat by the loss of Eddie McGovern, half back who will be out of competition at least a month because of an emergency appendectomy performance yesterday. McGovern and Eddie Bray, who burned up Big Nine gridirons in 1943, were expected to offset the absence of Buddy Young and Paul Patterson, last year's break-away runners, who now are in the navy.

Eliot plans to start Tommy Zaborac, a 200 pound freshman from Canton, in McGovern's spot at right half back. Zaborac is one of the fastest men on the squad. A few years ago a decision to start a first year man against a major opponent would have been a dream wilder than the most optimistic vision born of hashish, but the war changed all that. Boys fresh from high school fields have distinguished themselves in intercollegiate contests in sizable numbers.

Pitt to Start Seven Frosh

Clark Shaughnessy, coach of the Pittsburgh forces, has 13 letter men from last year's mediocre Panther squad, but he lists seven freshmen in his starting line-up for tomorrow, which may mean he has improved material. Pitt will base its offensive strength on the running of two Negro speedsters, Jim Robinson and Herbert Douglas, both of whom operate at left half back. Forward passing, always a potent factor in a Shaughnessy offensive, will be conducted by Jack Smodic and Bill Wolff, both first-year men.

Illinois' confidence springs from an experienced line, which averages 205 pounds and includes six letter men and one 1944 reserve. This year's squad has stronger replacements than any other Orange and Blue unit since before the war. Lack of reserves handicapped the Illini in the late games last season.

The return of Bray has lifted Illinois' hopes for a successful Western conference campaign. Rated one of the best scat backs in the Big Nine in 1943, Bray incurred a knee injury in a game of touch football that incapacitated him for most of last season.

Northwestern university's football team, sporting an almost complete change of cast and a new script in the form of the T formation, will inaugurate the 1945 season today against Iowa State in Dyche stadium. A crowd of 40,000, swelled by 10,000 Boy Scouts and 5,000 service men, will witness the curtain raiser.

Iowa State, coached by A. M. [Mike] Michalske, former Green Bay Packer guard, is expected to provide a stiff opening test for the inexperienced Wildcats. Michalske has 11 letter men from the team which placed second in the Big Six conference last year, losing only to Oklahoma, 12 to 7.

The Cyclone back field is built around two veterans, Dick Howard, one of the best full backs in the Big Six, and Gene Phelps, fleet left half back.

Coach Lynn Waldorf, starting his 11th season with the Purple, has been forced to build this year's team around five lettermen, only two of whom were regulars last year.

Max Morris, end, and Dick Conners, half back are the lone regulars from the 1944 squad. Other lettermen who will start are Bruce Bairstow, left half, Herman Stegen, guard, and Bill Travers, full back. Westi Hansen, 6 foot 4 inch, 210 pound tackle who won a letter at Yale last year before being transferred to the Northwestern R. O. T. C., will be at right tackle.

Senators Lose to Yanks, 5-3; 1½ Games Out

New York, Sept. 21 (AP)—The Washington Senators were all but "home-runned" out of the American league pennant race today.

The New York Yankees, who practically roll over and play dead whenever they see the league leading Tigers, cashed in on the old lethal weapon of their heyday, the round trip wallop, to knock off Washington, 5 to 3, and sink the Senators a game and a half behind Detroit.

Now down three games on the losing side of the ledger, the Senators skidded to a spot where any combination of four Detroit victories and/or Washington defeats mathematically will nail the pennant to the Tigers' flagpole.

Beaten twice in this final series with the Yanks, to wind up the season with a record of eight victories against 14 setbacks at the hands of the New Yorkers, the Senators left tonight for a final three game set with the Athletics in Philadelphia.

In contrast to the Yankees' success this season against the Senators, the New Yorkers were able to beat the Tigers only seven times in 22 starts.

A homer by Nick Etten, with two on, and one by George Stirnweiss produced four of the Yankees' runs today—the fifth was knocked in on a single by Etten—while the Senators showed such complete futility at the plate that even Bill Zuber was able to beat them for his first victory in six starts.

Clift Is Injured

The Senators also left for Philadelphia without Third Baseman Harlond Clift, who probably is thru for the season. The veteran was hit by a ball pitched by Walt Holborow during pre-game batting practice and suffered a concussion. He was taken to a hospital, where it was reported he would remain until Sunday, when he probably will return to Washington.

NAME PASSEAU FOR DUEL WITH OSTERMUELLER

North Siders Still 2 Games Ahead

If—

The Detroit Tigers, leading the Washington Senators in the American league race by one and a half games, have six more to play, two with Cleveland and four with St. Louis, while Washington has only three, with Philadelphia. If Detroit wins three of its remaining games, Washington must take all three to tie for first at the end of the regular schedule.

BY EDWARD BURNS

The Cubs, who are and should be jubilant that they don't have to play the St. Louis Cardinals again until next Tuesday and Wednesday, when the teams will meet in single games in Wrigley field, this afternoon will play the Pirates in the first match of a three game series, also in Wrigley field.

Claude Passeau, who had gotten in the habit of pitching shutouts in a couple of games before he lost the tough opener in St. Louis Tuesday night, will start the real pennant clinching drive this afternoon. The Cubs expect to look at the left handed gyrations of Fritz Ostermueller.

Pirates Are Tough, Too

The Cubs have whipped the Pirates 10 times in 18 tries, which is a splendid contrast with their five out of 20 with the Cards. The Pirates, nevertheless, were pretty rugged in some of those eight whippings they draped on our beloved athletes. It should be a fierce battle this afternoon, and Manager Grimm will be expecting no push-overs in tomorrow's double header.

While the Pirates are week-ending with the Cubs, the Cincinnati Reds will be the guests of the Cards in St. Louis in a night game tonight and a single game tomorrow, the first two of five remaining games between the two clubs.

Lead by Two Games

The Cubs, as all good fans know, will go into this afternoon's business with a lead of two games over the pursuing Cardinals. If it should transpire that both the Cubs and Cards sweep their week-end enterprises, the Cubs will increase their lead to 2½ games—because they will have won three while the Cards will have won the maximum of two.

That would take the Cubs into their two game final series with the Cardinals, Tuesday and Wednesday, assured of still being ahead of the Cards by a half game or better after the two games are played.

After the Card-Cub series, the Cubs will go to Cincinnati for single games with the Reds on next Thursday and Friday. On the night of Sept. 27 the Cardinals will be in Pittsburgh for the play-off of the twice postponed and once tied final with the Pirates.

Saturday the Cubs will rest for their final activity of the National league season, a single game with the Pirates. While the Cubs are taking that day off, the Cards will be playing a single game in Cincinnati. And while the Cubs are playing a single game on Sunday, Sept. 30, the Cards will be playing a double header in Cincinnati.

WHITE SOX END VACATION; PLAY INDIANS TODAY

The White Sox, with six games remaining on their 1945 schedule, will play single contests today and tomorrow against the Indians in Cleveland. The sixth placers will meet the Browns in St. Louis next Tuesday and Wednesday, then return to Comiskey park to play the Indians Saturday and Sunday.

Even four victories over the Indians would not assure the Sox of landing in fifth place. They have a two and a half game lead over the Red Sox, in seventh.

AUSTIN DEFEATS FENWICK, 27-20; FINN IS INJURED

West Side Star Suffers Broken Leg

BY DAVID CONDON

Austin High school's football team yesterday halted a fourth period rally to defeat its traditional west side rival, Fenwick, 27 to 20, in an interleague game before 5,000 in Key Branch stadium. Bob Finn, who accounted for three Austin touchdowns suffered a fractured right leg as he crossed the goal line the third time and was removed to West Suburban hospital.

Finn scored his first touchdown on a five yard run and followed with another when he intercepted a pass thrown by Roger Brown and raced 55 yards to score. These, coupled with an extra point kicked by Jim Frank, gave Austin a 13 to 0 lead at the half.

Injured on Scoring Play

In the third period Finn ran eight yards to score but was injured as he crossed the goal line. Frank again added the point to give Austin a 20 to 0 lead starting the fourth period.

Fenwick broke into the scoring column when Jim Crowley crossed from the 4 yard line. The Friars then took to the air, with Brown, versatile half back, passing 15 yards to Charley Fox. Fox continued 15 yards to score. The final touchdown was another Brown to Fox pass, with Fox taking the 30 yard pass in the end zone. Fenwick's two extra points came on kicks by Frank Consago.

Austin's fourth touchdown came on a 15 yard pass caught in the end zone by Tom Belsanti. Frank again kicked the point.

Lane Beats Roosevelt

The opening of City league competition saw Lane Tech, defending north section champion, score a 13 to 0 victory over Roosevelt before 4,000 in Lane Tech stadium. Lane led, 7 to 0, at the half after Alex Cichanski scored from the 5 yard line and Chet Hulbert kicked the point.

Cichanski ran 75 yards in the third period for the second score. Hulbert missed the kick.

In the central section Farragut scored a 32 to 6 triumph over Dunbar, a new league entry.

In the second central section game Lindblom defeated Kelly, 18 to 0, in Shewbridge field. Ray Rizzo plunged 11 yards in the third quarter for the first touchdown and Allen Babendir ran 7 yards for another in the same period. Babendir scored again in the fourth quarter when he returned a punt 39 yards.

In a nonleague game Sullivan rallied in the second half to defeat Foreman, 13 to 6, in Hanson Park. Ronald Mora of Foreman scored the longest touchdown of the day when he intercepted a pass and ran 35 yards to score in the first quarter.

Tigers Given Batting Drill on Open Date

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 21—The Detroit Tigers, who in the last few days developed an anti-world series attitude much to the dismay of Steve O'Neill, their boss, today were put thru what he hopes will prove a quick but effective reconversion process.

O'Neill invited them out to look at their home premises, which they hadn't seen since whipping the White Sox in a double header on Labor day and while they were there he let them gorge themselves in batting practice.

Newhouser Due to Pitch

The hitting art has been one of their most glaring weaknesses in recent games, the last three of which they have lost, and whether today's bit of practice along with the home surroundings will make any difference will be known tomorrow when they launch a two game series with the champion St. Louis Browns, who still are interested in third place money.

One big reason for the slump taken by the first placers was the ailment that overtook Hal Newhouser, the skilled southpaw, just before they started their recent eastern swing. Hoping Hal has recovered from the troublesome shoulder ailment, O'Neill expects to start the young man tomorrow.

Outlaw Does Well

There is just the possibility that O'Neill, for one or two games at least, may abandon his effort to rush Hank Greenberg back into action altho he is not fully recovered from an ankle injury. The home run artist showed in the two games in Cleveland that he is off on his hitting and handicapped in his fielding whereas the fellow who had been subbing for him, Jim Outlaw, had been doing everything in a big way.

After finishing with the Browns on Sunday the Tigers will have Monday in which to rest up before entertaining the Indians here on Tuesday and Wednesday. Their only remaining games thereafter will be in St. Louis Sept. 29 and 30.

OHIO STATE REDS BEAT WHITES IN SCRIMMAGE, 33-0

Columbus, O., Sept. 21 [Special]—The Ohio State football squad ended its two-a-day practice sessions today with a scrimmage game in which the Red team, composed of first and second string players, gained a 33 to 0 victory over the Whites, whose lineup included the rest of the squad.

Tilden-Phillips Game Heads City League Program Today

Five City league prep football games, including the traditional Soldiers' field meeting between Co-Champion Tilden Tech and Phillips, are scheduled today.

More than 10,000 are expected in the lake front stadium to see the Tilden-Phillips contest. Phillips, paced by Buddy Young, won the City league title in 1943 and last season, with Horace Chandler ably replacing Young, was one of the stronger teams in the city.

Tilden displaced its central section rival in 1944, winning the section title and tying for the city championship. Two veteran backs who paced the Blue Devils to a 13 to 7 victory over Weber in the Kelly bowl again are with the Tilden eleven. Around these, Quarter Back Bill Gay and Full Back Mike Swistowicz, and Letter Man Ralph McGeehee, Coach Chuck Harvey has fashioned his starting line-up.

Phillips Has Speed Again

Phillips uncovered two backs who might compare with Young and Chandler as it scored a 26 to 6 triumph over Marshall in a practice game last week. They are Herb Jones, who scored two touchdowns, and Lindsey Bradley, who added the other two.

In the other central section meeting at 83d-Yates stadium, Du Sable, 14 to 13 loser to Farragut last week, plays Englewood, which suffered a 3 to 0 defeat in its meeting with Hyde Park when Jim Fuchs kicked a field goal.

Schurz, strongly rated in the battle for the north section crown now held by Lane Tech, meets Waller in Lane Tech stadium at 12:30 in its first section assignment. Schurz upset New Trier, defending Suburban league champions, 7 to 0, in a practice game last week while Waller was held to a 6 to 6 tie by Tuley.

Senn Battles Lake View

Another game is scheduled in Lane Tech stadium, at 3 o'clock, with Senn meeting Lake View. Senn, strong last year, beat Harper, 13 to 0, in a practice contest last week.

The third north section meeting is between Taft and Amundsen in Winnemac park, with Taft attempting to atone for a 26 to 12 defeat dealt them by the Vikings last season. In practice games last week Taft tied Foreman, 6 to 6, while Amundsen routed Roosevelt, 26 to 0.

Play in the West Suburban league will start today, altho the defending champion, La Grange, which has won the title for four consecutive years, will be idle. In league games, York meets Maine in Des Plaines, Riverside is at Downers Grove, and Glenbard is host to Hinsdale.

Wheaton and Naperville, co-champions of the Little Seven conference, start defense of the title in games today. Wheaton meets St. Charles in Wheaton and Naperville plays at Geneva.

Robinson in Top Form for Lamotta Bout

Ray [Sugar] Robinson appeared in top form as he sparred four rounds yesterday in the C. Y. O. center gymnasium for his 12 round bout with Jack Lamotta in Comiskey park next Wednesday, one each against Jimmy Sherrer, Van McNutt, Art Brown, and Jimmy Bishop. As a result, he will be given a rest today to insure against staleness.

Lamotta, who is 23 years old and the foremost contender for a shot at the middleweight championship, appeared earlier and did 10 rounds of floor work. He will box two rounds in the C. Y. O. center this afternoon against his brother, Joey, who is paired with Marty Doyle, Detroit 160 pounder, in a six round supporting match on the program.

Altho Lamotta appears to have an excellent chance to deal Robinson his second defeat in 57 contests, George Gainford, Robinson's manager, apparently is not worried. That's because he doesn't believe Ray will lose any prestige if Lamotta beats him. The belief is based on the fact that Lamotta, at 160 pounds, will outweigh Ray 10 pounds.

Nelson Leads Spokane Golf; Has 132 at 36 Holes

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 21 (AP)—Byron Nelson of Toledo, O., ignored the driving rain today and posted his second 66 and a halfway total of 132 in the $10,000 Esmeralda Open golf tournament. Jack Gage of San Bernardino, Cal., and Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., were tied for second with 136. Harold [Jug] McSpaden of Sanford, Me., was fourth with 138.

Strand Beats Andersson, Hagg in Swedish Mile

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 21 (AP)—Lennart Strand, who beat his countryman, Arne Andersson, for the Swedish 1,500 meters title a month ago, today defeated both Andersson and Gunder Hagg in the mile run in an international meet. Strand was timed in 4:04.8.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 21—Minnesota's Gophers, directed for the first time in four seasons by a quiet, sharp-eyed gent named Bernard William Bierman, tomorrow will open their 1945 football campaign against Missouri's Tigers in a contest which will lure upwards of 35,000 loyalists to Memorial stadium.

These northland gridiron patriots, who yield to none in the land in their enthusiastic support of the home team, will rise and shine early to take their seats in the big stadium wherein Minnesota pre-war elevens wrote several of the brightest pages in football history. They will be actuated not so much by loyalty on this occasion as by curiosity, for the Gopher lineup carries a considerable number of question marks.

Tackles Offer Problem

The tackles present the chief problem against Missouri tomorrow. Starting will be Tom Reinhardt, who can be used either at right or left, and Larry Olsonoski. The ends provide the other problem in the coaching dilemma. Bierman will start Johnny Lundin, a local high school light before he enrolled, and Bob Carley, the hockey player.

Minnesota has confidence in its guards, and with reason. One is Bob Graiziger, a discharged service man who played in Bierman's last pre-war cast. The other is Bob Hanzlik, another dischargee, who played one year at Wisconsin before the navy program shifted him to Michigan. At center will be Dick Van Dusen, a handy citizen from Birmingham, Ala.

The Backs Will Do

In the back field department, not even Bierman can deny that his offensive talent is capable of arguing it out with such as Michigan and Ohio State for the conference championship. The top foursome includes the able Merlin Kispert at quarter, the veteran Vic Kulbitski at full back, and Johnny Lundquist and Red Williams at the halves. Williams and Kulbitski both played under Bierman before entering service.

The Missouri squad of 34 arrived at noon today, with Chauncey Simpson, serving his third year as head coach after the departure of Don Faurot to the navy, in charge.

LUTHERAN RALLY TO LAUNCH DRIVE FOR 2 MILLIONS

Sum Sought for 3 New High Schools Here

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS

The Lutheran hour rally Sunday afternoon, Oct. 7, will launch a 2 million dollar program for three new Lutheran high schools. On two previous occasions the Chicago Stadium was crowded for Lutheran services when the Rev. Dr. Walter A. Maier, noted radio preacher, and massed choirs were features of the occasion. W. F. Meyer, chairman of the rally, predicts another capacity Stadium crowd will again hear Dr. Maier.

The 2 million dollar project seeks half that amount for construction of new high schools on the northwest, west, and south sides of the city and an equal sum for the schools' endowments. Sites for the schools have not been selected.

Reports 12,000 Eligible

Edwin Schiewe, president of the Lutheran High School association, under whose auspices the project will be launched, said 12,000 graduates of Lutheran parochial schools are eligible for admission to the new schools but at present the overcrowded Luther institute, 120 N. Wood st., is the only Lutheran high school in the city.

The Lutheran radio hour, with its 600 outlets thruout the world, will formally begin its 13th season with the Stadium service. It is sponsored by the Lutheran Business and Professional group and the Lutheran Laymen's league, with Carl F. Wolff the managing director of the event.

Two Spiritual Advisors

Other members of the committee include Oscar Cagann, Victor Larson, Louis Menking, and Herman Lenz, with the Reverends A. E. Brauer and Arthur H. Kaub as spiritual advisors.

Fifteen hundred Lutheran service men and women, either discharged or in service, will be rally guests, and the massed mixed choir and the Chicago Lutheran Children's choir, each of 1,000 voices, featured at the recent Chicago Music Festival, will offer selections at the rally.

Gardeners of Lake Bluff Display Products Today

Gardeners of Lake Bluff will display their products today at the village fire house in a garden harvest roundup.

HENRY FORD II. HEAD OF VAST MOTOR EMPIRE

Founder, 82, Yields to Grandson, 28

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 21 (AP)—Henry Ford II., 28, today became president of the billion dollar Ford Motor company. He took over the top post in the far-flung Ford empire after announcement of the resignation of his grandfather, Henry Ford, who founded the family owned enterprise in 1903.

In an interview, young Ford said: "No wage is too high—$50 a day isn't too high—as long as it is earned, but $1 a day is too high if it isn't earned."

He said his main objectives, as they were when he was executive vice president of the company for two years, were: "To put the Ford company back in first place in production and sales." [Ford car sales totals ran second to Chevrolet thruout most of the decade preceding the war.]

Retires Second Time

The elder Ford, who is 82, told the company's board of directors:

"I feel free to take this step at this time because the critical period during which I again assumed office has passed. As you know, I have many personal interests to which I now desire to devote most of my time."

The elder Ford turned the presidency over to his son, Edsel B. Ford, on Dec. 31, 1918. He took over the helm again on June 1, 1943, a few days after Edsel Ford's death.

Unlike his father and his grandfather, young Henry Ford is of robust physique. He brings to his new post a tremendous capacity for work and an intense interest in economics and sociology. At Yale, where he completed his formal education, he majored in sociology after a year in engineering, which he admitted frankly he didn't like.

Young Ford managed to show the new 1946 model Ford car last July 6, less than two days after the date authorized by the war production board for resumption of civilian car production.

After turning out nearly 1,000 cars, however, Ford was forced to close the assembly plants because of strikes among supplier firms.

Young Ford is informal. He writes with his left hand, and rarely wears a hat.

Born in Detroit, he was educated at Detroit university, Hotchkiss school at Lakeville, Conn., and Yale. He was married July 13, 1940, to Miss Anne McDonnell, at Southampton, L. I. They have two daughters.

At the outbreak of the war he enlisted in the navy, and was discharged with a lieutenant's commission in 1943 following the death of his father. He has two brothers in service, Benson and William Ford, and a sister, Josephine.

Ford is interested in aviation, but does not believe its development will cut into the automobile business.

Broad Knowledge of Labor

Close associates of the new Ford president credit him with a broad knowledge of the history, background, and aspirations of organized labor, and add that he regards money as only a basic essential of production and human welfare.

The elder Ford said he planned to remain on the Ford board of directors "and to assist in an advisory way." The "other personal interests" he referred to presumably have to do with further developing farm products for use in industry—an almost lifetime obsession.

The elder Ford has appeared little in public during the last year, but at his offices it was said his health was "all right" and was not a factor in his decision again to relinquish the company presidency.

Tax Suit Is Filed Against American Electric Fusion

The government yesterday filed suit in the United States District court to collect $280,618 of unpaid taxes from the American Electric Fusion corporation, 2610 Diversey av. John Kiely, assistant United States attorney, said the company is accused of failure to pay taxes on excess profits made during the war.

39 Million in Municipal Financing Is Scheduled

New York, Sept. 21 (AP)—The Daily Bond Buyer today reported municipal issues scheduled for sale next week totaled $39,229,650, compared with $7,636,884 this week.

HALF BILLION PROGRAM

What details are available regarding General Motors corporation's 500 million dollar reconversion and plant expansion program?—H. Y.

Broadly, the corporation's plans involve expansion, modernization, and extensive replacement of its facilities to meet post-war needs "in proper balance between short term and long term prospects."

Among specific projects announced is the General Motors technical center, to be constructed on a 350 acre site near Detroit to house advanced research and engineering activities. Some estimates are that the cost will be about 20 millions.

The corporation's Electro-Motive division recently completed an addition which increased the floor space of its La Grange plant 25 per cent. Work has been started on the first of three large buildings to be constructed at Pontiac, Mich., for the truck and coach division.

New assembly plants projected include one near Kansas City, Mo., to cost $6,580,000, another at Wilmington, Del., and possibly one at Atlanta, Ga. A factory is to be built near Elyria, O., to make hub caps, bumper guards, and grills. Chevrolet will spend about 3 millions at its Norwood, O., plant, besides its Flint, Mich., expansion plans. The Fisher Body division plans new plants in Ohio. Buick, Cadillac, Oldsmobile, and Pontiac divisions all have extensive development programs.

The probable extent of the corporation's rehabilitation of its European plants, only 30 per cent of which remain in operating condition, has not been announced.

PEOPLE AND EVENTS

Col. John Slezak, reserve officer who left the presidency of Turner Brass Works, Sycamore, Ill., to return to service when the war began, has been awarded the legion of merit in recognition of his work with the machine tools division of the army-navy munitions board and as chief of the industrial division of the Chicago ordnance district. The citation credited Col. Slezak with the development of a production forecasting control which assisted the general staff in the strategic planning of offensive action by American troops.

Col. John Slezak

Harold W. Gibbs has resigned from Doremus & Co. to become associated with the Chicago financial advertising staff of J. Walter Thompson company.

B. K. Wickstrum, Pacific coast sales manager of Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., has been appointed midwestern sales manager with headquarters in Chicago.

B. K. Wickstrum

What the packaging engineer means to management will be explained to the Industrial Packaging Engineers Association of America by Eugene Preston, sales manager of corroflex division of Sherman Paper Products, at the association's meeting Monday in the Sherman hotel.

Marshall Field & Co.'s manufacturing division announced the appointment of E. K. Beauchamp of Karastan Rug Mills Chicago office as assistant sales manager of Karastan with new headquarters in New York. E. A. Raventos, Karastan sales manager, will also serve as sales manager of Zion Lace Curtain mill.

John Mahon has returned to Russell T. Gray, Inc., Chicago industrial advertising agency, after four years with the navy.

H. W. Nagel of the sales division of Edison General Electric Appliance company has been appointed manager of the Chicago sales district.

H. W. Nagel

James A. Frye, for 16 years Detroit district representative of the Stromberg-Carlson company, has been appointed manager of radio and appliance sales in Chicago.

The recent reorganization and new merchandising policies of the National Tea company will be discussed by Harley McNamara, vice president and general manager, at the Grocery Manufacturers Sales Executives' luncheon Monday in the Sherman hotel.

S. Buchsbaum & Co., Chicago manufacturer of men's accessories, has been awarded a star addition to its army-navy E flag for excellent work in production of essential items.

ICC Approves Alton Sale to Gulf, Mobile

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21 (AP)—The interstate commerce commission today authorized the Gulf, Mobile, and Ohio railroad to purchase the Alton railroad and approved a reorganization plan separating the Alton lines from the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

The reorganization plan will include the Kansas City, St. Louis, and Chicago railroad, an Alton subsidiary. The ICC refused to approve a reorganization plan for the Louisiana and Missouri River railroad, another subsidiary.

Capitalization Will Be Cut

The capitalization of the Alton and its subsidiaries—$89,355,351 on Jan. 1, 1945—is to be reduced in the reorganization to $40,895,537 for addition to the capital structure of the Gulf Mobile.

The Alton's fixed charges in 1944 totaled $1,931,698. Fixed charges on the securities and leases to be issued or assumed by the Gulf Mobile will total $328,807 as of Jan. 1, 1945. Contingent charges including sinking fund will amount to $1,020,375.

Defers Action on Debt

The commission deferred action on the Gulf Mobile's proposed assumption of obligation for $2,093,890 of Kansas City, St. Louis, and Chicago first mortgage 4½ per cent bonds, on lease of the properties of the Kansas City, St. Louis, and Chicago, and acquisition of trackage rights over the Front st. line of the St. Louis Terminal railroad.

Under the reorganization plan, holders of Alton bonds will receive for principal and interest on each $1,000 bond, $500 in new income bonds and 7¼ shares of the Gulf Mobile's new common stock.

RETAILER SALES STEADY IN WEEK, ABOVE YEAR AGO

New York, Sept. 21 (AP)—Retail sales in the last week were 2 to 6 per cent higher than a year ago and about even with the preceding week, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reported today.

Volume dropped in some southern areas where stores were closed because of the hurricane, and Pacific coast sales were lower than a year ago.

Midget radios began to appear on counters and were bought immediately. Limited quantities of electrical appliances—toasters, ironers, and washing machines—also returned.

Stewart-Warner Starts Radio Production Test

Stewart-Warner corporation yesterday began a test run of 14 post-war radio models on one of its four production lines, on which it expects to turn out 5,000 sets daily when maximum production is attained.

DEMAND FOR FOREIGN SILVER LARGE; BOOST IN PRICE UPSETS PESO

New York, Sept. 21 (AP)—Substantial buying of foreign silver at the new price of 70⅝ cents an ounce, raised overnight from 44⅝ cents to the domestic silver price, was reported today. Demand exceeded offerings.

The Bank of Mexico discontinued issuing silver money in Mexico City because the new price in the United States made the peso worth 27 cents instead of the normal face value of 20 cents. New York financial circles expected the Mexican government either to call in the money and debase it or clamp an embargo on silver exports to block a 20 per cent profit in the sale abroad of Mexican pesos.

In Bombay, India, industrial stocks advanced about 3 per cent with the silver price rise, but this was regarded as purely psychological because no way was known in which India could get silver to the United States market. Silver was quoted in London at 25½ pence, or about 42 cents.

The OPA lifted the ceiling on foreign silver from 45 cents an ounce to the 71 cent domestic silver level to end a "deadlock" in the trade since Aug. 20, when the government ceased allocating silver to industry. Dealers said the situation was "intolerable" because it resulted in two prices for the same commodity, which could not be allotted privately without discrimination.

ROCKET FRATE TRAINS PLANNED BY ROCK ISLAND

Plans to put in operation a fleet of fast Rocket frate trains on the Rock Island Lines were announced yesterday by J. D. Farrington, chief executive officer of the road. They will be powered by specially designed high speed diesel electric locomotives of the type that pull the road's Rocket passenger trains.

"Since our diesel powered Rockets were inaugurated in passenger service in 1937," Farrington said, "they have furnished fast, streamlined, dependable service that has had great public acceptance. We recognize that shippers, too, require fast dependable frate service and we are preparing to meet that demand. The Rocket frates will be equipped with radio."

Burlington Buses Return to Fast Schedules Oct. 1

Bus service of Burlington Trailways, Burlington railroad subsidiary, will return to pre-war fast schedules on Oct. 1, cutting as much as 20 hours off traveling time on the Chicago-Los Angeles and Chicago-San Francisco routes, Robert S. Caird, passenger traffic manager, said yesterday.

Castings Price Curb Held Bar to Conversion

A 10 per cent price increase granted the gray iron foundry industry for castings, effective this week, is not enough to provide needed relief and manufacturers requiring castings to get started on all kinds of civilian products will be little better off than before, Chicago foundry executives said yesterday.

R. D. Phelps, president of Francis & Nygren Foundry company and chairman of the OPA gray iron castings advisory committee, said the increase to above prices of the base period of Aug. 1, 1941, to Feb. 1, 1942, will help in the case of castings made thruout the war and still being made, but it will not help in the case of articles not being made.

Plan Try for New Price Hike

Castings for washers, printing presses, trucks, and thousands of other items not manufactured during the war will not be benefitted, he said, thus blocking the whole reconversion schedule at its source.

Phelps said the industry advisory committee will meet with OPA officials in Chicago Wednesday in an effort to obtain higher prices. Otherwise, he said, foundries will refuse to sell at a loss. One which needed an increase of 20 per cent to cover higher labor and raw materials costs will be little tempted at the prospect of losing only 10 per cent instead of the entire 20 per cent.

Phelps said a lawnmower manufacturer who needed 2 million pounds of castings recently wrote he could get only half of them because of present foundry conditions, delaying mower output. This was termed an example of what was happening in nearly every field of manufacturing.

Labor also Top Problem

Other foundry executives said lack of labor ranked with price difficulties in limiting castings output. Foundries were not in the top priority man power category during the war, and have not been able to recruit additional help so far in a majority of cases.

Meanwhile, manufacturers dependent on castings to start their output said they can get nowhere until pricing difficulties are settled.

A Chicago washer and ironer manufacturer said his supplier had served notice that it would be unable to provide him with the type of castings he needed. He was forced to go to another foundry, whose legal price ceiling was higher. Yet the manufacturer said he cannot include the increase in castings in the ceiling price for his finished product. He termed the castings situation only one aspect of the OPA price squeeze on manufacturers.

A. & P. USES OLD RECORD TO FIGHT TRUST CHARGES

Danville, Ill., Sept. 21 (AP)—Counsel for the New York Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company today produced records of 1932 executive meetings to disprove the government's charge the company purposely operated stores at a loss to injure competition. The company and 28 officers and subsidiaries are on trial before Federal District Judge Walter C. Lindley on anti-trust charges.

Defense Atty. William Acton read an excerpt from minutes of a meeting of company executives at Detroit, Mich., in 1932:

"While we agree red figure stores cannot be eliminated entirely, we should not give up all hope of bringing them into the black; to close ruthlessly may throw some other store into the same classification."

BRITAIN FREES MANY GOODS OF EXPORT CONTROL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Sept. 21—Extending the drive to regain its export trade, Britain tonight released a wide range of manufactured goods from export licensing control to facilitate their sale abroad.

Controls were dropped from all machinery except some kinds of farm and construction machines, all vehicles except trucks, tractors, and diesel engines; all instruments and apparatus, except some surgical appliances, instrument jewels, and a few similar items; most electrical goods except cooking and heating appliances; aluminum utensils, locomotives, other rail vehicles, ships, most goods made of cotton, silk and artificial silk, and clocks and watches.

BENTON EMPLOYES TO VOTE

The national labor relations board has ordered an election among employes of the Edison General Electric Appliance company of Benton, Ill., to determine if they wish to be represented by District 50, United Mine Workers of America, the AFL International Association of Machinists, or neither.

KAISER-FRAZER TO CAPITALIZE AT 20 MILLION

Stock to Be Offered Public at $10

The Kaiser-Frazer corporation, newly organized automobile manufacturing company, will have a capitalization of approximately 20 million dollars and will begin operations with an experienced staff of managers, production men, engineers, and salesmen.

These and other details were disclosed yesterday thru the company's registration of its stock with the securities and exchange commission and thru announcements by Henry J. Kaiser, chairman of the board of directors, and Joseph W. Frazer, president.

Offering Price $10

The company registered with the SEC 5 million shares of $1 par common stock, of which 2,200,000 shares will be issued presently and 2,800,000 will remain authorized but unissued. The public offering price will be $10 a share.

Kaiser interests and Graham-Paige Motors corporation, of which Frazer is president, each have purchased 250,000 shares at the public price, making their total investment 5 million dollars.

The other 1,700,000 issuing shares will be underwritten by a country-wide banking syndicate headed by Otis & Co., Cleveland, and including First California company, San Francisco, and Allen & Co., New York. These funds and the amount subscribed by the Kaiser and Frazer interests, less underwriting expenses, brings the capital to about 20 million dollars.

Leases Plant Five Years

The corporation's lease of the big war time bomber plant at Willow Run, Mich., announced several days ago, runs five years and provides the new company with a manufacturing area of about 2,650,000 square feet. Terms call for payment of $500,000 the first year, $850,000 the second, and $1,200,000 the third, fourth, and fifth years.

The new corporation will draw upon the resources and experience of the veteran automobile management of Graham-Paige, which will move its manufacturing facilities to Willow Run after leasing its present plant to the surplus property division of the Reconstructon Finance corporation.

At Willow Run Kiser-Frazer will make its low price car, the Kaiser, and Graham-Paige will turn out its new medium price car, the Frazer, and a line of tractors and farm implements. Both cars will be full sized, six passenger automobiles.

PRICES OF OATS AND RYE MAKE BROAD SWINGS

Evening up operations in September grain contracts caused wide price changes, especially in oats and rye, yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. September oats had a range of 2½ cents and closed at 61¼ to 59½ cents a bushel, against 61¾ cents at the finish Thursday. September rye was traded at $1.58½ to $1.54 at the close, compared with final sales at $1.55¾ to $1.55½ the preceding day. September wheat was firm from the start and closed at $1.71⅛ to $1.71½, a gain of about ¾ cents. September barley at $1.10 was off ½.

Distant deliveries of wheat were unsettled, ending unchanged to ⅛ lower after December had sold at $1.70¾ early, a new seasonal peak. Corn was unchanged to ¼ higher, oats ⅛ to ⅝ lower, barley unchanged to ½ higher, and rye ¾ to 1⅜ lower.

QUEBEC BOOSTS TIMBER CUTTING FOR NEWSPRINT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

QUEBEC, Que., Sept. 21—Pulp and paper companies in the province of Quebec have obtained authorization to cut 286,816,157 cubic feet of timber this season for newsprint, a large part of it scheduled for United States markets.

Representing a substantial increase over last year's operations, these grants by the department of lands and forests to Aug. 31 are expected to be boosted further by later permits.

A total of 9,739,810 cubic feet of timber already has been cut in the province, about 1 million more than a year ago, but this was not for the winter newsprint cut which generally starts in September. Forestry officials expect the 1945-'46 season to be one of the most active in many years.

Extension of Air Conditioning to Family Auto Is Predicted

Air conditioning systems that will provide cool air for hot weather driving as well as warm air for winter were forecast yesterday for the American family "car of the future." Before the war this convenience was restricted to cars in the luxury class. It is not expected to be available soon for drivers of medium and low priced models.

"I believe that the car of the future will be equipped with an air cooling system," said W. R. Bellows, midwestern regional manager for the Packard Motor Car company. "Air cooling systems in Packard cars before the war proved highly successful and were in big demand by car owners in the south and southwest."

Coils Located in Trunk

Bellows said that about 100 air cooled Packards were sold in the Chicago territory before the war.

In the Packard system the compressor unit was under the hood and operated off the same drive as the fan belt. Pipes were connected with cooling coils located in the trunk and a fan drove the cool air thru a grill on the shelf behind the rear seat. Louvres could be adjusted to regulate the direction of the air flow to prevent drafts. The equipment took over much of the trunk space.

Cadillac also sold cars equipped with an air cooling system at a cost a little above $400. Operation was quite similar to that of Packard.

Improvements Forecast

A Cadillac spokesman said that some objections to the pre-war equipment would be removed as development continued, including installation of the equipment in a place other than the trunk. Weight should be reduced and cost lowered. He explained that the older models made it necessary to carry much excess weight in winter.

A Washington, D. C., automobile distributor was reported to have engineered a cooling system that can be installed in the average car for $275. Manufacturing arrangements have not been completed, however. In this system the cool air is driven from an opening in the ceiling of the car between the front and rear seats. Most of the mechanism is beneath the hood.

Stocks React Altho Mining Group Spurts

New York, Sept. 21 (AP)—Buyers again advanced some rails, utilities, and specialties in today's stock market, but many recent gainers were thrown for losses. Carriers enjoyed a flurry about midday, but the majority failed to follow thru.

Closing recessions of fractions to two or more points outnumbered gains by a moderate margin. Transfers of 1,340,000 shares compared with 1,500,000 yesterday.

Issues of mining companies with important production outside the United States were buoyed by the boosting of the import price on silver to the domestic level. Sale of a stock exchange seat for $72,000, an increase of $4,000, exemplified Wall st. optimism.

RAIL BONDS ADVANCE

New York, Sept. 21 (AP)—Many railroad issues showed improvement in the bond market today, but others were mostly lower. Advances of a point or more were recorded for Chesapeake & Ohio 4½s, Rock Island 4½s, Florida East Coast 5s, and International Great Northern 5s of '56 "B." Some Seaboard Air Line liens rose more than 2 points and Chicago & Alton 3s were up 1⅛ on sales of $406,000.

CHICAGO LIST GAINS

Prices closed higher in reduced turnover of 37,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Most actively traded were New York Central, up 1⅛; Studebaker, up ⅜; Wisconsin Bankshares, up ⅛, and Chicago corporation and Commonwealth Edison, both unchanged.

END TESTIMONY IN B. & O. ACTION; BRIEFS ORDERED

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 21 (AP)—A federal court took under advisement today the Baltimore and Ohio railroad's 500 million dollar debt adjustment plan, denying an objector's motion to dismiss the petition on grounds of "collusion, fraud, and noncompliance with the statute."

The motion was made by Randolph Phillips of New York, a B. & O. bondholder, who previously presented a set of modifications to the plan should the court find it was filed in good faith—which Phillips contended it should not.

The court ordered the railroad to file a brief within three weeks and Phillips to submit a reply by Nov. 5.

CABLE FLOWER ORDERS WILL BE RESUMED SOON

Cable purchase of flowers between the United States and all Europe, except Germany and Italy, will be resumed within 60 days, making it one of the first international businesses to return to a peace time basis, John Hunt of Dundee, Scotland, president of British Florist Telegraph, told American florists in the Palmer House yesterday.

Hunt will visit the Percy Jones hospital in Battle Creek, Mich., today to learn what is being done to train disabled veterans for a place in the florist business.

CABINET DISCUSSES CUTTING LOAN RATES TO FOREIGN NATIONS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21 (AP)—The United States is considering reducing the interest charges for loans to foreign nations, it was learned today. An authoritative financial source said such a plan had been discussed during a White House cabinet meeting today.

He did not reveal details but said "the way is clear" for the Export-Import bank to act on pending requests for loans by France, Belgium, and the Netherlands. Russian and Chinese representatives also were reported to have discussed loan prospects informally.

Foreign Economic Administrator Crowley disclosed that a 50 million dollar loan to Norway had been approved by the Export-Import bank, but had not been accepted by the Norwegian government. Wayne C. Taylor, president of the Export-Import bank, later told a reporter the deal would not be complete until Norwegian officials signed.

Interest rates currently charged by the bank vary with the type of credit involved but generally run about 3½ per cent.

QUAKER OATS PROFITS RISE MILLION IN YEAR; SALES SET NEW PEAK

Quaker Oats company yesterday reported another new record in sales and an increase of more than 1 million dollars in net profits during its fiscal year ended June 30, but cautioned stockholders that dollar volume did not always reflect unit volume. The report emphasized that Quaker had been operating "in a war market," and was "heading back into competitive markets and keen competition."

John Stuart, chairman, and R. Douglas Stuart, president, said that Quaker was more fortunate than many companies because no problem of reconverting factory equipment exists, but money will have to be spent in modernizing and replacing war weary equipment.

The management's post-war plans cover changes in mills to obtain better products at lower costs and to produce new items developed in Quaker laboratories. Research on both cereals and feed is continuing. An experimental farm is being established near Barrington for breeding research in dairy cattle and other stock.

Sales rose $8,436,498 from the 1944 fiscal year's previous record level to $151,083,671. Net income was $5,401,431, or $6.19 a share, against $4,279,433, or $4.58 a share.

THREE UTILITIES REGISTER BONDS, STOCK WITH SEC

Montana Power company yesterday registered with the securities and exchange commission 40 million dollars of 30 year first mortgage bonds to be sold thru competitive bidding. Proceeds and treasury funds will be used to redeem $44,202,000 of 3¾ per cent bonds of 1966.

Thirteen millions of bonds and 40,000 shares of preferred stock were registered by the Union Electric company, Missouri, for sale thru competitive bidding. From the proceeds promissory notes will be paid and other internal financial arrangements made.

California Water Service company registered $11,282,000 of 3¼ per cent mortgage bonds, 139,000 preferred shares and 29,142 common shares. The bonds will be offered publicly, but the preferred will be offered first in exchange for present 6 per cent preferred and the common to present common holders at $30 a share. The company will retire 4 per cent series B bonds and present preferred shares not exchanged.

PRICES OF LIVE STOCK STRONG; SUPPLY BIGGER

Meat animal prices were steady to higher on broad demand yesterday at the Chicago stock yards. Pressure against ceiling prices in cattle and hogs was the strongest since limits for live animals were established. Cattle receipts, 3,500 head, were largest for Friday since January. Five carloads of steers brought the $18 a hundred pounds top.

Receipts of sheep and lambs, 6,000, were largest for a Friday since June 8, but demand was strong and prices ruled steady to 15 cents higher.

Hog receipts continued abnormally low, with almost all offerings at ceiling prices.

Chicago Roof Firm Buys Babbitt-Barber Asphalt

Lloyd A. Fry Roofing company, Chicago, yesterday announced purchase of Babbitt-Barber Asphalt Products, Inc., with plants at Madison, Ill., and Brookville, Ind. The price was not disclosed.

NAVY SPEEDING WAR CONTRACT SETTLEMENTS

Held Aid to Civilian Goods Production

Navy plans to hasten the settlement of outstanding claims of war contractors as one means of expediting civilian production were disclosed yesterday by Capt. W. E. Malloy, inspector of navy material for the Chicago area of the 9th naval district. He said nearly 7,000 contractors in the Chicago area have been notified of order termination.

Capt. W. E. Malloy

Contracts totaling more than 350 million dollars in claims await final settlement in the area before the navy can get out of business except for its heavily reduced procurement for post-war needs.

Sets Christmas Goal

Capt. Malloy said the navy is asking that all contractors file contract termination claims by Oct. 15 to help the navy meet its goal of settling all claims by Christmas.

"It is a matter of outstanding national importance that final settlement of terminated contracts be made at once," Capt. Malloy said. "The navy in Chicago has trained and has on hand 950 naval officers and civilian experts to bring this work to a speedy end. We want to get this work done while we have this large staff of experts whom we are pledged to return to civilian life as soon as possible."

Large partial payments are possible in advance of settlement within 30 days after the contractor applies, he said. Inspectors of material and inventory disposal experts are available thru his office in room 1500, Board of Trade building, to help Chicago contractors with their problems.

Speedy Conversion Needed

"During the peak of the demand within the last 18 months navy contractors in the Chicago area were producing navy goods and weapons of war costing about 180 million dollars a month," Capt. Malloy asserted. "These 7,000 contractors—about 15 per cent of the total engaged in navy production—turned in an outstanding job of war production. Now we must win the peace. Speedy conversion to the production of civilian goods is the order of the day.

"Opportunities for employment in civilian production must be made for workers in war plants who turned out the goods for the navy. Employment must be available for service men returning to civilian life.

Required to Clear Plants

"The navy is ready to make way just as soon as it has settled all outstanding claims, but until the contractors file these claims, the basis for settlement does not exist. It is the navy's goal to settle all outstanding claims within 60 days of filing."

Capt. Malloy said settlement is necessary to clear plants of government owned material and machines. This can be hastened while the Chicago office has a full staff of experts.
